DECISION AND RECOMMENDED ORDER
ON SUMMARY DISPOSITION

This case arises from unfair labor practice charges filed on April 26, 2013, by Theresa Osburn against her Employer, Novi Community Schools, and her Union, International Union of Operating Engineers (IUOE), Local 324. Pursuant to Sections 10 and 16 of the Public Employment Relations Act (PERA), 1965 PA 379, as amended, MCL 423.210 and 423.216, the charges were consolidated and assigned to David M. Peltz, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) of the Michigan Administrative Hearing System, acting on behalf of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC).

The charge in Case No. C13 E-076; Docket No. 13-002201-MERC, alleges that Osburn's supervisor Cindy Valentine, harassed Osburn following a school bus accident which occurred in late September of 2012. Osburn asserts that Valentine has treated her differently than other employees and has engaged in "excessive write-ups and heavy handed punishment." In Case No. CU13 E-019; Docket No. 13-002777-MERC, Osburn contends that the Union failed to take action on her behalf with respect to discipline she received on January 29, 2013 and March 7, 2013, and that the IUOE acted unlawfully in refusing to have her sworn in as a Union member in a timely manner. Osburn further asserts that she is representing all of the school district's bus drivers on an allegation that Union representatives have consistently failed to represent bargaining unit members during the past four years. In a proposed amendment to the charge filed on May 13, 2013, Osburn requests that the Commission hold a meeting with all of the Novi bus drivers, view footage from security cameras located in the school busses and in the bus yard and conduct a "full investigation" into the conduct of the school district and the Union.

In an order issued on May 23, 2013, I directed Osburn to show cause why the charges should not be dismissed without a hearing for failure to state a claim under PERA. The order specified that Osburn was required to file a response and simultaneously serve copies on both the school district and the Union by no later than June 13, 2013. To date, no response has been received, nor has Charging Party requested an extension of time in which to file such a response.

Discussion and Conclusions of Law:

The failure of a charging party to respond to an order to show cause may, in and of itself, warrant dismissal of the charge. Detroit Federation of Teachers, 21 MPER 3 (2008). In any event, accepting all of the allegations in the charge as true, dismissal of the charge on summary disposition is warranted.

Commission Rule 423.165 allows for a pre-hearing dismissal of a charge, or for a ruling in favor of the charging party. In the instant case, it appears that dismissal of the charges without a hearing is warranted on the ground that Charging Party has failed to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. With respect to public employers, the Act does not prohibit all types of discrimination or unfair treatment, nor does the Act provide a remedy for an employer's breach of a collective bargaining agreement. The Commission's jurisdiction with respect to claims brought by individual employees against public employers is limited to determining whether the employer interfered with, restrained, and/or coerced a public employee with respect to his or her right to engage in union or other concerted activities protected by PERA. In the instant case, the charge against Novi Community Schools does not provide a factual basis which would support a finding that Osburn engaged in union activities for which she was subjected to discrimination or retaliation in violation of the Act. Therefore, it appears that dismissal of the charge against the Employer in Case No. C13 E-076; Docket No. 13-002201-MERC, is warranted.

Similarly, there is no factually supported allegation against the IUOE in Case No. CU13 E-019; Docket No. 13-002777-MERC, which, if proven, would establish that the Union acted arbitrarily, discriminatorily or in bad faith with respect to Osburn. A union's duty of fair representation is comprised of three distinct responsibilities: (1) to serve the interests of all members without hostility or discrimination toward any; (2) to exercise its discretion in complete good faith and honesty, and (3) to avoid arbitrary conduct. Vaca v Sipes, 386 US 171 (1967); Goolsby v Detroit, 419 Mich 651 (1984). The union's actions will be held to be lawful as long as they are not so far outside a wide range of reasonableness as to be irrational. Air Line Pilots Ass'n v O'Neill, 499 US 65, 67 (1991); City of Detroit, Fire Dep't, 1997 MERC Lab Op 31, 34-35. To pursue such a claim, Charging Party must allege and be prepared to prove not only a breach of the duty of fair representation by the Union, but also a breach of the collective bargaining agreement by the Employer. Knoke v E Jackson Pub Sch Dist, 201 Mich App 480, 485 (1993); Martin v E Lansing Sch Dist, 193 Mich App 166, 181 (1992).

The Commission has steadfastly refused to interject itself in judgments over agreements made by employers and collective bargaining representatives, despite frequent challenge by employees. City of Flint, 1996 MERC Lab Op 1, 11. The fact that an individual member is dissatisfied with the union's efforts or ultimate decision is insufficient to constitute a breach of the duty of fair representation. Eaton Rapids Ed Assoc, 2001 MERC Lab Op 131. Because the union's ultimate duty is toward the membership as a whole, the union is not required to follow the dictates of the individual employee, but rather it may investigate and take the action it determines to be best. A labor organization has the legal discretion to make judgments about the general good of the membership and to proceed on such judgments, despite the fact that they may conflict with the desires or interests of certain employees. Lansing Sch Dist, 1989 MERC Lab Op 210, 218.

In the instant case, Charging Party has failed to adequately explain how the actions of the Union constitute a violation of PERA. There is no factually supported allegation which would establish that the Union acted arbitrarily, discriminatorily or in bad faith toward Osburn.[1] Although Charging Party takes exception to the representation she received from the Union, there is no factually supported allegation which, if true, would establish that the IUOE was hostile to Osburn, that it treated her differently than other, similarly situated bargaining unit members or that it in any manner acted arbitrarily, discriminatorily or in bad faith in connection with this matter. As noted above, a union has the legal discretion to make judgments about the general good of the membership and to proceed on such judgments, despite the fact that they may conflict with the desires or interests of certain employees. To this end, the Michigan Supreme Court has held, "When the general good conflicts with the needs or desires of an individual member, the discretion of the union to choose the former is paramount." Lowe v Hotel Employees, 389 Mich 123, 146 (1973).

Despite having been given a full and fair opportunity to do so, Charging Party has failed to set forth any factually supported allegation which, if true, would establish that either Respondent violated PERA. Accordingly, I conclude that the charges must be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted and recommend that the Commission issue the following order.

RECOMMENDED ORDER

The unfair labor practice charges filed by Theresa Osburn against Novi Community Schools and the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 324 in Case Nos. C13 E-076 & CU13 E-019; Docket Nos. 13-002201-MERC & 13-002777, are hereby dismissed in their entireties.
