HEARING DECISION

This matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and MCL 400.37 upon claimant's request for a hearing. After due notice, a hearing was held on February 1, 2010.

ISSUE

Was the claimant's FAP assistance properly closed for failure to cooperate with the Office of Child Support?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the competent, material and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

- (1) On November 2, 2009, DHS received a notice of non-cooperation from the Office of Child Support regarding claimant's alleged failure to respond to an OCS investigation or provide required information regarding the non-custodial parent.
- (2) Claimant was a FAP benefit recipient.

- (3) Claimant was notified that her FAP case would close effective January 1, 2010.
- (4) Claimant requested a hearing on December 7, 2009, arguing that she had been cooperative.
- (5) OCS did not testify at the hearing.
- (6) Claimant had attempted to contact OCS prior to the non-cooperation letter but was unable to reach a specialist.
- (7) OCS deemed this noncooperation.
- (8) No documentation or any other evidence was presented at the hearing with regard to the alleged non-cooperation.
- (9) Claimant wishes to seek child support from the non-custodial parent.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Child Development and Care program is established by Titles IVA, IVE and XX of the Social Security Act, the Child Care and Development Block Grant of 1990, and the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996. The program is implemented by Title 45 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Parts 98 and 99. The Department of Human Services (DHS or department) provides services to adults and children pursuant to MCL 400.14(1) and MAC R 400.5001-5015. Department policies are contained in the Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), the Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM) and the Bridges Reference Manual (BRM).

Regulations governing the Office of Child Support (OCS) can be found in the IV-D Manual (4DM).

Clients must comply with all requests for action or information needed to establish paternity and/or obtain child support on behalf of children for whom they receive assistance, unless a claim of good cause for not cooperating has been granted or is pending. Failure to cooperate without good cause results in disqualification. Disqualification includes member removal, denial of program benefits, and/or case closure, depending on the program. BEM 255.

Non-cooperation exists when a client, without good cause, willfully and repeatedly fails or refuses to provide information and/or take an action resulting in delays or prevention of support action. 4DM 115.

Before finding a client non-cooperative, the Support Specialist must establish and document that the client failed and/or refused to provide known or obtainable information and/or to take an action without an acceptable reason or excuse. 4DM 115. The goal of the cooperation requirement is to obtain support. Support specialists should find non-cooperation only as a last resort. There is no minimum information requirement. 4DM 115.

Several factors may affect a client's ability to remember or obtain information. In evaluating cooperation, the Support Specialist should consider such factors as client's marital status, duration of relationship and length of time since last contact with the non-custodial parent. A client who was married to the non-custodial parent or knew the putative father for several months can reasonably be expected to provide identifying and location information. The extent and age of location information obtainable may be affected by how long it has been since the parties last lived together or had personal contact. 4DM 115.

A client can be required to cooperate by attesting under oath to the lack of information regarding an absent parent. This may assist in determining cooperation in cases in which a client's willingness to cooperate is questionable but there is insufficient evidence for a finding of non-cooperation. 4DM 115.

In order to prove its case, OCS must provide documentation of the information and/or action requested of the client and that the client knew or could obtain the information or comply with the requested action. 4DM 115.

OCS contends that claimant was non-cooperative with a child support investigation, and for that reason, her benefits were ceased.

However, beyond the initial letter indicating non-cooperation, the Department has failed to provide any evidence at all that claimant did not cooperate. The IV-D manual requires that OCS document exactly how the claimant was non-cooperative. No such documentation was ever presented. Furthermore, the manual states that OCS must present this documentation at a hearing in order to meet its burden of proof. It did not. It did not even send an officer to testify as to the alleged non-cooperation.

Even if the Administrative Law Judge were inclined to accept the letter as proof in itself, claimant's testimony shows that the non-cooperation determination was flawed under the Department's own regulations.

Claimant was allegedly found non-cooperative because she failed to contact OCS in regard to a request for contact. Claimant credibly testified that she attempted to contact OCS on several occasions but could not get a call returned. Furthermore, claimant testified that she wishes to have assistance in securing child support, and was not non-cooperative. The Department did not provide any evidence or testimony that contradicted claimant's allegations and statements. As such, the undersigned must find claimant credible and therefore, cooperative.

There is no evidence of any sort to support a finding of non-cooperation.

For these reasons, the undersigned finds that the Department has not met its burden of proof in determining that the claimant was non-cooperative—all negative actions against the claimant should be removed.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, decides that the Department's decision to close claimant's FAP case was incorrect.

Accordingly, the Department's decision is, hereby, REVERSED.

The Department is ORDERED to restore claimant's benefits retroactively to the date of negative action, and remove the letter of non-cooperation from claimant's Department file.
