CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (“MA”) program is established by Subchapter XIX of Chapter 7 of The Public Health & Welfare Act, 42 USC 1397, and is administered by the Department of Human Services (“DHS”), formerly known as the Family Independence Agency, pursuant to MCL 400.10 et seq and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Program

Administrative Manual (“PAM”), the Program Eligibility Manual (“PEM”), and the Program Reference Manual (“PRM”).

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905(a) The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CFR 413.913 An individual’s subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a) Similarly, conclusory statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927

When determining disability, the federal regulations require several factors to be considered including: (1) the location/duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant’s pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicants takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and (4) the effect of the applicant’s pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3) The applicant’s pain must be assessed to determine the extent of his or her functional limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2)

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1) The five-step analysis requires the trier of fact to consider an individual's current work activity; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to determine whether an individual can perform past relevant work; and residual functional capacity along with vocational factors (i.e. age, education, and work experience) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945

If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step, a determination or decision is made with no need evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4) If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabled, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4) If an impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment, an individual's residual functional capacity is assessed before moving from step three to step four. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945 Residual functional capacity is the most an individual can do despite the limitations based on all relevant evidence. 20 CFR 945(a)(1) An individual's residual functional capacity assessment is evaluated at both steps four and five. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4) In determining disability, an individual's functional capacity to perform basic work activities is evaluated and if found that the individual has the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitation, disability will not be found. 20 CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv)

In general, the individual has the responsibility to prove disability. 20 CFR 416.912(a) An impairment or combination of impairments is not severe if it does not significantly limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.921(a) An individual is not disabled regardless of the medical condition, age, education, and work experience, if the individual is working and the work is a substantial, gainful activity. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(i) The individual has the responsibility to provide evidence of prior work experience; efforts to work; and any other factor showing how the impairment affects the ability to work. 20 CFR 416.912(c)(3)(5)(6) In the record presented, the Claimant is not involved in substantial gainful activity and last worked in approximately 2001. The Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of disability benefits under Step 1.

The severity of the Claimant's alleged impairment(s) is considered under Step 2. The Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. In order to be considered disabled for MA purposes, the impairment must be severe. 20 CFR 916.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 916.920(b) An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 916.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 916.920(c) Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 916.921(b) Examples include:

1. Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;
2. Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
3. Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
4. Use of judgment;
5. Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
6. Dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

Id. The second step allows for dismissal of a disability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). The severity requirement may still be employed as an administrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint. Id. at 863 citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985) An impairment qualifies as non-severe only if, regardless of a claimant's age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the claimant's ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985)

In the present case, the Claimant alleges physical disability due to chronic back pain, arthritis, severe chronic obstructive pulmonary disease ("COPD"), emphysema, asthma, and renal failure.

On [REDACTED], the Claimant was admitted to the hospital with complaints of fever, shortness of breath and breathing difficulty with signs of fatigue. The Claimant was treated, in part, with IV steroids due to her chronic obstructive pulmonary disease ("COPD") exacerbation. The Claimant ongoing history for COPD exacerbation treatment was also documented. The Claimant was discharged on [REDACTED] [REDACTED] with the diagnoses of acute renal failure, COPD, thrombocytopenia, hypertension, hyperglycemia, and hypophosphatemia.

On [REDACTED], the Claimant's primary care physician completed a Medical Examination Report on behalf of the Claimant. The current diagnoses were COPD, emphysema, and hyperkalemia. The physical examination was abnormal in all areas and the Claimant's condition was listed as deteriorating. The Claimant was able to lift/carry less than 10 pounds; stand and/or walk less than 2 hours in an 8-hour workday; sit less than 6 hours during an 8 hour workday; and able to perform simple grasping and reaching with both upper extremities. Mental limitations were noted with memory, sustained concentration, and comprehension.

On [REDACTED], the Claimant's long-term treating physician completed a Medical Examination Report on behalf of the Claimant. The current diagnoses were COPD, emphysema, hypertension, depression, arthritis, back pain, and migraines. The physical examination was abnormal in all areas finding the Claimant's condition as deteriorating. The Claimant was unable to lift any weight with sitting restricted to less than 6 hours during an 8 hour workday. The Claimant required a wheelchair and walker for ambulation and was found unable to meet the demands of daily activity.

The [REDACTED] Spirometry Report documented the Forced Vital Capacity ("FVC") pre-medication as 1.50, 1.66, and 1.64. The FVC after medication was 1.58, 1.61, 1.66. The Forced Expiratory Volume ("FEV<sub>1</sub>") pre-medication was .47, .49, .53 and .49, .52, and .49 post medication. The Claimant was found with a very severe obstruction with no significant improvement post medication.

On [REDACTED], a treating physician completed a Medical Examination Report on behalf of the Claimant. The current diagnoses were shortness of breath (for 5 years and worsening) and "very severe" COPD. The Claimant's condition was deteriorating and she had a poor prognosis. The Claimant was unable to lift any weight and required an assistive device for ambulation. The physician stated that the Claimant may need a lung transplant noting her FVC of 1.64 and the FEV<sub>1</sub> of .53.

On or about [REDACTED], a Medical Examination Report was completed on behalf of the Claimant. The current diagnosis was severe COPD and the Claimant's condition was deteriorating. The Claimant was unable to lift any weight and the need for an assistive device was also documented.

As previously noted, the Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairment(s). As summarized above, the Claimant has presented objective medical evidence establishing that she does have physical limitations on her ability to perform basic work activities. Accordingly, the Claimant has an impairment, or combination thereof, that has more than a de minimis effect on the Claimant's basic work activities. Further, the impairments have lasted, or are expected to last, continuously for a twelve month period therefore, the Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of MA-P benefits under Step 2.

In the third step of the sequential analysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. The Claimant has alleged disabling physical impairments due, in part, to COPD, emphysema, and severe asthma. Listing 3.00 defines respiratory system impairments. Respiratory disorders, along with any associated impairment(s), must be established by medical evidence sufficient enough in detail to evaluate the severity of the impairment. 3.00A Evidence must be provided in sufficient detail to permit an independent reviewer to evaluate the severity of the impairment. Id. A major criteria for determining the level of respiratory impairments that are episodic in nature, is the frequency and intensity of episodes that occur despite prescribed treatment. 3.00C Attacks of asthma, episodes of bronchitis or pneumonia or hemoptysis (more than blood-streaked sputum), or respiratory failure as referred to in paragraph B of 3.03, 3.04, and 3.07, are defined as prolonged symptomatic episodes lasting one or more days and requiring intensive treatment, such as intravenous bronchodilator or antibiotic administration or prolonged inhalational bronchodilator therapy in a hospital, emergency room or equivalent setting. 3.00C Hospital admissions are defined as inpatient hospitalizations for longer than 24 hours. Id. Medical evidence must include information documenting adherence to a prescribed regimen of treatment as well as a description of physical signs. Id. For asthma, medical evidence should include spirometric results obtained between attacks that document the presence of baseline airflow obstruction. Id.

Chronic asthmatic bronchitis (Listing 3.03A) is evaluated under Listing 3.02. Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, due to any cause, meets Listing 3.02 if medical evidence establishes that the Claimant's forced expiratory volume (in one second) is equal to or less than 1.05 (based on the Claimant's 5' height). Attacks of asthma and/or episodes of bronchitis as referred to in 3.03 and 3.07, in spite of prescribed treatment, that occur at least once every 2 months or at least six times a year are considered. Each in-patient hospitalization for longer than 24 hours counts as two attacks/episodes and an evaluation of at least 12 consecutive months must be used to determine the frequency of attacks/episodes. 3.03B; 3.07B For asthma, the medical evidence should include spirometric results obtained between attacks that document the presence of baseline airflow obstruction. 3.00C

In this case, the objective findings document the Claimant's severe COPD and asthma. The FEV<sub>1</sub> was well below the level required to meet Listing 3.02. The Claimant is on oxygen and her condition is deteriorating despite prescribed treatment. Ultimately, based upon the submitted medical documentation, it is found that the Claimant's physical disabling impairment meets the intent and severity requirements, or the equivalent thereof, of Listing 3.02. Accordingly, the Claimant is found disabled at Step 3 with no further analysis required.

2. The Department shall initiate review of the October 7, 2009 application to determine if all other non-medical criteria are met and inform the Claimant and her representative of the determination.
3. The Department shall supplement for any lost benefits the Claimant was entitled to receive if otherwise eligible and qualified in accordance with department policy.
4. The Department shall review the Claimant's continued eligibility in accordance department policy in March 2011.
