ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE
DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF:

[REDACTED]

Reg. No.: 2010-32582
Issue No.: 2009
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Load No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date: August 25, 2010
DHS County: Wayne (82)

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Linda Steadley Schwarb

HEARING DECISION

This matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and MCL 400.37 upon claimant's request for a hearing. After due notice, a hearing was held on August 25, 2010. Claimant appeared and testified. Claimant was represented by [REDACTED]. Following the hearing, the record was kept open for the receipt of additional medical evidence. Additional documents were received and reviewed.

ISSUE

Did the Department of Human Services (DHS or department) properly determine that claimant is not "disabled" for purposes of the Medical Assistance (MA-P) programs?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the competent, material and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. On January 25, 2010, an application was filed on claimant's behalf for MA-P benefits. The application requested MA-P retroactive to October of 2009.
2. On April 12, 2010, the department denied claimant's application for benefits based upon the belief that claimant did not meet the requisite disability criteria.
3. On April 22, 2010, claimant filed hearing request to protest the department's determination.
4. On July 9, 2010, claimant's authorized representative filed a hearing request to protest the department's determination.

5. Claimant, age 53, has high-school education.
6. Claimant's last relevant work was performed in 1999 as a cashier. Claimant has had no other relevant work experience. Claimant's relevant work history consists exclusively of unskilled work activities.
7. Claimant has a history of coronary artery disease, asthma, diabetes mellitus, depression, hypertension, cerebral vascular accident, and migraine headaches.
8. Claimant was hospitalized [REDACTED]. Her discharge diagnosis was unstable angina, numbness, diabetes Type II, hypertension, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, coronary artery disease, history of congestive heart failure, osteoarthritis, hypothyroidism, migraine, gastroesophageal reflux disease, and obesity.
9. Claimant was hospitalized [REDACTED]. She was diagnosed with dyspnea with bilateral lower lobe pneumonia, chest pain, hypertension, coronary artery disease, migraine headache, diabetes, gastroesophageal reflux disease, depression, anxiety, hypothyroidism, and hyperlipidemia.
10. Claimant was hospitalized [REDACTED]. Her discharge diagnosis was unstable angina, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease exacerbation, pneumonia, diabetes Type II, hypertension, congestive heart failure, coronary artery disease status post percutaneous transluminal coronary angioplasty, osteoarthritis, gastroesophageal reflux disease, hypothyroidism, migraine, and obesity.
11. Claimant was hospitalized [REDACTED]. Her final diagnosis was acute exacerbation of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, hypertension, Type II diabetes, atypical chest pain, and status post cardiac catheterization.
12. Claimant was hospitalized [REDACTED]. Her discharge diagnosis was atypical chest pain, diabetes mellitus Type II, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, and hyperlipidemia.
13. Claimant was hospitalized [REDACTED]. Her discharge diagnosis was atypical chest pain, diabetic gastroparesis, insulin-dependent diabetes mellitus, hypertension, dyslipidemia, morbid obesity, osteoarthritis, non-obstructive coronary artery disease, chronic obstructive lung disease, and probable obstructive sleep apnea.
14. Claimant currently suffers from coronary artery disease with history of myocardial infarction, catheterization, and stent placement; unstable angina; hyperlipidemia; hypertension; insulin-dependent diabetes mellitus; diabetic neuropathy; diabetic gastroparesis; chronic obstructive pulmonary disease; osteoarthritis; hypothyroidism; chronic migraine headaches; gastroesophageal reflux disease; morbid obesity; and major depressive disorder, recurrent.

15. Claimant has severe limitations upon her ability to walk, stand, lift, push, pull, reach, carry, or handle as well as limitations with responding appropriately to others and dealing with changes in a routine work setting. Claimant's limitations have lasted or are expected to last twelve months or more.
16. Claimant's complaints and allegations concerning her impairments and limitations, when considered in light of all objective medical evidence, as well as the record as a whole, reflect an individual who is so impaired as to be incapable of engaging in any substantial gainful activity on a regular and continuing basis.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act and is implemented by Title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The Department of Human Services (DHS or department) administers the MA program pursuant to MCL 400.10, et seq., and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Program Administrative Manual (BAM), the Program Eligibility Manual (BEM) and the Program Reference Manual (PRM).

Federal regulations require that the department use the same operative definition for "disabled" as used for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) under Title XVI of the Social Security Act. 42 CFR 435.540(a).

"Disability" is:

...the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months ... 20 CFR 416.905.

In determining whether an individual is disabled, 20 CFR 416.920 requires the trier of fact to follow a sequential evaluation process by which current work activity, the severity of the impairment(s), residual functional capacity, and vocational factors (i.e., age, education, and work experience) are assessed in that order. When a determination that an individual is or is not disabled can be made at any step in the sequential evaluation, evaluation under a subsequent step is not necessary.

First, the trier of fact must determine if the individual is working and if the work is substantial gainful activity. 20 CFR 416.920(b). In this case, claimant is not working. Therefore, claimant may not be disqualified for MA at this step in the sequential evaluation process.

Secondly, in order to be considered disabled for purposes of MA, a person must have a severe impairment. 20 CFR 416.920(c). A severe impairment is an impairment which significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to perform basic work activities. Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. Examples of these include:

- (1) Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying or handling;
- (2) Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
- (3) Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
- (4) Use of judgment;
- (5) Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
- (6) Dealing with changes in a routine work setting. 20 CFR 416.921(b).

The purpose of the second step in the sequential evaluation process is to screen out claims lacking in medical merit. Higgs v. Bowen 880 F2d 860, 862 (6th Cir, 1988). As a result, the department may only screen out claims at this level which are "totally groundless" solely from a medical standpoint. The Higgs court used the severity requirement as a "de minimus hurdle" in the disability determination. The de minimus standard is a provision of a law that allows the court to disregard trifling matters.

In this case, claimant has presented the required medical data and evidence necessary to support a finding that she has significant physical and mental limitations upon her ability to perform basic work activities such as walking, standing, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling; responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers, and usual work situations; and dealing with changes in a routine work setting. Medical evidence has clearly established that claimant has an impairment (or combination of impairments) that has more than a minimal effect on claimant's work activities. See Social Security Rulings 85-28, 88-13, and 82-63.

In the third step of the sequential consideration of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the claimant's impairment (or combination of impairments) is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. This Administrative Law Judge finds that the claimant's medical record will not support a finding that claimant's impairment(s) is a "listed impairment" or equal to a listed impairment. See Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404, Part A. Accordingly, claimant cannot be found to be disabled based upon medical evidence alone. 20 CFR 416.920(d).

In the fourth step of the sequential consideration of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the claimant's impairment(s) prevents claimant from doing past relevant work. 20 CFR 416.920(e). It is the finding of this Administrative Law Judge, based upon the medical evidence and objective, physical and psychological findings, that claimant is not capable of the walking, standing, lifting, carrying, handling, or personal interaction required by her past employment. Claimant has presented the required medical data and evidence necessary to support a finding that she is not, at this point, capable of performing such work.

In the fifth step of the sequential consideration of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the claimant's impairment(s) prevents claimant from doing other work. 20 CFR 416.920(f). This determination is based upon the claimant's:

- (1) residual functional capacity defined simply as "what can you still do despite you limitations?" 20 CFR 416.945;
- (2) age, education, and work experience, 20 CFR 416.963-.965; and
- (3) the kinds of work which exist in significant numbers in the national economy which the claimant could perform despite his/her limitations. 20 CFR 416.966.

See Felton v DSS, 161 Mich. App 690, 696 (1987). Once claimant reaches Step 5 in the sequential review process, claimant has already established a prima facie case of disability. Richardson v Secretary of Health and Human Services, 735 F2d 962 (6th Cir, 1984). At that point, the burden of proof is on the state to prove by substantial evidence that the claimant has the residual functional capacity for substantial gainful activity.

In this case, claimant has a history of coronary artery disease, hypertension, insulin-dependent diabetes mellitus, asthma, cerebral vascular accident, and migraine headaches. Claimant has had numerous hospitalizations. On [REDACTED], claimant's treating family practitioner opined that claimant was limited to occasionally lifting up to ten pounds as well as limited to standing walking less than two hours in an eight-hour work day. The physician indicated that claimant was incapable of pushing/pulling with the bilateral upper extremities and incapable of operating foot or leg controls with the bilateral lower extremities. The physician noted limitations with comprehension, memory, and sustained concentration. On [REDACTED], claimant was psychiatrically evaluated. The psychiatrist diagnosed claimant with major depressive disorder, recurrent. Claimant was evaluated by a consulting internist for the department on [REDACTED]. A pulmonary function test performed was consistent with obstructive lung disease or asthma. The internist diagnosed claimant with hypertension; insulin-dependent diabetes; refraction error and possible diabetic retinopathy; chronic, recurrent, migraine headaches; status post surgery for carpal tunnel syndrome in both hands, symptomatic; history of asthma; history of chest pain; history of chronic recurrent pain of the neck, shoulders, and left knee; status post surgery for umbilical of hernia; and anxiety. The consultant wrote as follows:

“In general, this patient has numerous significant medical problems. She is disabled for work. Her diabetes is not well controlled. She does need medications and regular follow up and blood work.”

After careful review of claimant’s extensive medical record and the Administrative Law Judge’s personal interaction with claimant at the hearing, this Administrative Law Judge finds that claimant’s exertional and non-exertional impairments render claimant unable to engage in a full range of even sedentary work activities on a regular and continuing basis. 20 CFR 404, Subpart P, Appendix 11, Section 201.00(h). See Social Security Ruling 83-10; Wilson v Heckler, 743 F2d 216 (1986). The department has failed to provide vocational evidence which establishes that claimant has the residual functional capacity for substantial gainful activity and that, given claimant’s age, education, and work experience, there are significant numbers of jobs in the national economy which the claimant could perform despite claimant’s limitations. Accordingly, this Administrative Law Judge concludes that claimant is disabled for purposes of the MA program.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, decides that claimant meets the definition of medically disabled under the Medical Assistance program as of October of 2009.

Accordingly, the department is ordered to initiate a review of the January 25, 2010, application, if it has not already done so, to determine if all other non medical eligibility criteria are met. The department shall inform claimant and her authorized representative of its determination in writing. Assuming that claimant is otherwise eligible for program benefits, the department shall review claimant’s continued eligibility for program benefits in November of 2011.
