HEARING DECISION

This matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and MCL 400.37, 7 CFR 273.16, MAC R 400.3130, and MAC R 400.3178 upon the Department of Human Services' request for a disqualification hearing. ISSUE

Did the respondent commit an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) and did the respondent receive an overissuance of benefits that the Department is entitled to recoup?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the clear and convincing evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

- 1) Respondent was a recipient of FAP benefits during the period of November 1, 2002 through August 31, 2003.

- 2) On November 14, 2002, respondent filed a DHS-1171, requesting FAP benefits.
- 3) Respondent reported on this application that she was pregnant and would soon cease her employment.
- 4) In January 2003, respondent reported that she was adding a member to her member group but did not report that she had returned to work.
- 5) A DHS-38, Employment Verification, later showed that claimant had never actually left her employment.
- 6) Respondent received regular pay checks until September 2003.
- 7) Respondent received full FAP benefits during this time.
- 8) Respondent was aware of the responsibility to report all employment and income to the Department.
- 9) On February 24, 2010, the Department's Office of Inspector General (OIG) filed a hearing request to establish an over-issuance of benefits received by respondent as a result of respondent having committed an Intentional Program Violation (IPV); the OIG also requested that respondent be disqualified from receiving program benefits.
- 10) A Notice of Disqualification Hearing was mailed to respondent at the last known address and was returned by the U.S. Post Office as undeliverable.
Respondent's last known address is: [REDACTED] [REDACTED].
- 11) OIG Agent Barbette Cole represented the Department at the hearing; respondent did not appear.
- 12) This is respondent's first alleged IPV.

- 13) The Department also requested a disqualification and recoupment for the FIP program, but this request was dismissed without prejudice.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Food Assistance Program (FAP) (formerly known as the Food Stamp (FS) program) is established by the Food Stamp Act of 1977, as amended, and is implemented by the federal regulations contained in Title 7 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The Department of Human Services (DHS or Department) administers the FAP program pursuant to MCL 400.10, et seq., and MAC R 400.3001-3015. Department policies are found in the Program Administrative Manual (PAM), the Program Eligibility Manual (PEM) and the Program Reference Manual (PRM).

In this case, the Department has requested a disqualification hearing to establish an over-issuance of benefits as a result of an IPV, and the Department has asked that respondent be disqualified from receiving benefits. The Department's manuals provide the following relevant policy statements and instructions for Department caseworkers:

Suspected IPV means an OI exists for which all three of the following conditions exist:

- . The client intentionally failed to report information or intentionally gave incomplete or inaccurate information needed to make a correct benefit determination, and
- . The client was clearly and correctly instructed regarding his or her reporting responsibilities, and
- . The client has no apparent physical or mental impairment that limits his or her understanding or ability to fulfill their reporting responsibilities.

Intentional Program Violation (IPV) is suspected when there is clear and convincing evidence that the client or CDC provider has intentionally withheld or misrepresented information for the purpose of establishing, maintaining, increasing or preventing reduction of program benefits or eligibility. PAM, Item 720, p. 1.

The federal Food Stamp regulations read in part:

- (c) Definition of Intentional Program Violation. Intentional Program Violation shall consist of having intentionally:
  - (1) made a false or misleading statement, or misrepresented, concealed or withheld facts; or
  - (2) committed any act that constitutes a violation of the Food Stamp Act, the Food Stamp Program Regulations, or any State statute for the purpose of using, presenting, transferring, acquiring, receiving, possessing or trafficking of coupons, authorization cards or reusable documents used as part of an automated benefit delivery system (access device). 7 CFR 273.16(c).
  - (6) Criteria for determining intentional program violation. The hearing authority shall base the determination of intentional program violation on clear and convincing evidence which demonstrates that the household member(s) committed, and intended to commit, intentional program violation as defined in paragraph (c) of this section. 7 CFR 273.16(c)(6).

Therefore, the undersigned may only find an IPV if there is clear and convincing evidence that the respondent intentionally made a false or misleading statement for the purpose of committing an IPV.

In this case, the Department has established that respondent was aware of the responsibility to report all income and employment to the Department. Respondent has no apparent physical or mental impairment that limits the understanding or ability to fulfill the reporting responsibilities. Furthermore, there is clear and convincing evidence that the respondent intended to mislead the Department with regard to her FAP eligibility.

Respondent told the Department on November 14, 2002, that she would not continue with her employment. When respondent later returned to the Department to add a member to her group, respondent made no mention of returning to work. However, an employment inquiry revealed that respondent was still employed, had never left employment, and in fact continued to receive steady paychecks throughout 2003. Had respondent left her job as planned after the respondent had filed her application, and later returned as planned, the underlying issue would have been merely a failure to report income, and the Administrative Law Judge would admit that there would be doubts as to whether the respondent intentionally meant to mislead the Department, or had a simple lapse of memory.

However, respondent's employment record, as presented by the Department, paints a very different picture. Respondent's employment records show that she never left her employment, and in fact, when refiling her application in January 2003, failed to mention that she was still employed full time. Respondent therefore neglected to report all employment, as required, to the Department; this rises far beyond a memory lapse. It appears that the respondent actually produced and submitted false information for the Department. For that reason, the undersigned believes that this falsehood was clear and convincing evidence of intent to mislead the Department in an attempt to defraud the Department—an intentional program violation.

Therefore, as a result of the failure to report all income in a timely manner, respondent committed an IPV, and received an over-issuance in benefits, starting with her November 2002 application. The Department has submitted completed budgets, which the undersigned has determined to be correct. Therefore, the undersigned finds that the correct amount that the Department may recoup in improperly issued FAP benefits is $2,614.00.

Finally, as a result of the IPV, the Department properly requested that the respondent be disqualified from participation in the FAP program for the period of one year.

With regard to the FIP case, as claimant's notice was returned as undeliverable, the FIP portion of the case is dismissed without prejudice. BAM 720.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the clear and convincing evidence, decides respondent committed an Intentional Program Violation of the FAP program and the Department is entitled to recoup the over-issuance of $2,614.00 in FAP benefits.

Accordingly, the respondent is disqualified from participation in the FAP program for a period of one year.

The Department is entitled to recoup the over-issuance of benefits respondent ineligibly received. Respondent is ORDERED to reimburse the Department for the over-issuance.

The FIP portion of the case is DISMISSED without prejudice.
