ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE
DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF: [REDACTED],
Claimant

Reg. No.: 2010-4221
Issue No.: 2009
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Load No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date:
December 16, 2009
Macomb County DHS (12)

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Linda Steadley Schwarb

HEARING DECISION

This matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and MCL 400.37 upon claimant's request for a hearing. After due notice, a hearing was held on December 16, 2009. Claimant appeared and testified. Claimant was represented by [REDACTED] of [REDACTED].

ISSUE

Did the Department of Human Services (DHS or department) properly determine that claimant is not "disabled" for purposes of the Medical Assistance (MA-P) program?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the competent, material and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

- 1) On January 9, 2009, an application was filed on claimant's behalf for MA-P benefits. The application requested MA-P retroactive to December of 2008.

- 2) On June 2, 2009, the department denied claimant's application for benefits based upon the belief that claimant did not meet the requisite disability criteria.
- 3) On August 28, 2009, a hearing request was filed to protest the department's determination.
- 4) Claimant, age 48, has a high-school education.
- 5) Claimant last worked in December of 2008 as a security guard. Claimant has also performed work as a machine operator and janitor/maintenance person. Claimant's relevant work history consists exclusively of unskilled work activities.
- 6) Claimant has a history of alcohol abuse and depression.
- 7) Claimant was hospitalized [REDACTED] as a result of acute intoxication. His discharge diagnosis was acute active delirium tremens, acute on chronic alcohol intoxication, major depression, active tobacco abuse, and previous suicidal ideation. Claimant has had no further hospitalizations.
- 8) Claimant receives medical treatment and prescriptions from the [REDACTED] [REDACTED].
- 9) Claimant currently suffers from avascular necrosis of the right hip with secondary degenerative osteoarthritis, major depression, recurrent, and alcohol dependence, reportedly in remission for one year. Claimant's GAF score in [REDACTED] was 70.
- 10) Claimant has held off undergoing a right hip replacement as recommended by the [REDACTED] until he "gets his disability." (Per claimant's testimony.)

- 11) Claimant has severe limitations upon his ability to walk or stand for prolonged periods of time and/or lift extremely heavy objects. Claimant's limitations have lasted twelve months or more.
- 12) Claimant's complaints and allegations concerning his impairments and limitations, when considered in light of all objective medical evidence, as well as the record as a whole, reflect an individual who has the physical and mental capacity to engage in simple, unskilled, sedentary work activities on a regular and continuing basis.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act and is implemented by Title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The Department of Human Services (DHS or department) administers the MA program pursuant to MCL 400.10, et seq., and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Program Administrative Manual (PAM), the Program Eligibility Manual (PEM) and the Program Reference Manual (PRM).

Federal regulations require that the department use the same operative definition for "disabled" as used for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) under Title XVI of the Social Security Act. 42 CFR 435.540(a).

"Disability" is:

...the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months
... 20 CFR 416.905

In general, claimant has the responsibility to prove that he is disabled. Claimant's impairment must result from anatomical, physiological, or psychological abnormalities which can be shown by medically acceptable clinical and laboratory diagnostic techniques. A physical or mental impairment must be established by medical evidence consisting of signs, symptoms, and laboratory findings, not only claimant's statement of symptoms. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.927. Proof must be in the form of medical evidence showing that the claimant has an impairment and the nature and extent of its severity. 20 CFR 416.912. Information must be sufficient to enable a determination as to the nature and limiting effects of the impairment for the period in question, the probable duration of the impairment and the residual functional capacity to do work-related physical and mental activities. 20 CFR 416.913.

In determining whether an individual is disabled, 20 CFR 416.920 requires the trier of fact to follow a sequential evaluation process by which current work activity, the severity of the impairment(s), residual functional capacity, and vocational factors (i.e., age, education, and work experience) are assessed in that order. When a determination that an individual is or is not disabled can be made at any step in the sequential evaluation, evaluation under a subsequent step is not necessary.

First, the trier of fact must determine if the individual is working and if the work is substantial gainful activity. 20 CFR 416.920(b). In this case, claimant is not working. Therefore, claimant may not be disqualified for MA at this step in the sequential evaluation process.

Secondly, in order to be considered disabled for purposes of MA, a person must have a severe impairment. 20 CFR 416.920(c). A severe impairment is an impairment which significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to perform basic work activities.

Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. Examples of these include:

- (1) Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying or handling;
- (2) Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
- (3) Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
- (4) Use of judgment;
- (5) Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
- (6) Dealing with changes in a routine work setting. 20 CFR 416.921(b).

The purpose of the second step in the sequential evaluation process is to screen out claims lacking in medical merit. Higgs v. Bowen 880 F2d 860, 862 (6th Cir, 1988). As a result, the department may only screen out claims at this level which are “totally groundless” solely from a medical standpoint. The Higgs court used the severity requirement as a “de minimus hurdle” in the disability determination. The de minimus standard is a provision of a law that allows the court to disregard trifling matters.

In this case, claimant has presented the required medical data and evidence necessary to support a finding that claimant has significant physical limitations upon his ability to perform basic work activities such as walking and standing for long periods of time and lifting extremely heavy objects. Medical evidence has clearly established that claimant has an impairment (or combination of impairments) that has more than a minimal effect on claimant’s work activities. See Social Security Rulings 85-28, 88-13, and 82-63.

In the third step of the sequential consideration of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the claimant's impairment (or combination of impairments) is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. This Administrative Law Judge finds that the claimant's medical record will not support a finding that claimant's impairment(s) is a "listed impairment" or equal to a listed impairment. See Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404, Part A. Accordingly, claimant cannot be found to be disabled based upon medical evidence alone. 20 CFR 416.920(d).

In the fourth step of the sequential consideration of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the claimant's impairment(s) prevents claimant from doing past relevant work. 20 CFR 416.920(e). It is the finding of this Administrative Law Judge, based upon the medical evidence and objective, physical and psychological findings, that claimant is not capable of the prolonged walking and standing and/or heavy lifting required by his past employment. Claimant has presented the required medical data and evidence necessary to support a finding that he is not, at this point, capable of performing such work.

In the fifth step of the sequential consideration of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the claimant's impairment(s) prevents claimant from doing other work. 20 CFR 416.920(f). This determination is based upon the claimant's:

- (1) residual functional capacity defined simply as "what can you still do despite you limitations?" 20 CFR 416.945;
- (2) age, education, and work experience, 20 CFR 416.963-.965; and
- (3) the kinds of work which exist in significant numbers in the national economy which the claimant could perform despite his/her limitations. 20 CFR 416.966.

See Felton v DSS, 161 Mich. App 690, 696 (1987).

This Administrative Law Judge finds that claimant's residual functional capacity for work activities on a regular and continuing basis does include the ability to meet the physical and mental demands required to perform simple, unskilled, sedentary work. Sedentary work is defined as follows:

Sedentary work involves lifting no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. 20 CFR 416.967(a).

There is insufficient objective medical evidence, signs, and symptoms to support a determination that claimant is incapable of performing the physical and mental activities necessary for a wide range of sedentary work. Claimant has a history of alcohol abuse and depression. He was hospitalized in [REDACTED] for acute alcohol intoxication. Thereafter, claimant has had no further hospitalizations. Claimant receives medical treatment and prescriptions through the [REDACTED]. An x-ray of claimant's right hip performed at the [REDACTED] [REDACTED] on [REDACTED], revealed avascular necrosis with secondary degenerative osteoarthritis. On [REDACTED], an x-ray of claimant's right hip was ordered by a consulting physiatrist (specialist in physical medicine and rehabilitation) for the [REDACTED] [REDACTED]. That x-ray suggested inflammatory arthritis versus avascular necrosis of the right hip. The [REDACTED] consulting physiatrist provided the following assessment:

"Today's examination demonstrates that there is no focal, motor, or sensory deficits in the upper or lower extremities. He claims that his orthopedic surgeon at the [REDACTED] suggested a right total hip replacement. His ambulation is limited due to his complaints of pain from the right hip. His ambulation and the doing of his activities of daily living are expected to improve when he undergoes total hip replacement as suggested by his orthopedic surgeon.

Therefore, it is this examiner's opinion that he functionally his ambulation is slightly limited at this point in time due to his subjective complaints of right hip pain. However, with surgery his functional status is expected to improve significantly."

Claimant was again seen by a consulting physiatrist for the [REDACTED] on [REDACTED]. That consultant found that claimant did not need the use of a cane. He provided the following impression: "Possible early onset of osteoarthritis/arthritis, right more than left."

On [REDACTED], claimant's treating psychiatrist at the [REDACTED] diagnosed claimant with alcohol dependence, in early full remission, and major depression, moderate. Claimant was given a current GAF score of 70. Claimant was seen by a consulting psychologist for the [REDACTED] on [REDACTED]. The consultant diagnosed claimant with alcohol dependence, in reported remission; polysubstance abuse, including cannabis and other unspecified substances, reportedly in remission; depression, NOS; and dependent personality disorder. Claimant was given a current GAF score of 49. The consultant provided the following medical source statement:

"Based upon today's examination, the claimant presented as a man who was able to demonstrate a number of cognitive strengths, with relatively intact capacities for calculations demonstrating strengths in concentration and also capacities for immediate and short-term memory, as evidenced by the ability to remember digits and objects. Thus, he does have a number of cognitive strengths that should enable his to successfully engage in work-type activities of a relatively simple to slightly complex nature, remembering and executing a several step procedure on a sustained basis."

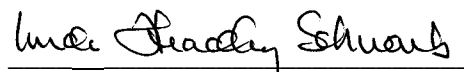

At the hearing, claimant reported that the [REDACTED] has recommended a total right hip replacement. Under questioning, claimant acknowledged that he has held off from the surgery until he "gets his disability." Claimant reported that he has decided that he needs a steady income. Claimant was unable to articulate any other reason for why he has not pursued the recommended right hip replacement. See 20 CFR 416.930. After a review of claimant's hospital records, reports from claimant's treating physicians, test results, and consulting evaluations, claimant has failed to establish limitations which would compromise his ability to perform a wide range of simple, unskilled, sedentary work activities on a regular and continuing basis. The record has failed to support the position that claimant is incapable of sedentary work activities.

Considering that claimant, at age 48, is a younger individual, has a high-school education, has an unskilled work history, and has a sustained work capacity for sedentary work, this Administrative Law Judge finds that claimant's impairments do not prevent him from doing other work. As a guide, see 20 CFR, Part 404, Subpart P, Appendix 2, Table 1, Rule 201.18. Accordingly, the undersigned must find that claimant is not presently disabled for purposes of the MA program.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, decides that the Department of Human Services properly determined that claimant is not "disabled" for purposes of the Medical Assistance program. Accordingly, the department's determination in this matter is hereby affirmed.
