ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE
DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF:

[REDACTED]

Reg. No.: 2010-42998
Issue No.: 2009
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Load No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date: August 16, 2010
DHS County: Macomb (12)

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Linda Steadley Schwarb

HEARING DECISION

This matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and MCL 400.37 upon claimant's request for a hearing. After due notice, a hearing was held on August 16, 2010. Claimant appeared and testified. Claimant was represented by [REDACTED]. Following the hearing, the record was kept open for the receipt of additional medical evidence. Additional documents were received and reviewed.

ISSUE

Did the Department of Human Services (DHS or department) properly determine that claimant is not "disabled" for purposes of the Medical Assistance (MA-P) program?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the competent, material and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. On January 8, 2010, an application was filed on claimant's behalf for MA-P benefits. The application requested MA-P retroactive to December of 2009.
2. On April 12, 2010, the department denied claimant's application for benefits based upon the belief that claimant did not meet the requisite disability criteria.
3. On July 8, 2010, a hearing request was filed to protest the department's determination.
4. Claimant, age 44, has a high-school education.

5. Claimant last worked in June of 2009 as a store manager of [REDACTED]. Claimant has also worked as a compliance manager for a telecommunications company, child care worker, and retail sales coordinator.
6. Claimant has a history of diabetes mellitus with gastroparesis and neuropathy as well as alcohol abuse.
7. Claimant was hospitalized [REDACTED] for diabetic ketoacidosis, altered mental state, and urosepsis.
8. Claimant was hospitalized [REDACTED] for pyelonephritis; acute renal insufficiency, resolved; and hyponatremia, stable.
9. Claimant was hospitalized [REDACTED]. Her discharge diagnosis was appendicitis, dehydration, uncontrolled diabetes mellitus, anemia, and nicotine dependence.
10. Claimant currently suffers from poorly controlled diabetes mellitus, gastroparesis, diabetic neuropathy, chronic renal failure secondary to diabetes, hypertension, nicotine dependence, dysthymic disorder, insomnia, coronary atherosclerosis, and history of alcohol abuse, now in remission.
11. Claimant has severe limitations upon her ability to walk, stand, lift, push, pull, reach, carry, and handle as well as limitations with memory, responding appropriately to others, and dealing with change. Claimant's limitations have lasted or are expected to last twelve months or more.
12. Claimant's complaints and allegations concerning her impairments and limitations, when considered in light of all objective medical evidence, as well as the record as a whole, reflect an individual who is so impaired as to be incapable of engaging in any substantial gainful activity on a regular and continuing basis.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act and is implemented by Title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The Department of Human Services (DHS or department) administers the MA program pursuant to MCL 400.10, et seq., and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Program Administrative Manual (BAM), the Program Eligibility Manual (BEM) and the Program Reference Manual (PRM).

Federal regulations require that the department use the same operative definition for "disabled" as used for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) under Title XVI of the Social Security Act. 42 CFR 435.540(a).

“Disability” is:

...the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months ... 20 CFR 416.905.

In determining whether an individual is disabled, 20 CFR 416.920 requires the trier of fact to follow a sequential evaluation process by which current work activity, the severity of the impairment(s), residual functional capacity, and vocational factors (i.e., age, education, and work experience) are assessed in that order. When a determination that an individual is or is not disabled can be made at any step in the sequential evaluation, evaluation under a subsequent step is not necessary.

First, the trier of fact must determine if the individual is working and if the work is substantial gainful activity. 20 CFR 416.920(b). In this case, claimant is not working. Therefore, claimant may not be disqualified for MA at this step in the sequential evaluation process.

Secondly, in order to be considered disabled for purposes of MA, a person must have a severe impairment. 20 CFR 416.920(c). A severe impairment is an impairment which significantly limits an individual’s physical or mental ability to perform basic work activities. Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. Examples of these include:

- (1) Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying or handling;
- (2) Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
- (3) Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
- (4) Use of judgment;
- (5) Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
- (6) Dealing with changes in a routine work setting. 20 CFR 416.921(b).

The purpose of the second step in the sequential evaluation process is to screen out claims lacking in medical merit. Higgs v. Bowen 880 F2d 860, 862 (6th Cir, 1988). As a result, the department may only screen out claims at this level which are “totally groundless” solely from a medical standpoint. The Higgs court used the severity requirement as a “de minimus hurdle” in the disability determination. The de minimus standard is a provision of a law that allows the court to disregard trifling matters.

In this case, claimant has presented the required medical data and evidence necessary to support a finding that she has significant physical and mental limitations upon her ability to perform basic work activities such as walking, standing, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling; understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions; responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers, and usual work situations; and dealing with changes in a routine work setting. Medical evidence has clearly established that claimant has an impairment (or combination of impairments) that has more than a minimal effect on claimant’s work activities. See Social Security Rulings 85-28, 88-13, and 82-63.

In the third step of the sequential consideration of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the claimant’s impairment (or combination of impairments) is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. This Administrative Law Judge finds that the claimant’s medical record will not support a finding that claimant’s impairment(s) is a “listed impairment” or equal to a listed impairment. See Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404, Part A. Accordingly, claimant cannot be found to be disabled based upon medical evidence alone. 20 CFR 416.920(d).

In the fourth step of the sequential consideration of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the claimant’s impairment(s) prevents claimant from doing past relevant work. 20 CFR 416.920(e). It is the finding of this Administrative Law Judge, based upon the medical evidence and objective, physical and psychological findings, that claimant is not capable of the walking, standing, lifting, reaching, carrying, or handling as well as the memory, ability to respond to others appropriately, and ability to deal with change as required by her past employment. Claimant has presented the required medical data and evidence necessary to support a finding that she is not, at this point, capable of performing such work.

In the fifth step of the sequential consideration of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the claimant’s impairment(s) prevents claimant from doing other work. 20 CFR 416.920(f). This determination is based upon the claimant’s:

- (1) residual functional capacity defined simply as “what can you still do despite you limitations?” 20 CFR 416.945;
- (2) age, education, and work experience, 20 CFR 416.963-.965; and
- (3) the kinds of work which exist in significant numbers in the national economy which the claimant could perform despite his/her limitations. 20 CFR 416.966.

See Felton v DSS, 161 Mich. App 690, 696 (1987). Once claimant reaches Step 5 in the sequential review process, claimant has already established a prima facie case of disability. Richardson v Secretary of Health and Human Services, 735 F2d 962 (6th Cir, 1984). At that point, the burden of proof is on the state to prove by substantial evidence that the claimant has the residual functional capacity for substantial gainful activity.

In this case, claimant has a long history of poorly controlled diabetes mellitus with gastroparesis and diabetic neuropathy of the bilateral lower extremities and of her hands. She was hospitalized in [REDACTED] with diabetic ketoacidosis, altered mental state, and urosepsis. She was re-hospitalized in [REDACTED] for pyelonephritis, acute renal insufficiency, and hyponatremia. Claimant was hospitalized in [REDACTED] with appendicitis and uncontrolled diabetes mellitus. Claimant was seen by a consulting internist for the department on [REDACTED]. The consultant provided the following impression:

1. Juvenile diabetes.
2. Diabetic neuropathy.
3. Chronic renal failure secondary to diabetes requiring transfusions. She has a history of sepsis requiring multiple hospitalizations.
4. Hypertension with coronary artery disease.
5. Bilateral epicondylitis-status post surgery.
6. Depression and anxiety by history.

Claimant was seen by a consulting psychologist for the department on [REDACTED]. The consultant diagnosed claimant with dysthymic disorder, NOS. Claimant was seen by a consulting internist for the [REDACTED] on [REDACTED]. The consultant provided the following impression:

Osteoarthritis and spinal disorder – the patient has some chronic back pain and pain in both elbows. ...

Ambulation ...

Emphysema and other chronic pulmonary disease – the patient is a chronic cigarette smoker with a lot of recurrent bronchitis.... She gets easy fatigability...

Diabetes – patient has Type I diabetes and must be on insulin 24/7. She is having difficulty obtaining medication due to lack of insurance. She has significant neuropathy, but no evidence of peripheral vascular disease...

MEDICAL SOURCE STATEMENT:

Based on today's examination, the claimant should be able to work as far as her physical condition is concerned provided she has proper management of her insulin. She has brittle diabetes Type I and she is liable to get frequent hypoglycemia and loss of consciousness due to unawareness of the low blood sugar and that it very serious. The claimant will have to be limited from any prolonged walking or standing. There is limitation on climbing stairs. The claimant should not be involved in climbing ropes, ladders or scaffolding due to the above impressions. Pushing, pulling and lifting should be reasonable within 15 pounds or so. Again, the claimant has neuropathy and the ability to walk, carry, push and lift will all be limited due to the same.

After careful review of claimant's extensive medical record and the Administrative Law Judge's personal interaction with claimant at the hearing, this Administrative Law Judge finds that claimant's exertional and non-exertional impairments render claimant unable to engage in a full range of even sedentary work activities on a regular and continuing basis. 20 CFR 404, Subpart P, Appendix 11, Section 201.00(h). See Social Security Ruling 83-10; Wilson v Heckler, 743 F2d 216 (1986). The department has failed to provide vocational evidence which establishes that claimant has the residual functional capacity for substantial gainful activity and that, given claimant's age, education, and work experience, there are significant numbers of jobs in the national economy which the claimant could perform despite claimant's limitations. Accordingly, this Administrative Law Judge concludes that claimant is disabled for purposes of the MA program.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, decides that claimant meets the definition of medically disabled under the Medical Assistance program as of December of 2009.

Accordingly, the department is ordered to initiate a review of the January 8, 2010, application, if it has not already done so, to determine if all other non medical eligibility criteria are met. The department shall inform claimant and her authorized representative of its determination in writing. Assuming that claimant is otherwise eligible for program benefits, the department shall review claimant's continued eligibility for program benefits in October of 2011.

NOTICE: Administrative Hearings may order a rehearing or reconsideration on either its own motion or at the request of a party within 30 days of the mailing date of this Decision and Order. Administrative Hearings will not order a rehearing or reconsideration on the Department's motion where the final decision cannot be implemented within 90 days of the filing of the original request.

The Claimant may appeal the Decision and Order to Circuit Court within 30 days of the mailing of the Decision and Order or, if a timely request for rehearing was made, within 30 days of the receipt date of the rehearing decision.
