

STATE OF MICHIGAN
MICHIGAN ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING SYSTEM
ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF:

[REDACTED]

Reg. No.: 2011-42222
Issue No.: 2009/4031
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date: October 31, 2011
Oakland County DHS (04)

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Colleen M. Mamelka

AMENDED HEARING DECISION

This matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and MCL 400.37 upon the Claimant's request for a hearing. After due notice, a telephone hearing was conducted from Detroit, Michigan on Monday, October 31, 2011. The Claimant appeared and testified. [REDACTED] [REDACTED] appeared on behalf of the Department of Human Services ("Department").

ISSUE

Whether the Department properly determined that the Claimant was not disabled for purposes of the Medical Assistance ("MA-P") and State Disability Assistance ("SDA") benefit programs?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the competent, material, and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. The Claimant submitted an application for public assistance seeking MA-P and SDA benefits on March 8, 2010.
2. On May 27, 2010, the Medical Review Team ("MRT") found the Claimant not disabled. (Exhibit 1, pp. 1, 2)
3. The Department notified the Claimant of the MRT determination.
4. On June 7, 2010, the Department received the Claimant's timely written request for hearing. (Exhibit 2)
5. On April 18, 2011, the Claimant submitted a second MA-P and SDA application.

6. On August 12, 2011, the State Hearing Review Team (“SHRT”) found the Claimant not disabled. (Exhibit 3)
7. The Claimant alleged physical disabling impairments due to right leg and back pain, degenerative disc disease, shortness of breath, high blood pressure, hypotension, varicose veins, cellulitis, Hepatitis C, and seizure disorder.
8. The Claimant alleged mental disabling impairment due to attention deficit hyperactive disorder (“ADHD”), depression and anxiety.
9. At the time of hearing, the Claimant was [REDACTED] years old with a [REDACTED] birth date; was 5’10” in height; and weighed 175 pounds.
10. The Claimant is a high school graduate under a special education program with an employment history in landscaping.
11. The Claimant’s impairments have lasted, or are expected to last, continuously for a period of 12 months or longer.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance program is established by Subchapter XIX of Chapter 7 of The Public Health & Welfare Act, 42 USC 1397, and is administered by the Department of Human Services, formerly known as the Family Independence Agency, pursuant to MCL 400.10 et seq. and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Bridges Administrative Manual (“BAM”), the Bridges Eligibility Manual (“BEM”), and the Bridges Reference Tables (“RFT”).

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905(a). The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CFR 413.913. An individual’s subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a). Similarly, conclusory statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927.

When determining disability, the federal regulations require several factors to be considered including: (1) the location/ duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant’s pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicant takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and (4) the effect of the applicant's pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3). The applicant's pain must be assessed to determine the extent of his or her functional limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2).

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1). The five-step analysis requires the trier of fact to consider an individual's current work activity; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to determine whether an individual can perform past relevant work; and residual functional capacity along with vocational factors (i.e. age, education, and work experience) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945.

If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step, a determination or decision is made with no need evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabled, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If an impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment, an individual's residual functional capacity is assessed before moving from step three to step four. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. Residual functional capacity is the most an individual can do despite the limitations based on all relevant evidence. 20 CFR 945(a)(1). An individual's residual functional capacity assessment is evaluated at both steps four and five. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). In determining disability, an individual's functional capacity to perform basic work activities is evaluated and if found that the individual has the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitation, disability will not be found. 20 CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv). In general, the individual has the responsibility to prove disability. 20 CFR 416.912(a). An impairment or combination of impairments is not severe if it does not significantly limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.921(a). The individual has the responsibility to provide evidence of prior work experience; efforts to work; and any other factor showing how the impairment affects the ability to work. 20 CFR 416.912(c)(3)(5)(6).

In addition to the above, when evaluating mental impairments, a special technique is utilized. 20 CFR 416.920a(a). First, an individual's pertinent symptoms, signs, and laboratory findings are evaluated to determine whether a medically determinable mental impairment exists. 20 CFR 416.920a(b)(1). When a medically determinable mental impairment is established, the symptoms, signs and laboratory findings that substantiate the impairment are documented to include the individual's significant history, laboratory findings, and functional limitations. 20 CFR 416.920a(e)(2). Functional limitation(s) is assessed based upon the extent to which the impairment(s) interferes with an individual's ability to function independently, appropriately, effectively, and on a sustained basis. Id.; 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(2). Chronic mental disorders, structured settings, medication, and other treatment and the effect on the overall degree of functionality is considered. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(1). In addition, four broad functional areas (activities of daily living; social functioning; concentration, persistence or pace; and episodes of decompensation) are considered when determining an individual's degree of functional limitation. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(3). The degree of limitation for the first three functional areas is rated by a five point scale: none, mild, moderate, marked, and extreme. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(4). A four point scale (none, one or two, three, four or more) is used to rate the degree of limitation in the fourth functional area. Id. The last point on each scale represents a degree of limitation that is incompatible with the ability to do any gainful activity. Id.

After the degree of functional limitation is determined, the severity of the mental impairment is determined. 20 CFR 416.920a(d). If severe, a determination of whether the impairment meets or is the equivalent of a listed mental disorder is made. 20 CFR 416.920a(d)(2). If the severe mental impairment does not meet (or equal) a listed impairment, an individual's residual functional capacity is assessed. 20 CFR 416.920a(d)(3).

As outlined above, the first step looks at the individual's current work activity. In the record presented, the Claimant is not involved in substantial gainful activity; therefore, is not ineligible for disability benefits under Step 1.

The severity of the Claimant's alleged impairment(s) is considered under Step 2. The Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. In order to be considered disabled for MA purposes, the impairment must be severe. 20 CFR 916.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 916.920(b). An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 916.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 916.920(c). Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 916.921(b). Examples include:

1. Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;
2. Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
3. Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
4. Use of judgment;
5. Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and

6. Dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

Id.

The second step allows for dismissal of a disability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). The severity requirement may still be employed as an administrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint. Id. at 863 citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985). An impairment qualifies as non-severe only if, regardless of a claimant's age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the claimant's ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985).

In the present case, the Claimant alleges disability due to right leg and back pain, degenerative disc disease, shortness of breath, high blood pressure, hypotension, varicose veins, cellulitis, Hepatitis C, seizure disorder, ADHD, depression, and anxiety.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant was evaluated for special education placement. The Claimant's full scale IQ was 80. The Claimant was found to be able to function in the "regular" classroom setting with some adjustments.

On [REDACTED] IQ testing was performed. The full scale IQ of 86 placing him in the "dull normal range." The verbal and performance subtests were below average for the Claimant's age level. The diagnostic impression was adolescent adjustment reaction problem.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant presented to the hospital with complaints of chest pain. Chest x-rays revealed subsegmental atelectasis of the left lung base. The imaging SPECT test found fixed defect of the inferolateral wall with inferior wall hypokinesia (likely due to previous heart attack) with normal left ventricular ejection fraction of 69 percent. The Claimant was discharged the following day.

On [REDACTED] a psychiatric assessment was performed. The diagnosis was bipolar disorder. The Global Assessment Functioning ("GAF") was 40.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant was diagnosed with acute contusions (status post fall), acute musculoskeletal pain/strain, acute exacerbation of chronic pain, and degenerative joint disease.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant was admitted to the hospital with complaints of chest pain. An exercise stress test was within normal limits noting the left ventricular ejection fraction of 67 percent.

On [REDACTED] a Psychiatric/Psychological Examination Report was completed on behalf of the Claimant. The diagnosis was bipolar disorder with a GAF of 40. The Mental Residual Functional Capacity Assessment was also completed. The Claimant was markedly limited in 2 of 20 factors (ability to understand, remember, and carry out detailed instructions) and was moderately limited in the remaining 18 factors.

On [REDACTED] a consultative psychological evaluation was performed. The diagnoses were mood disorder (not otherwise specified) with a history of polysubstance abuse and ADHD. The GAF was 47 and the prognosis was guarded.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant was admitted to the hospital with complaints of back pain and right side chest pain. Chest x-rays revealed subsegmental atelectasis of the left lung base. X-rays of the cervical spine showed moderate to advanced hypertrophic and discogenic degenerative changes. The Claimant was treated and discharged the following day.

On [REDACTED] the treating physician found the Claimant disabled for a period of not less than 12 months due to his herniated discs, severe arthritis, coronary artery disease, degenerative disc disease, hypertension, and low back pain. The Claimant required a cane for ambulation.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant's treating physician wrote a statement confirming treatment for hypertension, coronary artery disease status post heart catheterization with three stents, lumbar disc disease, dyslipidemia, and depression. The Claimant needs multiple cardiac testing/evaluations due to his life-threatening conditions.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant attended a consultative physical examination. The Claimant had muscle spasms in the cervical spine with painful range of motion. The Claimant also had spasms in the lumbar spine with decreased range of motion. Mild to moderate discomfort with his knees was also noted. X-rays of the lumbar spine revealed mild lumbar spondylosis at L5-S1 with disc space narrowing. The diagnoses were lumbar radiculopathy, Hepatitis C, history of myocardial infarction, high blood pressure, hyperlipidemia, and varicose vein.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant attended a psychological evaluation. Cognitively, the Claimant was functioning at the low average range of intelligence. The diagnoses were dysthymic disorder, alcohol dependence (partial remission), and polysubstance dependence (partial remission). The Global Assessment Functioning ("GAF") was 62. The Claimant's ability to relate to others, including fellow workers/supervisors, is mildly impaired. His ability to understand, remember, and carry out simple directions is not significantly impaired and he was found able to perform simple, repetitive tasks and likely handle more complex and detailed tasks. The Claimant's ability to maintain attention, concentration, persistence, and pace to perform routine tasks is moderately impaired as was his ability to withstand the stress and pressures associated with day-to-day activities. The Claimant is unable to manage benefit funds.

As previously noted, the Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairment(s). As summarized above, the Claimant has presented medical evidence establishing that he does have some physical and mental limitations on his ability to perform basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that the Claimant has an impairment, or combination thereof, that has more than a de minimus effect on the Claimant's basic work activities. Further, the impairments have lasted continuously for twelve months; therefore, the Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of MA-P benefits under Step 2.

In the third step of the sequential analysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. The Claimant has alleged disabling impairments due to right leg and back pain, degenerative disc disease, shortness of breath, high blood pressure, hypotension, varicose veins, cellulitis, Hepatitis C, seizure disorder, ADHD, depression, and anxiety.

Listing 1.00 (musculoskeletal system), Listing 3.00 (respiratory system), Listing 4.00 (cardiovascular system), Listing 5.00 (digestive disorders), Listing 11.00 (neurologic), and Listing 12.00 (mental disorders) were considered in light of the objective medical evidence. In light of the foregoing, it is found that the Claimant's impairments do not meet the intent and severity requirements of a listing; therefore the Claimant cannot be found disabled, or not disabled, at Step 3. Accordingly, the Claimant's eligibility at Step 4 is required. 20 CFR 416.905(a)

The fourth step in analyzing a disability claim requires an assessment of the Claimant's residual functional capacity ("RFC") and past relevant employment. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(iv). An individual is not disabled if he/she can perform past relevant work. Id.; 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). Past relevant work is work that has been performed within the past 15 years that was a substantial gainful activity and that lasted long enough for the individual to learn the position. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(1). Vocational factors of age, education, and work experience, and whether the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy is not considered. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). RFC is assessed based on impairment(s), and any related symptoms, such as pain, which may cause physical and mental limitations that affect what can be done in a work setting. RFC is the most that can be done, despite the limitations.

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, jobs are classified as sedentary, light, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 20 CFR 416.967. Sedentary work involves lifting of no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Id. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing up to 10 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(b). Even though weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. Id. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities. Id. An individual capable of light work is also capable of sedentary work, unless there are additionally limiting factors such as loss of fine dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time. Id. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). An individual capable of performing medium work is also capable of light and sedentary work. Id. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(d). An individual capable of heavy work is also capable of medium, light, and sedentary work. Id. Finally, very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing 50 pounds or more. 20 CFR 416.967(e). An individual capable of very heavy work is able to perform work under all categories. Id.

Limitations or restrictions which affect the ability to meet the demands of jobs other than strength demands (exertional requirements, i.e. sitting, standing, walking, lifting, carrying, pushing, or pulling) are considered nonexertional. 20 CFR 416.969a(a). In considering whether an individual can perform past relevant work, a comparison of the individual's residual functional capacity with the demands of past relevant work. Id. If an individual can no longer do past relevant work the same residual functional capacity assessment along with an individual's age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an individual can adjust to other work which exists in the national economy. Id. Examples of non-exertional limitations or restrictions include difficulty function due to nervousness, anxiousness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concentration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficulty in seeing or hearing; difficulty tolerating some physical feature(s) of certain work settings (i.e. can't tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or postural functions of some work such as reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(1)(i) – (vi). If the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-exertional aspects of work-related activities, the rules in Appendix 2 do not direct factual conclusions of disabled or not disabled. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(2). The determination of whether disability exists is based upon the principles in the appropriate sections of the regulations, giving consideration to the rules for specific case situations in Appendix 2. Id.

Over the past 15 years, the Claimant worked in landscaping as a general laborer. In light of the Claimant's testimony and in consideration of the Occupational Code, the Claimant's prior work history is considered unskilled, medium work.

The Claimant testified that he is able to lift/carry 10 pounds; walk short distances; and stand and/or sit for short periods of time; and has difficulty bending and squatting. The objective medical records do not document specific limitations; however, the Claimant's multiple cardiac issues were life threatening. Additionally, the Claimant had decreased range of motion with muscle spasms requiring a cane for ambulation. Mentally, the Claimant has marked limitations in his ability to understand, remember, and carry-out detailed instructions with GAF scores of 40 and 47 which equates to serious symptoms or any serious impairment in social, occupational, or school functioning. The consultative evaluation placed the Claimant's GAF at 62 yet his prognosis was guarded and he was found unable to manage benefit funds. If the impairment or combination of impairments does not limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities, it is not a severe impairment(s) and disability does not exist. 20 CFR 416.920. In consideration of the Claimant's testimony, medical records, and current limitations, it is found that the Claimant is unable to return to past relevant employment thus Step 5 of the sequential analysis is required.

In Step 5, an assessment of the individual's residual functional capacity and age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an adjustment to other work can be made. 20 CFR 416.920(4)(v). At the time of hearing, the Claimant was 51 years old thus considered to be closely approaching advanced age for MA-P purposes. The Claimant is a high school graduate under a special education program which is supported by IQ testing. Disability is found if an individual is unable to adjust to other work. Id. At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from the Claimant to the Department to present proof that the Claimant has the residual capacity to substantial gainful employment. 20 CFR 416.960(2); Richardson v Sec of Health and Human Services, 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984). While a vocational expert is not required, a finding supported by substantial evidence that the individual has the vocational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services, 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978). Medical-Vocational guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983). Individuals approaching advanced age (age 50-54) may be significantly limited in vocational adaptability if they are restricted to sedentary work. 20 CFR 416.963(d)

In this case, the evidence reveals that the Claimant has back and knee pain, lumbar radiculopathy and spasms, lumbar spondylosis with disc space narrowing, degenerative joint disease, life threatening cardiac issues, bipolar disorder, and ADHD. As stated above, mentally, the Claimant is below average intelligence with low GAF scores. Ultimately, the total impact caused by the combination of medical problems suffered by the Claimant must be considered. In doing so, it is found that the combination of the Claimant's physical and mental impairments have a major effect on his ability to perform basic work activities. In light of the foregoing, it is found that the Claimant maintains the residual functional capacity for work activities on a regular and continuing basis to meet the physical and mental demands required to perform sedentary work as defined in 20 CFR 416.967(a). After review of the entire record using the Medical-Vocational Guidelines [20 CFR 404, Subpart P, Appendix II] as a guide, specifically Rule 201.09, it is found that the Claimant is disabled for purposes of the MA-P program at Step 5.

The State Disability Assistance program, which provides financial assistance for disabled persons, was established by 2004 PA 344. The Department administers the SDA program pursuant to MCL 400.10 et seq. and Michigan Administrative Code Rule 400.3151 – 400.3180. Department policies are found in BAM, BEM, and RFT. A person is considered disabled for SDA purposes if the person has a physical or mental impairment which meets federal SSI disability standards for at least ninety days. Receipt of SSI benefits based on disability or blindness, or the receipt of MA benefits based on disability or blindness automatically qualifies an individual as disabled for purposes of the SDA program.

In this case, the Claimant is found disabled for purposes of the MA-P program; therefore, he is found disabled for purposes of SDA benefit program.

In some circumstances benefit payments can, or must, be restricted to someone other than the individual (program group). BAM 420. A protective payee is a person/agency selected to be responsible for receiving and managing the cash assistance on behalf of the individual (program group) as a third party. BAM 420. Restricted payments are required in any of the following circumstances:

- Court-ordered shelter arrearage collection
- Third-party resource disqualification
- Minor parent
- Substance Abuse
- Client convicted of a drug-related felony
- Money mismanagement
- A child(ren) receiving FIP has a legal guardian
- Eviction or threatened eviction

BAM 420. Restricted payment status is reviewed when appropriate but at least at every determination. BAM 420. The client has the right to request and be granted a review of the restricted payment status every six months. BAM 420. An individual (group) may request a hearing to dispute a decision to begin or continue restricted payments or dispute the selection of a protected payee. BAM 420. Restricted payments are continued until the hearing matter is resolved. BAM 420.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, finds the Claimant disabled for purposes of the MA-P and SDA benefit programs.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED:

1. The Department's determination is REVERSED.
2. The Department shall initiate processing of the March 8, 2010 application to determine if all other non-medical criteria are met and inform the Claimant and his Representative of the determination in accordance with Department policy.
3. The Department shall supplement for lost benefits (if any) that the Claimant was entitled to receive if otherwise eligible and qualified in accordance with Department policy.
4. The Department shall evaluate the need for a protective payee in light of the Claimant's history of polysubstance abuse/dependence and medical records questioning the Claimant's ability to manage benefit funds in accordance with Department policy.
5. The Department shall review the Claimant's continued eligibility in December 2012 in accordance with Department policy.
