CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance program is established by Subchapter XIX of Chapter 7 of The Public Health & Welfare Act, 42 USC 1397, and is administered by the Department of Human Services, formerly known as the Family Independence Agency, pursuant to MCL 400.10 et seq. and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Bridges Administrative Manual ("BAM"), the Bridges Elig ibility Manual ("BEM"), and the Bridges Reference Tables ("RFT").

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental im pairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expect ed to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905(a). The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescri bed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related ac tivities o r ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CRF 413.913. An individual's subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CF R 416.908; 2 0 CFR 4 16.929(a). Similarly, conclusor y statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927.

When determining disability, the federal regulations require several factors to be considered including: (1) the location/duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant's pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicant takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and (4) the effect of the applicant's pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3). The applicant's pain must be assessed to determine the extent of his or her functional limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2).

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1). The five-step analysis requires the trier of fact to cons ider an individual's current work activit y; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to det ermine whether an individual can perform past relev ant work; and residual functional capacity along with vocational factors (i .e. age, education, and work experienc e) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945.

If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step, a determination or decision is made with no need evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabl ed, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If an impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment, an indi vidual's residual functional capacity is assessed before moving from step three to step four. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. Residual f unctional capacity is the most an indiv idual can do d espite the limitations based on all relevant evidence. 20 CF R 945(a)(1). An individual's residual functional capacity assessment is evaluat ed at both steps four and five. 20 CF R 416.920(a)(4). In determining disability, an i ndividual's functional capacity to perform basic work activities is evaluated and if found that the individ ual h as the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitation, disability will not be found. 20 CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv).

In general, the individual has the responsibility to prove disability. 20 CFR 41 6.912(a). An impairment or combination of impairments is not severe if it does not signific antly limit an in dividual's physica I or mental ability to do basic wor k activities. 20 CFR 416.921(a). The individua I has the responsibility to provide evidence of prior work experience; efforts to work; and any other factor showing how t he impairment affects the ability to work. 20 CFR 416.912(c)(3)(5)(6).

As outlined above, the first step looks at the i ndividual's current work activity. In the record presented, the Claimant is not involved in substantial gainful activity; therefore, is not ineligible for disability benefits under Step 1.

The severity of the Claimant's alleged impa irment(s) is considered under St ep 2. The Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. In order to be considered disabled for MA purpos es, the impairment must be seevere. 20 CFR 916. 920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 916.920(b). An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 916.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 916.920(c). Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 916.921(b). Examples include:

- 1. Physical functions such as wa lking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;
- 2. Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
- 3. Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
- Use of judgment;
- 5. Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
- 6. Dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

The second step allows for dismissal of a disability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). The severity requirement may still be employed as an administrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint. Id. at 863 citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985). An impairment qualifies as non-severe only if, regardless of a claimant's age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the claimant's ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985).

In the present case, the Claim ant alleges di sability due to arthritis, back pain, left shoulder pain, fibromyalgia, swollen left cheek, asthma, carpal tunnel syndrome, angina, fibroid tumors, and depression. In support of her claim, some older records from 2009 were submitted which document treatment/diagnoses of chest pain, left arm pain, and neck stiffness.

On the Claimant was admitted to the hospital with complaints of chest and left arm pain. Emergency cardiac cat heterization was performed due to suspect ed myocardial infarction. The Claimant's ejection fraction was 70% and there was an intramyocardial bridge of the mid left anterior descending showing 40 to 50 percent diameter reduction. The Claimant was discharged the following day with the diagnoses of atypical chest pain and myocardial bridge of the left anterior descending ("LAD").

On the Claimant presented to the hospital with complaints of right flank pain radiating to the groin. A CT scan of the abdomen/pelvis found a mass anterior to the uterine fundus which may re present peduniculated fibroid. A CT of the head/brain found no acute intracranial process. The Claimant was treated and discharged with the diagnoses of flank pain and facial pain.

In the Claimant was treated for, and diagnosed with, chest pain. A myocardial perfusion imaging/stress study found no evidenc e of stress ind uced reversible perfusion and a normal myocardial wall motion with an ejection fraction of 70 percent.

As previously noted, the Claim ant bears t he burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to s ubstantiate the alleged disabling im pairment(s). As summarized above, the Claimant has presen ted medical evidence establis hing that she does have some physical limitations on her ability to per form basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that the Claimant has an impairment, or combination thereof, that has more than a de minimus effect on the Claimant's basic work activities. Further, the impairments have lasted continuously for twelve months; therefore, the Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of MA-P benefits under Step 2.

In the third step of the seque ntial an alysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairment, or co mbination of impairm ents, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. The Claimant has alleged physic al disabling impairments due to arthritis, back pain, left shoulder pain, fibromyalgia, swollen left cheek, asthma, carpal tunnel syndrome, angina, fi broid tumors, and depression.

Listing 1.00 (musculoskeletal system), Listing 3.00 (respiratory system), Listing 4.00 (cardiovascular system), Listing 12.00 (ment all disor ders), and Listing 14.00 (immu ne system disorders) were consider ed in light of the objective medical evidence. There was no evidence of a major dysfunction of any joint or of the heart; no nerve root impingement; repeated hospitalizations due to any breathing disorder; and no marked limitations caused by the Claimant's depression. Ultimately, based on these records, it is found that the Claimant's impairments do not meet the intent and severity requirement of a listed impairment. Accordingly, the Claimant can not be found disabled or not disabled at Step 3; therefore, the Claimant's eligibility is considered under Step 4. 20 CFR 416.905(a).

The fourth step in analyzing a dis ability claim requires an assessment of the Claimant's residual f unctional capacity ("RFC") and pas t relevant employment. 20 CF R 416.920(a)(4)(iv). An individual is not disabled if he/she can perform past relevant work. Id.; 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). Past relevant work is work that has been performed within the past 15 years that was a substantial gainful activity and that lasted long enough for the individual to learn the position. 20 CF R 416.960(b)(1). Vocational fact ors of age, education, and work experience, and whether the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy is not considered. 20 CF R 416.960(b)(3). RFC is as sessed based on impairment(s), and any related symptoms, such as pain, which may cause physical and mental limitations that affect what can be done in a work setting. RFC is the most that can be done, despite the limitations.

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, jobs are c lassified as sedentary, light, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 2 0 CFR 416.967. Sedentary work involves lifting of no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties . Id. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing up to 10 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(b). Even though weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it invo Ives sit ting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. Id. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities. Id. A n individual capable of light work is also capable of sedentary work, unless there are additionally limiting factors such as loss of fin e dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time. Id. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). An individual capable of performing medium work is also capable of light and sedentary work. Id. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of object s weighing up to 50 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(d). An individual capable of heavy work is also capable of medium, light, and sedentary work. Id. Finally, very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing 50 pounds or more. 20 CFR 416.967(e). An individual capable of very heavy work is able to perform work under all categories. Id.

Limitations or restrictions which affect the ability to meet the demands of jobs other than strength demands (exertional requirements, i.e. sitting, standing, walk ing, lifting, carrying, pushing, or pulling) are consider ed nonexertional. 20 CFR 416.969a(a). In considering whether an individual can perform past relevant work, a comparis on of the individual's residual functional c apacity with the demands of past relevant work. an individual can no longer do past relevant work the same residual functional capacity assessment along with an individual's a ge, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an individual can adjust to other work which exists in the national economy. Id. Examples of non-exertional limitations or restrictions include difficulty function due to nervousness, anxiousness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concentration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficulty in seeing or hearing; difficulty tole rating some physical f eature(s) of certain work settings (i.e. can't tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or postural functions of some work such as reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(1)(i) – (vi). If the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-e xertional aspects of work-related activities, the rules in Appendi x 2 do n ot direct factual conclusions of 969a(c)(2). The determination of whether disabled or not disabled. 20 CFR 416. disability e xists is b ased upon the princi ples in the appropriate sections of the regulations, giving consideration to the rules fo r specific case situat ions in Appendix 2. ld.

The Claimant's work history includes em ployment history of w orking in retail (sellin g blinds and cemetery plots) and as an executive secretary. In light of the Claimant's testimony and in consideration of the Occupational Code, the Claimant's prior work in retail is c lassified as semi-skilled light work while the executive secretary position is semi-skilled, sedentary work.

The Claimant testified that she can lift/carry 5 to 10 pounds; walk but ex periences pain; stand 10 minutes; sit for about 30 minutes; and has difficulty bending and/or squatting. The objective medical evidence does not contain any physical and/or mental limitations. If the impairment or combination of impairments does not limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities, it is not a severe impairment(s) and disab ility does not exist. 20 CFR 416.920. In consi deration of the Claimant's testimony and medical records, it is found that the Claim ant is able to return to past relevant work. Accordingly, the Claimant is found not disabled at Step 4 with no further analysis required.

Assuming arguendo, that Step 5 was nec essary, an assessment of the individual's residual functional capacity and age, education, and work ex perience is considered to determine whether an adjustment to other work can be made. 20 CFR 416 .920(4)(v). years old thus considered to be a younger At the time of hearing, the Claimant was individual for MA-P purposes. The Claim ant has a high school education with college and vocational training. Disability is found if an individual is unable to adjust to other work. Id. At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from the Claimant to the Department to present proof t hat the Claimant has the residual capacity to substantial gainful em ployment. 20 CFR 416.960(2); Richardson v Sec of Health and Hum Services, 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984). While a vocational ex pert is not required, a finding supported by substantia

I evidence that the indiv idual has the vocational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services , 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978) . Medical-Vocationa I guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983). The age for younger individuals (under 50) generally wil I not seriously affect the ability to adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.963(c).

In this case, the evidence established that the Claimant mainly suffered with chest and flank pain. The Claim ant is in stable cond ition. The objective medical evidence does not contain any restrictions or limitations. In light of the foregoing, it would be found that the Claimant maintains the resi dual functional c apacity for work activities on a regular and continuing basis to meet the physical and mental dem ands required to perform at least sedentary to light work as defined in 20 CFR 416.967(a) and (b). After review of the entire r ecord finding no contradiction with any non-ex ertional limitations, using the Medical-Vocational G uidelines [ 20 CFR 4 04, Subpart P, Appendix II] as a guide, specifically Rule 201.22 and 202.22, the Claimant would be found not disabled at Step 5 as well.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, finds the Claimant not disabled for purposes of the MA-P benefit program.
