MICHIGAN ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING SYSTEM
ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE
DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF:

[REDACTED]

Reg No.: 2012-18042
Issue No.: 2009
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date: March 26, 2012
Macomb County DHS (36)

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Colleen M. Mamelka

HEARING DECISION

This matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and MCL 400.37 upon the Claimant's request for a hearing. After due notice, a hearing was held in Sterling Heights, Michigan on Monday, March 26, 2012. The Claimant appeared, along with [REDACTED], and testified. Participating on behalf of the Department of Human Services ("Department") was [REDACTED].

During the hearing, the Claimant waived the time period for the issuance of this decision, in order to allow for the submission of additional medical records. The evidence was received, reviewed, and forwarded to the State Hearing Review Team ("SHRT") for consideration. On August 14, 2012, this office received the SHRT determination which found the Claimant not disabled. This matter is now before the undersigned for a final decision.

ISSUE

Whether the Department properly determined that the Claimant was not disabled for purposes of the Medical Assistance ("MA-P") benefit program?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the competent, material, and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. The Claimant submitted an application for public assistance seeking MA-P benefits on September 9, 2011.

2012-18042/CMM

2. On November 10, 2011, the Medical Review Team (“MRT”) found the Claimant not disabled. (Exhibit 1, pp. 27, 28)
3. The Department notified the Claimant of the MRT determination on November 18, 2011. (Exhibit 3)
4. On November 29, 2011, the Department received the Claimant’s timely written request for hearing. (Exhibit 4)
5. On January 27th and August 8, 2012, the SHRT found the Claimant not disabled. (Exhibit 5)
6. The Claimant alleged physical disabling impairments due to back pain, leg pain, shoulder pain, shortness of breath, high blood pressure, residual complications from a stroke, peripheral neuropathy, insomnia, and arthritis.
7. The Claimant has not alleged any mental disabling impairment(s).
8. At the time of hearing, the Claimant was [REDACTED] years old with an [REDACTED] birth date; was 5’11” in height; and weighed approximately 180 pounds.
9. The Claimant is a college graduate with an employment history as a substitute teacher, private music teacher, and musician.
10. The Claimant’s impairments have lasted, or are expected to last, continuously for a period of 12 months or longer.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance program is established by Subchapter XIX of Chapter 7 of The Public Health & Welfare Act, 42 USC 1397, and is administered by the Department of Human Services, formerly known as the Family Independence Agency, pursuant to MCL 400.10 et seq. and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Bridges Administrative Manual (“BAM”), the Bridges Eligibility Manual (“BEM”), and the Bridges Reference Tables (“RFT”).

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905(a). The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CFR 416.913. An individual's subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a). Similarly, conclusory statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927.

When determining disability, the federal regulations require several factors to be considered including: (1) the location/duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant's pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicant takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and (4) the effect of the applicant's pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3). The applicant's pain must be assessed to determine the extent of his or her functional limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2).

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1). The five-step analysis requires the trier of fact to consider an individual's current work activity; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to determine whether an individual can perform past relevant work; and residual functional capacity along with vocational factors (i.e. age, education, and work experience) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945.

If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step, a determination or decision is made with no need evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabled, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If an impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment, an individual's residual functional capacity is assessed before moving from step three to step four. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. Residual functional capacity is the most an individual can do despite the limitations based on all relevant evidence. 20 CFR 416.945(a)(1). An individual's residual functional capacity assessment is evaluated at both steps four and five. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). In determining disability, an individual's functional capacity to perform basic work activities is evaluated and if found that the individual has the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitation, disability will not be found. 20 CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv). In general, the individual has the responsibility to prove disability. 20 CFR 416.912(a). An impairment or combination of impairments is not severe if it does not significantly limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.921(a). The individual has the responsibility to provide evidence of prior work experience; efforts to work; and any other factor showing how the impairment affects the ability to work. 20 CFR 416.912(c)(3)(5)(6).

As outlined above, the first step looks at the individual's current work activity. In the record presented, the Claimant is working part-time approximately 18 hours a week earning $7.40 an hour. For 2012, the Social Security Administration has determined the gross income level for substantial gainful activity is $1,010.00. In light of the foregoing, it is found that the Claimant is not involved in substantial gainful activity and, therefore, is not ineligible for disability benefits under Step 1.

The severity of the Claimant's alleged impairment(s) is considered under Step 2. The Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. In order to be considered disabled for MA purposes, the impairment must be severe. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(b). An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(c). Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 416.921(b). Examples include:

1. Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;
2. Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
3. Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
4. Use of judgment;
5. Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
6. Dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

The second step allows for dismissal of a disability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). The severity requirement may still be employed as an administrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint. Id. at 863 citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985). An impairment qualifies as non-severe only if, regardless of a claimant's age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the claimant's ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985).

In the present case, the Claimant alleges disability due to back pain, leg pain, shoulder pain, shortness of breath, high blood pressure, residual complications from a stroke, peripheral neuropathy, insomnia, and arthritis.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant presented to the hospital via EMS after being unresponsive and confused. A CT showed no acute intracranial process. The Claimant was treated and discharged the same day with the diagnoses of acute seizure without history of seizure disorder versus night terror. The Claimant was referred to a Neurologist for follow-up treatment.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant attended a follow-up appointment for a history of questionable seizure disorder. The examination was normal and the impressions were possible seizure disorder and insomnia.

On [REDACTED], the Claimant attended a follow-up appointment. The neurological examination was normal; however, it was unclear what caused the single seizure.

On [REDACTED] the Claimant attended a consultative psychiatric evaluation. The diagnoses were generalized anxiety disorder, post-traumatic stress disorder ("PTSD"), and dependent personality trait. Bipolar disorder and cannabis abuse were not ruled out. The Global Assessment Functioning ("GAF") was 48 and the prognosis was fair to guarded. The Mental Residual Functional Capacity Assessment was also completed. The Claimant was markedly limited in his ability to maintain attention and concentration for extended periods. The Claimant was moderately limited in 11 of the 20 factors.

On this same date, the Claimant attended a consultative physical evaluation. The physical examination was unremarkable. The diagnoses were history of Raynaud's disease, hyperlipidemia, herniated disc, and a history of one seizure without recurrence.

On [REDACTED], a Medical Examination Report was completed on behalf of the Claimant. The current diagnosis was high cholesterol. The physical examination was normal and he was in stable condition and able to meet his needs in the home.

As previously noted, the Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairment(s). As summarized above, the Claimant has presented some medical evidence establishing that he does have some physical limitations on his ability to perform basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that the Claimant has an impairment, or combination thereof, that has more than a de minimus effect on the Claimant's basic work activities.

Further, the impairments have lasted continuously for twelve months; therefore, the Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of MA-P benefits under Step 2.

In the third step of the sequential analysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR Part 404. The evidence confirms treatment/diagnoses of seizure disorder (single episode), insomnia, Raynaud's disease, hyperlipidemia, herniated disc, high cholesterol, PTSD, and generalized anxiety.

Listing 1.00 (musculoskeletal system), Listing 4.00 (cardiovascular system), Listing 11.00 (neurological), Listing 12.00 (mental disorders), and Listing 14.00 (immune system disorders) were considered in light of the objective evidence. There was no evidence of major joint dysfunction or nerve root impingement; persistent, recurrent, and/or uncontrolled (while on prescribed treatment) cardiovascular impairment; or end organ damage resulting from the Claimant's reported high blood pressure. The evidence shows that the Claimant had one seizure of which the exact cause is not known. Despite the seizure, the Claimant's neurological examination was normal. The records also note that the Claimant has Raynaud's syndrome; however there is no evidence of gangrene or ischemia with ulcerations or evidence that the Claimant is unable to ambulate effectively or perform fine and gross movements. The evidence does not show that the Claimant's symptoms persist despite prescribed treatment or that the Claimant has very serious limitations in his ability to independently initiate, sustain, or complete activities of daily living. Mentally, the evidence shows that the Claimant was markedly limited in his ability to maintain attention and concentration for extended periods. There were no other marked limitations in any functional area. Although the objective medical records establish some physical and mental impairments, these records do not meet the intent and severity requirements of a listing, or its equivalent. Accordingly, the Claimant cannot be found disabled, or not disabled, at Step 3.

Before considering the fourth step in the sequential analysis, a determination of the individual's residual functional capacity ("RFC") is made. 20 CFR 416.945. An individual's RFC is the most he/she can still do on a sustained basis despite the limitations from the impairment(s). Id. The total limiting effects of all the impairments, to include those that are not severe, are considered. 20 CFR 416.945(e).

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, jobs are classified as sedentary, light, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 20 CFR 416.967. Sedentary work involves lifting of no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Id. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing up to 10 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(b). Even though weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. Id. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities. Id. An individual capable of light work is also capable of sedentary work, unless there are additionally limiting factors such as loss of fine dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time. Id. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). An individual capable of performing medium work is also capable of light and sedentary work. Id. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(d). An individual capable of heavy work is also capable of medium, light, and sedentary work. Id. Finally, very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing 50 pounds or more. 20 CFR 416.967(e). An individual capable of very heavy work is able to perform work under all categories. Id.

Limitations or restrictions which affect the ability to meet the demands of jobs other than strength demands (exertional requirements, i.e. sitting, standing, walking, lifting, carrying, pushing, or pulling) are considered nonexertional. 20 CFR 416.969a(a). In considering whether an individual can perform past relevant work, a comparison of the individual's residual functional capacity with the demands of past relevant work. Id. If an individual can no longer do past relevant work the same residual functional capacity assessment along with an individual's age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an individual can adjust to other work which exists in the national economy. Id. Examples of non-exertional limitations or restrictions include difficulty to function due to nervousness, anxiousness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concentration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficulty in seeing or hearing; difficulty tolerating some physical feature(s) of certain work settings (i.e. can't tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or postural functions of some work such as reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(1)(i) – (vi). If the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-exertional aspects of work-related activities, the rules in Appendix 2 do not direct factual conclusions of disabled or not disabled. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(2). The determination of whether disability exists is based upon the principles in the appropriate sections of the regulations, giving consideration to the rules for specific case situations in Appendix 2. Id.

In this case, the evidence shows treatment/diagnoses of seizure disorder (single episode), insomnia, Raynaud's disease, hyperlipidemia, herniated disc, high cholesterol, PTSD, and generalized anxiety. The Claimant testified that he can walk without difficulty; grip/grasp without issue; sit for less than 2 hours; lift/carry less than 20 pounds; stand for 1 to 1½ hours; and is able to bend but unable to squat. The objective findings do not contain any physical limitations. As noted above, mentally, the Claimant was markedly limited in one of the 20 factors. After review of the entire record to include the Claimant's testimony, it is found that, at this time, the Claimant is able to maintain the physical and mental demands necessary to perform light work as defined by 20 CFR 416.967(b).

The fourth step in analyzing a disability claim requires an assessment of the Claimant's residual functional capacity ("RFC") and past relevant employment. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(iv). An individual is not disabled if he/she can perform past relevant work. Id.; 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). Past relevant work is work that has been performed within the past 15 years that was a substantial gainful activity and that lasted long enough for the individual to learn the position. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(1). Vocational factors of age, education, and work experience, and whether the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy is not considered. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3).

The Claimant's prior work history consists of substitute teacher (skilled light); as a music teacher (skilled, light), and as a private music teacher (skilled, sedentary/light). If the impairment or combination of impairments does not limit physical or mental ability to do basic work activities, it is not a severe impairment(s) and disability does not exist. 20 CFR 416.920. In light of the entire record, to include the Claimant's testimony and RFC (see above), it is found that the Claimant is able to perform past relevant work as a private music teacher.

Assuming arguendo, that Step 5 were required; an assessment of the individual's residual functional capacity and age, education, and work experience would be considered to determine whether an adjustment to other work could be made. 20 CFR 416.920(4)(v). At the time of hearing, the Claimant was [REDACTED] years old thus considered to be of advanced age for MA-P purposes. The Claimant is a college graduate. Disability is found if an individual is unable to adjust to other work. Id. At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from the Claimant to the Department to present proof that the Claimant has the residual capacity to substantial gainful employment. 20 CFR 416.960(2); Richardson v Sec of Health and Human Services, 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984). While a vocational expert is not required, a finding supported by substantial evidence that the individual has the vocational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services, 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978). Medical-Vocational guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983).

In this case, the objective findings reveal that the Claimant suffers seizure disorder (single episode), insomnia, Raynaud's disease, hyperlipidemia, herniated disc, high cholesterol, PTSD, and generalized anxiety. There were no physical restrictions imposed and only one marked mental limitation. The Claimant is limited to light activity. After review of the entire record, and using the Medical-Vocational Guidelines [20 CF R 404, Subpart P, Appendix II] as a guide, finding no contradiction with any non-exertional impairment, Rule 202.07 would direct a finding of not disabled at Step 5 as well.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above findings of fact and conclusions of law finds the Claimant not disabled for purposes of the MA-P benefit program.

Accordingly, It is ORDERED:

The Department's determination is AFFIRMED.
