CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act and is implemented by Title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The Department of Human Services (DHS or department) administers the MA program pursuant to MCL 400.10, et seq., and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), the Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM) and he Bridges Reference Manual (RFT).

The State Disability Assistanc e (SDA) program which provides financial assistance for disabled persons is estab lished by 2004 PA 344. The Department of Human Services (DHS or d epartment) administers the SDA program pursuant to M CL 400.10, et seq., and MAC R 400.3151-400.3180. De partment policies are found in the Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), the Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM) and the Bridges Reference Manual (RFT).

Federal regulations require that t he Department use the same operative definition of the term "disabled" as is used by the Social Security Administration for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) under Title XVI of the Social Security Act. 42 CFR 435.540(a).

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905

This is determined by a five step sequential evaluation process including whether the Claimant is engaged in current work activity, the severity and duration of the impairment(s), statutory listings of medical impairments, residual functional capacity, and vocational factors (i.e., age, education, and work experience) are considered. These factors are always considered in order according to the five step sequential evaluation, and when a determination can be made at any step as to the Claimant's disability status, no analysis of subsequent steps are necessary. 20 CFR 416.920

The first step that must be considered is whether the Claimant is still partaking in Substantial Gainful Activity (SGA). 20 CF R 416.920(b). To be considered disabled, a person must be unable to engage in SGA. In the current case, as outlined above, the first step looks at the individual's current work activity. In the record presented Claimant has testified that he is not working, and is not involved in substantial gainful activity and, therefore, is not ineligible for disability benefits under Step 1.

The second step that must be considered is whether or not the Claimant has a severe impairment. The severity of the Claimant's alleged impairment(s) is considered under Step 2. The C laimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. A severe impairment is an impairment expected to last 12 months or more (or result in death), which significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to perform basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 916.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 916.920(b). The impairment must be severe. 20 CF R 916.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 916.920(b). The term "basic work activities" means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 916.921(b). Examples of these include:

- (1) Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying or handling;
- (2) Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
- (3) Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
- (4) Use of judgment;

- (5) Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
- (6) Dealing with changes in a routine work setting. 20 CFR 416.921(b).

The purpose of the second step in the sequential evaluation process is to screen out claims lacking in medical m erit. Higgs v. Bowen 880 F2d 860, 862 (6 th Cir, 1988). As a result, the Department may only screen out claims at this level which are "totally groundless" solely from a medical standpoint. This is a de minimis standard in the disability determination that the court may use on ly to disregard trifling matters. As a rule, any impairment that can reasonably be expected to significantly impair basic activities is enough to meet this standard.

The Claimant presented to the emergency room in complaining of neck, and back pain and leg stif fness. The fi nal impression was acute exac erbation of chronic myalgias. The Claimant was not admitted to the hospital.

At an office visit in the treating doctor notes that Claimant had neck and back pain. No restrictions were noted and continued use of pain medications as treatment plan.

The Claimant was seen by a neurologist and a medic al examination report was completed on March 20, 2012. The diagnosi s was c hronic cerv ical pain, secondary muscle contraction, neurolog ical change and chronic lu mbosacral pain with lef t lumbosacral radiculopathy. The Claimant was noted as stable.

A Medical examination report was completed on doctor who had previously seen the Claimant gave a diagnosis of cervicalgia, lumbago and arthritis. The exam noted range of motion was limited by cervical and lumbar pain. The examiner noted that Claimant was unable to sit without changing position frequently. The clinic al impression was Cla imant's condition was stable and that the Claimant was capable of managing her needs in the home.

A Medical examination report was completed by the same doctor in The diagnosis was lumbago and cervicalgia, with noted history of neck and back pain. The examiner noted that there was limited range of motion in neck and lower back due to pain. The Claim ant's condition was stable and capable of meeting needs in the home.

In the current case, Claimant has presented medical evidence of rheumatoid arthritis and cervical myositis. A Medical examination report was completed on The Claimant presented with neck pain, headaches, lower back pain and bilateral leg pain. The diagnosis was chronic cervical pain, secondary muscle contractions, headaches, chronic lumbosac ral pain right less than left with radiculopathy. The examiner , a neurologis t that the Claimant had seen in the past, noted that the Claimant was im proving and that Claimant co uld meet her needs in the home.

The Administrative Law Judge finds that the Claimant's medic all evidence as summarized above presents sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairment(s), establishing that she does have some physical limitations on her ability to perform basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that the Claimant has an impairment or combination thereof that has more than a deminimis effect on the Claimant's basic work activities. Further the impairment has lasted continuously for twelve months; therefore, the Claimant is not disqualified, and is therefore enough to pass step two of the sequential evaluation process.

In the third step of the sequential evaluation, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairments, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. This is, generally speaking, an objective standard; either Claimant's impairment is listed in this appendix, or it is not. However, at this step, a ruling against the Claimant does not direct a finding of "not disabled"; if the Claimant's impairment does not meet or equal a listing found in Appendix 1, the sequential evaluation process must continue on to step four.

The Administrative Law Judge finds that the Claimant's medical records do not contain medical ev idence of an impairment that meets or equals a listed impairment. Listing 1.00 Musculosketal System, Listing 1.02 (Major dysfunction of a joint) and Listing 1.04 (disorders of the spine), as well as 14.09 Inflammatory Arthritis were considered in light of the objective evidence.

Ultimately, based on the m edical evidence, it is found that the Claimant's impairments do not meet the intent and severi ty and specific requirements of a listed impairment. Therefore, the Claimant cannot be found to be disabled at this step, based upon medical evidence alone. 20 CFR 416.920(d). We must thus proceed to the next step, step 4 in the sequential evaluation.

The fourth step in analyzing a disabi lity claim requires an assessment of the Claimant's residual functional capacity ("RFC") and past relevant employment. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(iv). An individual is not disabled if he/she can perform past relevant work. Id.; 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). Past relevant work is work that has been performed within the past 15 years that was a substantial gainful activity and that lasted long enough for the individual to learn the position. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(1). Vocational fact ors of age, education, and work experience, and whether the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy are not considered. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). RFC is as sessed based on impairment(s) and any related symptoms, such as pain, which may cause physical and mental limitations that affect what can be done in a work setting. RFC is the most that can be done, despite the limitations.

To determine the physical demands (e xertional r equirements e.g., sitting, standing, walking, lifting, carrying, pushing, or pulling) of work in the national economy, jobs are classified as sedentary, ligh t, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 20 CFR 416.967.

Sedentary work involves lifting of no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Id. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met.

Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing up to 10 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(b). Even though weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. Id. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities. Id. An individual capable of light work is also capable of sedentary work, unless there are additional limiting factors such as loss of fine dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time. Id.

Medium work involv es lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or c arrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). An individual capable of performing medium work is als o capable of light and sedentary work. Id.

Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(d). An individual capable of heavy work is also capable of medium, light, and sedentary work. Id. Finally, very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing 50 pounds or more. 20 CFR 416.967(e). An individual capable of very heavy work is able to perform work under all categories. Id.

Limitations or restricti ons which affect the ability to meet the demands of jobs other than strength dem ands are considered nonexertional. 20 CFR 416. 969a(a). In considering whether an individual can perform past relevant work, a comparis on of the individual's residual functional capacity to the demands of past relevant work must be made. Id. If an individual can no longer do past relevant work, the same residual functional capacity assessment along with an individual's age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an individual can adjust to other work which exists in the national economy. Id. Examples of non-exertional limitations or restrictions include difficulty function due to nervousness, anxious ness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concentration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficult y in seeing or hearing; difficulty tolerating some physical feature(s) of certain work settings (e.g., can't tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or postural functions of some work such as reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching. 20 CFR 41 6.969a(c)(1)(i) - (vi). If the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-exertional as pects of work-related activities, the rules in Appendix 2 do not direct factual conclusions of disabled or not disabled. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(2). The determination of whether disability exists is based upon the principles in the appropriate sections of the regulations, giving consideration to the rules for specific case situations in Appendix 2. Id.

The Claimant's prior work history cons ists of telemarketer for one month and working as a waitress, and doing computer data entry of auto parts.

In light of the Claimant's stestimony and records, an d in consideration of the Occupational Code, the Claimant's prior work is classified as semi-skilled light to medium work.

The Claim ant credibly test ified that she is able to walk about less than half a block, lift/carry up to a quart of milk; and that she can stand for short periods 5 to 6 minutes; sit for about an 5 to 6 minutes with a table to lean on, cannot drive because of the limitation of motion (turning) her neck. Claimant cannot bend except forward slightly, and is otherwise unable to bend and/or squat. The Claimant also credibly testified that she could not use a keyboard due to arthritis in her fingers and hands. The Claimant's treating physician noted that her range of motion is limited due to pain in her neck and back and that the Claim ant cannot sit without changing position frequently. The objective medical evidence places that Claim ant at signific antly limited activity. The medical evidence does contain physical restrictions placed upon the Claimant by her doctor as noted above. If the impairment or combination of impairments does not limit physical or mental ability to do basic work activities, it is not a severe impairment(s) and disability does not exist. 20 CFR 416.920.

In consideration of the Claimant's testimony, medical records, and current limitations, it is found that the Claimant is not able to return to past relevant work; thus, the fifth step in the sequential analysis is required.

In Step 5, an assessment of the individual's residual functional capacity and age, education, and work experience is consider ed to determine whet her an adjustment to other work can be m ade. 20 CFR 416.920(4)(v). The Clai mant is great years old and, thus, is considered to be of a person closely approa ching advanced age for MA-P purposes. The Claimant has an 11th grade education. At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from the Claimant to the Depart ment to present proof that the Claimant has the residual capacity to substantia I gainful employment. 20 CFR 416.960(2); Richardson v Sec of Health and Human Services , 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984). While a vocational expert is not required, a finding supported by substantial evidence that the individual has the vo cational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Heal th and Human Services, 587 F 2d 321, 323

(CA 6, 1978). Medical-Vocational guide lines found at 20 CF R Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of provi ng that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983).

In this cas e, the evidence reveals that the Claimant suffers from cervical and lumbar pain on a recurring basis due to rheum atoid arthritis and cervical my ositis. The Claimant testified that she can dress herself and tie her shoes sometimes but cannot bend from the waist or squat and cannot stand in the show er. The bending limitation and squatting is supported by the medical records and the notation by the Claimant's treating physician that she has limited range of motion in her lumbar and cervical spine and cannot sit without frequently changing positions. The Claimant's credible testimony described that she experienced significant pain with regard to her back and neck (pain level 10 with over the counter medication). The Claimant further described limitation of motion in her neck and back. In considerati on of the foregoing and in light of the objective limitations, it is found that the Cla imant retains the residual functional capac ity for work activities on a regular and continuing to meet at the physical and mental demands required to perform sedentary work in 20 CFR 416.967(b).

After review of the entire record, the testimony of the Claimant and the m edical evidence and using the Medical-Vocational Guidelines [20 CFR 404, Subpart P, Appendix I I] as a guide, specif ically Rule 201.10, it is found that the Claimant is disabled for purposes of the MA-P program at Step 5.

The State Disability Assistance program, which provides financial assistance for disabled persons, was established by 2004 PA 344. The Department administers the SDA program purusant to MCL 400.10 et seq. and Michigan Administrative Code ("MAC R") 400.3151 – 400.3180. Department policies are found in BAM, BEM, and BRM. A person is considered disabled for SDA purposes if the person has a physical or mental impairment which meets federal SSI disability standards for at least ninety days. Receipt of SSI or RSDI benefits based on disability or blindness, or the receipt of MA benefits based on disability or blindness automatically qualifies an individual as disabled for purposes of the SDA program.

In this case, the Claimant is found disa bled for purposes of the MA-P program; therefore, the Claimant is found disabled for purposes of the SDA benefit program.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above findings of fact and conclusions of law finds the Claimant di sabled for purposes of the MA-P and SDA benefit programs.

Accordingly, It is ORDERED:

- 1. The Department's determination is REVERSED.
- 2. The Department shall initiate proc essing of the March 1, 2012 application to determine if all other non-medica

 I criteria are met and inform the Claimant of the determination in accordance with Department policy.
