and XX of the Soc	opment and Care (CDC) program is established by Titles IVA, IVE ial Security Act, the Child Care and Development Block Grant of onal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996.

The program is implemented by Title 45 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Parts 98 and 99. The Department provides services to adults and children pursuant to MCL 400.14(1) and 1999 AC, R 400.5001 through Rule 400.5015.

The facts of this case are not disputed. The claimant's resides in the claimant's house for only nine days each month. The rest of the month, he resides with his father. Further, is a full-time student and is disqualified from receiving Food Assistance benefits due to his student status. The department worker received clarification through the policy unit that indicates the claimant's son's income must be included in the claimant's FAP budget because he The policy unit cited BEM 212. The claimant submitted a hearing request to dispute the inclusion of her son's income in his FAP case, when she receives no FAP benefits for him.
While BEM 212 is the controlling policy on this case, the portion cited by the policy unit is not pertinent to this case. The section cited is for a primary caretaker designation, which clearly is not relevant in this case, as old. The question would turn upon if the claimant lives with her son, since he only resides in the household for nine days. However, there isn't even a need to get to this question, because the department representative testified that Nicholas is in student status. According to BEM 212 page 7 and 8, persons might live with the FAP group who are not group members. Do not consider their income and assets when determining the group's eligibility. One of the categories listed under this section is ineligible students. Thus, policy indicates that, for FAP, an ineligible student is a non-group member, even if living with a group member. Further, the student's income and assets are not considered toward the FAP group. Therefore, the department improperly included income in the claimant's FAP eligibility determination.
Based upon the above Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, and for the reasons stated on the record, the Administrative Law Judge concludes that, due to excess income, the Department $\  \  \  \  \  \  \  \  \  \  \  \  \ $
