MICHIGAN ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING SYSTEM
ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF:

[REDACTED]

Reg No.: 2012-67593
Issue No.: 2000, 4000
Case No.: [REDACTED] 0
Hearing Date: October 18, 2012
Macomb County DHS (20)

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Colleen M. Mamelka

HEARING DECISION

This matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and MCL 400.37 upon the Claimant's request for a hearing. After due notice, a hearing was held in Warren, Michigan on Thursday, October 18, 2012. The Claimant appeared, along with Pat Hearod, and testified. The Claimant was represented by [REDACTED] of [REDACTED]). Participating on behalf of the Department of Human Services ("Department") was [REDACTED]. Observing the proceedings from MAS was [REDACTED].

During the hearing, the Claimant waived the time period for the issuance of this decision in order to allow for the submission of additional medical evidence. Additional records included various medical/treatment and a consultative evaluation. On January 31, 2013, this office received notification that the Claimant failed to attend the consultative evaluation scheduled for November 21, 2012 at 3:00p.m. Additional records from the Authorized Hearing Representative ("AHR") were received, reviewed, and forwarded to the State Hearing Review Team ("SHRT") for consideration. On February 27, 2013, this office received the SHRT determination which found the Claimant not disabled. This matter is now before the undersigned for a final decision.

ISSUE

Whether the Department properly determined that the Claimant was not disabled for purposes of the Medical Assistance ("MA-P") and State Disability Assistance ("SDA") benefit programs?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the competent, material, and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. The Claimant submitted an application for public assistance seeking SDA and MA-P benefits retroactive to January 2012, on March 28, 2012.
2. On May 2, 2012, the Medical Review Team (“MRT”) found the Claimant not disabled. (Exhibit 1, pp. 3, 4)
3. The Department notified the Claimant of the MRT determination on May 8, 2012. (Exhibit 1, pp. 1, 2)
4. On July 30, 2012, the Department received the Claimant’s timely written request for hearing.
5. On September 6, 2012, the SHRT found the Claimant not disabled. (Exhibit 2)
6. During the October 18, 2012 hearing, the Claimant agreed to attend a consultative evaluation.
7. On January 31, 2013, notice was received that the Claimant failed to attend the evaluation.
8. On February 20, 2013, this SHRT found the Claimant not disabled.
9. The Claimant alleged physical disabling impairments due to back pain, headaches, hypothyroidism, ulcers, and high blood pressure.
10. The Claimant alleged mental disabling impairments due to post-traumatic stress disorder (“PTSD”), bipolar disorder, anxiety, and depression.
11. At the time of hearing, the Claimant was 48 years old with a January 19, 1964 birth date; was 5’7” in height; and weighed 133 pounds.
12. The Claimant has a Juris Doctorate (“JD”) with an employment history finishing furniture; cleaning an apartment complex; at a flower shop; as an attorney; and as a paralegal/secretary.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance program is established by Subchapter XIX of Chapter 7 of The Public Health & Welfare Act, 42 USC 1397, and is administered by the Department of Human Services, formerly known as the Family Independence Agency, pursuant to

MCL 400.10 et seq and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Bridges Administrative Manual (“BAM”), the Bridges Eligibility Manual (“BEM”), and the Bridges Reference Tables (“RFT”).

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905(a). The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CFR 416.913. An individual’s subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a). Similarly, conclusory statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927.

When determining disability, the federal regulations require several factors to be considered including: (1) the location/duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant’s pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicant takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and (4) the effect of the applicant’s pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3). The applicant’s pain must be assessed to determine the extent of his or her functional limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2).

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1). The five-step analysis requires the trier of fact to consider an individual’s current work activity; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to determine whether an individual can perform past relevant work; and residual functional capacity along with vocational factors (i.e. age, education, and work experience) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945.

If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step, a determination or decision is made with no need evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabled, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If an impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment, an individual’s residual functional capacity is assessed before moving from step three to step four. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. Residual functional capacity is the most an individual can do despite the limitations based on all relevant evidence. 20 CFR 416.945(a)(1). An individual's residual functional capacity assessment is evaluated at both steps four and five. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). In determining disability, an individual's functional capacity to perform basic work activities is evaluated and if found that the individual has the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitation, disability will not be found. 20 CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv). In general, the individual has the responsibility to prove disability. 20 CFR 416.912(a). An impairment or combination of impairments is not severe if it does not significantly limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.921(a). The individual has the responsibility to provide evidence of prior work experience; efforts to work; and any other factor showing how the impairment affects the ability to work. 20 CFR 416.912(c)(3)(5)(6).

In addition to the above, when evaluating mental impairments, a special technique is utilized. 20 CFR 416.920a(a). First, an individual's pertinent symptoms, signs, and laboratory findings are evaluated to determine whether a medically determinable mental impairment exists. 20 CFR 416.920a(b)(1). When a medically determinable mental impairment is established, the symptoms, signs and laboratory findings that substantiate the impairment are documented to include the individual's significant history, laboratory findings, and functional limitations. 20 CFR 416.920a(e)(2). Functional limitation(s) is assessed based upon the extent to which the impairment(s) interferes with an individual's ability to function independently, appropriately, effectively, and on a sustained basis. Id.; 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(2). Chronic mental disorders, structured settings, medication, and other treatment and the effect on the overall degree of functionality is considered. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(1). In addition, four broad functional areas (activities of daily living; social functioning; concentration, persistence or pace; and episodes of decompensation) are considered when determining an individual's degree of functional limitation. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(3). The degree of limitation for the first three functional areas is rated by a five point scale: none, mild, moderate, marked, and extreme. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(4). A four point scale (none, one or two, three, four or more) is used to rate the degree of limitation in the fourth functional area. Id. The last point on each scale represents a degree of limitation that is incompatible with the ability to do any gainful activity. Id.

After the degree of functional limitation is determined, the severity of the mental impairment is determined. 20 CFR 416.920a(d). If severe, a determination of whether the impairment meets or is the equivalent of a listed mental disorder is made. 20 CFR 416.920a(d)(2). If the severe mental impairment does not meet (or equal) a listed impairment, an individual's residual functional capacity is assessed. 20 CFR 416.920a(d)(3).

As outlined above, the first step looks at the individual's current work activity. In the record presented, the Claimant is not involved in substantial gainful activity therefore is not ineligible for disability benefits under Step 1.

The severity of the Claimant's alleged impairment(s) is considered under Step 2. The Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. In order to be considered disabled for MA purposes, the impairment must be severe. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(b). An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(c). Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 416.921(b). Examples include:

1. Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;
2. Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
3. Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
4. Use of judgment;
5. Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
6. Dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

The second step allows for dismissal of a disability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). The severity requirement may still be employed as an administrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint. Id. at 863 citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985). An impairment qualifies as non-severe only if, regardless of a claimant's age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the claimant's ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985).

In the present case, the Claimant alleges disability due to back pain, headaches, hypothyroidism, ulcers, high blood pressure, PTSD, anxiety, and depression.

2012-67593/CMM

In support of her claim, some older records from 2009 and 2010 were submitted which document treatment/diagnoses of dizziness, dehydration, athlete's foot, alcohol withdrawal, gastrointestinal bleed, hypothyroidism, migraine headaches, and chronic back pain. Bipolar II disorder and adjustment disorder was not ruled out.

On March 17, 2011, the Claimant presented to the emergency room with complaints of anxiety and breathing problems. The Claimant was treated and discharged with the diagnoses of alcohol intoxication, anxiety, and chest pain. The chest pain was found to be likely related to the anxiety.

On March 28, 2011, the Claimant presented to the emergency room with a head injury. It was determined that the Claimant had been drinking and had passed out. The Claimant was treated and discharged after determined she was legally sober with the diagnosis of head injury (without evidence of hemorrhage or ischemic CVA) and acute alcohol intoxication.

On January 26, 2012, the Claimant presented to the hospital for evaluation of a head injury. Drug, alcohol, and domestic violence were associated with the incident. The physical examination revealed moderate pain/distress, contusion to the head, and left periorbital edema/tenderness. A CT of the cervical spine was unremarkable. Mentally, the Claimant presented with flat affect, poor judgment and insight, poor recent memory, and poor concentration. The Claimant was treated and discharged with the diagnoses of facial contusion and minor closed head injury.

On March 7, 2012, the Claimant presented to the hospital with complaints of chest pain with a history of chronic alcohol abuse. The Claimant refused a psychiatric evaluation. The Claimant was treated and discharged with the diagnoses of chronic alcohol use with possible delirium tremens (stable), atypical chest pain, depression, anxiety, hypothyroidism (stable), thrombocytopenia (secondary to alcohol usage), and alcohol misuse.

On June 20, 2012, the Claimant presented to the emergency room with complaints of abdominal pain. The Claimant's blood alcohol level was 232. The Claimant refused a more complete evaluation. The Claimant was to be discharged when she was legally sober.

On August 10, 2012, the Claimant "who is a frequent flyer to the hospital who has a history of chronic alcoholism with binge drinking" was brought to the emergency room via ambulance after being found passed out in her home. The Claimant was treated and was discharged the following day, against medical advice. The diagnoses were impending delirium tremens ("DTs"), chronic binge alcoholism, alcoholic liver disease, depression, bipolar disorder, hypopotassemia, and subclinical hypothyroidism.

2012-67593/CMM

On August 15, 2012, the Claimant was transferred to a psychiatric hospital via petition. The Claimant's medications were changed resulting in improved mood and affect. The Claimant was isolative and disagreed with her admission. The Claimant was discharged on August 17th with the diagnoses of major depression (recurrent, severe without psychosis) and alcohol abuse. The Global Assessment Functioning ("GAF") was 50.

On September 11, 2012, the Claimant's medications for anxiety and depression were renewed.

On September 14, 2012, the Claimant was admitted to the hospital with complaints of chest pain. Imaging studies were essentially unremarkable. The Claimant was treated and discharged with the diagnoses of atypical chest pain, headache, hypothyroidism, hyperlipidemia, PTSD, and bipolar disorder.

On September 25, 2012, the Claimant attended therapy. Thoughts of not wanting to be alive were documented along with labile mood and thoughts of hurting others if confronted. The Claimant was found to be decompensation despite medication.

On October 23, 2012, the Claimant attended a follow-up appointment with complaints of increased anxiety despite medication. The Claimant's medications were changed.

On November 19, 2012 and January 3, 2013, the Claimant attended a follow-up appointment. There were no new complaints or side effects noted.

As previously noted, the Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairment(s). In this case, the record was insufficient for a determination of disability. As a result, the record was extended to allow for the submission of additional medical records as well as a consultative evaluation. On January 31, 2012, this office was notified that the Claimant failed to attend the consultative evaluation scheduled for November 21, 2012 at 3:00p.m. When an individual who is applying for benefits fails to take part in a consultative examination or test necessary to determine disability, the individual may be found not disabled. 20 CFR 416.918(a). In this case, the consultative examination was necessary to determine disability; however, additional medical evidence was also submitted. In light of the foregoing, the sequential analysis will continue.

As summarized above, the Claimant has presented some medical evidence establishing that she does have some physical and mental limitations on her ability to perform basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that the Claimant has an impairment, or combination thereof, that has more than a de minimis effect on the Claimant's basic work activities. The degree of functional limitation on the Claimant's activities, social function, concentration, persistence, or pace is mild to moderate. The degree of functional limitation in the fourth area (episodes of decompensation) is at most a 2. Further, the impairments have lasted continuously for twelve months; therefore, the Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of MA-P benefits under Step 2.

In the third step of the sequential analysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. The evidence from 2011 through 2012, confirms treatment/diagnoses of head injury, anxiety, chest pain, hypothyroidism, thrombocytopenia, DTs, major depression, and PTSD. The head injury, anxiety, chest pain, thrombocytopenia, and DTs were associated to the Claimant's chronic alcoholism.

Listing 1.00 (musculoskeletal system), Listing 4.00 (cardiovascular system), Listing 5.00 (digestive system), Listing 7.00 (hematological disorders), Listing 11.00 (neurological disorders), and Listing 12.00 (mental disorders) were considered in light of the objective medical evidence. There were no objective findings of major joint dysfunction, non-union fracture, or nerve root impingement; or persistent, recurrent, and/or uncontrolled (while on prescribed treatment) cardiovascular impairment or end organ damage. There was no evidence to establish a digestive impairment or any evidence of serious neurological deficits. Finally, the evidence does not show that the Claimant symptoms persist despite prescribed treatment or that the Claimant has very serious limitations in her ability to independently initiate, sustain, or complete activities of daily living. Mentally, there was no evidence of any marked limitations in any of the any functional areas noting the Claimant's mental status was improved with prescribed treatment. Although the objective medical records establish some physical and mental impairments, these records do not meet the intent and severity requirements of a listing, or its equivalent. Accordingly, the Claimant can not be found disabled, or not disabled at Step 3; therefore, the Claimant's eligibility is considered under Step 4. 20 CFR 416.905(a).

Before considering the fourth step in the sequential analysis, a determination of the individual's residual functional capacity ("RFC") is made. 20 CFR 416.945. An individual's RFC is the most he/she can still do on a sustained basis despite the limitations from the impairment(s). Id. The total limiting effects of all the impairments, to include those that are not severe, are considered. 20 CFR 416.945(e).

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, jobs are classified as sedentary, light, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 20 CFR 416.967. Sedentary work involves lifting of no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Id. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing up to 10 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(b). Even though weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. Id. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities. Id. An individual capable of light work is also capable of sedentary work, unless there are additionally limiting factors such as loss of fine dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time. Id. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). An individual capable of performing medium work is also capable of light and sedentary work. Id. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(d). An individual capable of heavy work is also capable of medium, light, and sedentary work. Id. Finally, very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing 50 pounds or more. 20 CFR 416.967(e). An individual capable of very heavy work is able to perform work under all categories. Id.

Limitations or restrictions which affect the ability to meet the demands of jobs other than strength demands (exertional requirements, i.e. sitting, standing, walking, lifting, carrying, pushing, or pulling) are considered nonexertional. 20 CFR 416.969a(a). In considering whether an individual can perform past relevant work, a comparison of the individual's residual functional capacity with the demands of past relevant work. Id. If an individual can no longer do past relevant work the same residual functional capacity assessment along with an individual's age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an individual can adjust to other work which exists in the national economy. Id. Examples of non-exertional limitations or restrictions include difficulty to function due to nervousness, anxiousness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concentration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficulty in seeing or hearing; difficulty tolerating some physical feature(s) of certain work settings (i.e. can't tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or postural functions of some work such as reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(1)(i) – (vi). If the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-exertional aspects of work-related activities, the rules in Appendix 2 do not direct factual conclusions of disabled or not disabled. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(2). The determination of whether disability exists is based upon the principles in the appropriate sections of the regulations, giving consideration to the rules for specific case situations in Appendix 2. Id.

In this case, the evidence from 2011 through 2012, confirms treatment/diagnoses of head injury, anxiety, chest pain, hypothyroidism, thrombocytopenia, DTs, major depression, and PTSD. The head injury, anxiety, chest pain, thrombocytopenia, and DTs were associated to the Claimant's chronic alcoholism. The Claimant testified that she is able to walk short distances; grip/grasp without issue; sit for 2 hours (with a pillow); lift/carry less than 10 pounds; stand for less than 2 hours; and has difficulties bending and/or squatting. The objective medical evidence does not contain any physical or mental limitations. After review of the entire record and considering the Claimant's testimony, it is found, at this point, that the Claimant maintains the residual functional capacity to perform at least semi-skilled, limited, light work as defined by 20 CFR 416.967(b). Limitations being the alternation between sitting and standing at will.

The fourth step in analyzing a disability claim requires an assessment of the Claimant's residual functional capacity ("RFC") and past relevant employment. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(iv). An individual is not disabled if he/she can perform past relevant work. Id.; 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). Past relevant work is work that has been performed within the past 15 years that was a substantial gainful activity and that lasted long enough for the individual to learn the position. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(1). Vocational factors of age, education, and work experience, and whether the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy is not considered. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3).

The Claimant's prior employment consisted of work finishing furniture; cleaning an apartment complex; at a flower shop; as an attorney; and as a paralegal/secretary. In consideration of the Claimant's testimony and Occupational Code, the prior employment finishing furniture and at a flower shop is classified as semi-skilled, light work while the apartment cleaning position is considered unskilled, light work. The Claimant's attorney position is classified as skilled, sedentary to light work while the secretary/paralegal employment is semi-skilled sedentary to light work. If the impairment or combination of impairments does not limit physical or mental ability to do basic work activities, it is not a severe impairment(s) and disability does not exist. 20 CFR 416.920. As noted above, the objective evidence does not contain any physical or mental restrictions that would preclude employment. In light of the entire record and the Claimant's RFC (see above), it is found that the Claimant is able to perform past relevant work cleaning apartments, finishing furniture, and at a flower shop. Accordingly, the Claimant is found not disabled at Step 4 with no further analysis required.

Assuming arguendo, Step 5 was necessary; Step 5 requires an assessment of the Claimant's residual functional capacity and age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an adjustment to other work can be made. 20 CFR 416.920(4)(v). At the time of hearing, the Claimant was 48 years old and, thus, considered to be a younger individual for MA-P purposes. The Claimant has a JD. Disability is found if an individual is unable to adjust to other work. Id. At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from the Claimant to the Department to present proof that the Claimant has the residual capacity to substantial gainful employment. 20 CFR 416.960(2); Richardson v Sec of Health and Human Services, 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984). While a vocational expert is not required, a finding supported by substantial evidence that the individual has the vocational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services, 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978). Medical-Vocational guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983). The age for younger individuals (under 50) generally will not seriously affect the ability to adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.963(c).

In this case, the evidence from 2011 through 2012, confirms treatment/diagnoses of head injury, anxiety, chest pain, hypothyroidism, thrombocytopenia, DTs, major depression, and PTSD. The head injury, anxiety, chest pain, thrombocytopenia, and DTs were associated to the Claimant's chronic alcoholism. The majority of the Claimant's hospitalizations were due, in part, to alcohol intoxication/abuse. As such, a determination of whether the dependence/abuse is a contributing factor material to the finding of disability would be made. 20 CFR 416.935(a). A key factor in making this determination is whether the Claimant would still be found disabled if the Claimant stopped drinking. 20 CFR 416.935(b)(1). As detailed above, the evidence does not contain and physical and/or mental limitations. Here, the Claimant's continued alcohol dependence is a contributing factor material to the determination of disability. 20 CFR 416.935(b)(2)(i). In light of the foregoing, it would be found that the Claimant maintains the residual functional capacity for work activities on a regular and continuing basis to meet the physical and mental demands required to perform at least light work as defined in 20 CFR 416.967(b). After review of the entire record, finding no contradiction with the Claimant's non-exertional limitations, and in consideration of the Claimant's age, education, work experience, RFC, and using the Medical-Vocational Guidelines [20 CFR 404, Subpart P, Appendix II] as a guide, specifically Rule 201.21 and 201.22, the Claimant would be found not disabled at Step 5 as well.

The State Disability Assistance program, which provides financial assistance for disabled persons, was established by 2004 PA 344. The Department administers the SDA program pursuant to MCL 400.10 et seq. and Mich Admin Code, Rules 400.3151 – 400.3180. Department policies are found in BAM, BEM, and RFT. A person is considered disabled for SDA purposes if the person has a physical or mental impairment which meets federal SSI disability standards for at least ninety days. Receipt of SSI benefits based on disability or blindness, or the receipt of MA benefits based on disability or blindness automatically qualifies an individual as disabled for purposes of the SDA program.

In this case, the Claimant is found not disabled for purposes of the MA-P program; therefore, the Claimant is found not disabled for purposes of the SDA benefit program.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above findings of fact and conclusions of law finds the Claimant not disabled for purposes of the MA-P and SDA benefit programs.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED:

The Department's determination is AFFIRMED.
