This matter is before the undersigned Admi nistrative Law Ju dge upon Claimant's request for a hearing made pursuant to Mi chigan Compiled Laws 400.9 and 400.37, which gov ern the administrative hearing a nd appeal process. After due notice, a telephone hearing was commenced on December 4, 2012, fr om Lansing, Michig an. Claimant personally appeared and testified. Participants on behalf of the Department of Human Services (Department) included Medical Contacts Worker

During the hearing, Claimant wa ived the time period for the issuance of this decision in order to allow for the submission of addit tional medical evidence. The new evidence e was forwarded to the State Hearing Review Team (SHRT) for consideration. On February 15, 2013, the SHRT found Claim ant was not disabled. This matter is now before the undersigned for a final decision.

ISSUE

Whether the Department of Human Serv ices (the department) properly denied Claimant's application for Medical Assistance (MA-P) and Retro-MA?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the competent, material and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

- (1) On March 28, 2012, Cla imant filed an application for MA-P and Retro-MA benefits alleging disability.
- (2) On June 29, 2012, the Medical Re view Team (MRT) denied Claimant's application for MA-P and Retro-MA i ndicating that she was capable of performing other work. (Depart Ex. A, pp 2-3).

- (3) On July 3, 2012, the department caseworker sent Claimant notice that her application was denied.
- (4) On August 15, 2012, Claimant filed a request for a hearing to contest the department's negative action.
- (5) On October 3, 2012, the State Hear ing Review T eam (SHRT) found Claimant was not disabled and r etained the capacity to perform medium work. (Depart Ex. B, pp 1-2).
- (6) Claimant has a histor y of short ness of breath, seizur e disorder, bipolar disorder, diabetes mellitus, depression, hypokalemia, and hypertension.
- (7) Claimant is a 50 year old wom an whos e birthday is Claimant is 5'4" tall and weighs 271 lbs. Claimant completed high school.
- (8) Claimant was appealing the denial of Social Securi ty disability benefits at the time of the hearing.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Subchapter XIX of Chapter 7 of The Public Health & Welfare Act, 42 USC 1397, and is administered by the Department, (DHS or department), pursuant to MCL 400.10 et seq. and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Bridges Adminis trative Manual (BAM), the Bridges Eligibilit y Manual (BEM), and the Reference Tables Manual (RFT).

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental im pairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expect ed to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905(a). The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to esta blish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinica l/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescri bed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related ac tivities o r ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CRF 413.913. An individual's subjective pain com plaints ar e not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disab ility. 20 CF R 416.908; 2 0 CFR 4 16.929(a). Similarly, conclusor y statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927.

When determining disability, t he federal regulations require several factors to be considered including: (1) the location/ duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant's pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicant takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and, (4) the effect of the applicant's pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3). The applicant's pain must be assessed to determine the ext ent of his or her function al limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2).

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1). The fivestep analysis requires the trier of fact to cons ider an individual's current work activit y; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to det ermine whether an individual can perform past relev ant work; and residual functiona I capacity along with vocational factors (e.g., age, education, and work experienc e) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945.

If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step, a determination or decision is made with no need to evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabled, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920 (a)(4). If an impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment, an indi vidual's residual functional capacity is assessed before moving from Step 3 to St ep 4. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. Residual f unctional capacity is the most an indiv idual can do d espite the limitations based on all relevant evidence. 20 CF R 945(a)(1). An individual's residual functional capacity assessment is eval uated at both Steps 4 and 5. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). In determining disability, an i ndividual's functional capacity to perform basic work activities is evaluated and if found that the individ ual h as the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitation, disability will not be found. 20 vidual has the responsibility to prove CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv). In general, the indi disability. 20 CFR 4 16.912(a). An impairment or combi nation of impairments is not severe if it does not signific antly limit an i ndividual's physical or m ental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.921(a). The in dividual has the responsibility to provide evidence of prior work experience; efforts to work; and any other factor showing how the impairment affects the ability to work. 20 CFR 416.912(c)(3)(5)(6).

As outlined above, the first step looks at the i ndividual's current work activity. In the record presented, Claimant is not involved in substantial gainful activity and testified that she has not worked since October, 2010. T herefore, she is not disqualified from receiving disability benefits under Step 1.

The severity of the individ ual's alleged impairment(s) is considered under Step 2. The individual bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disa bling impairments. In order to be considered disabled for MA purpos es, the impairment must be severe. 20 CFR 916. 920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 916.920(b). An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it signific antly limits an in dividual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 916.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 916.920(c).

Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 916.921(b). Examples include:

- 1. Physical functions such as walk ing, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;
- 2. Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
- 3. Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
- 4. Use of judgment;
- 5. Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
- 6. Dealing with changes in a routine work setting. Id.

The second step allows for dismissal of a di sability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowe n, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). The severity requirement may still be employed as an admin istrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint. Id. at 863 citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985). An impairment qualif ies as non-severe only if, regardless of a claimant's age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the claimant's ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985).

In the present case, Claimant alleges dis disorder, bipolar disorder, diabetes me hypertension. ability due to shortness of breath, seizure llitus, depression, hypokalemia, and

On December 30, 2011, Cla imant presented to the emergency department complaining of severe abdominal pain. She also complained of nausea and vomiting. Her pain was actually increasing while in the emergency department, and a CT of the abdomen and pelvis showed findings compatible with acut e appendicitis. She was taken to the operating room where she had an op en appendectomy. Claimant had been noncompliant with her medications, especially with negative elevels of Dilantin and Phenobarbital.

On January 27, 2012, Claimant met with her case manager. Her case manager noted that Claimant presents as st able and reports having no psych iatric hospitalizations in the past year. However, she is often d epressed and continues to have difficult y planning events and/or getting things done. She has difficulty being cons istent. She reports that she eats well but that she has trouble staying asleep and that she wakes up about twice during the night. She reports that she hears voices about two or three times a month. But not voices that scare her. She reports she takes her medication a S prescribed. She reports that she would li ke to wor k but with her sever e phys ical problems and mental disorder s that she cannot work. She is obese, over 300 poun ds. and has high blood pressure and severe diabetes . She also has difficulty getting to sleep and staying asleep. She has mood swings and depr essive episodes. She was recently hospitalized for appendicitis and the operation was successful. She was in the hospital 3 days. She suffers from diabetes and was hospitalized twice durin g the past 12 months. She takes insulin once a day. She also has high blood pres sure. She continues to attend her med review ap pointments and take her medication a S prescribed. She reports that she is doing well but still has depr essive episodes that prevent her from being consistent from day to day.

On April 12, 2012, at Claimant's psychological case review, Claimant's diagnosis was: Axis I: Bipolar disorder; Polysubstance dependence; Ax is III: Hyper tension; Ax is I V: Other psychological and envir onmental problems; Axis V: GAF=60. Her p sychiatrist noted that Claimant continues to have zero income and severe health and mental disorders. She needs continued mental h ealth services, case management, and peer support.

On December 7, 2012, Claiman t participated in a medical ex amination by her treating physician. Claimant was di agnosed with hypertension, diabetes, backache, morbid obesity, and anxiety. Claimant's treating physician opined her condition was stable with the following limitations. She is able to lift less than 10 pounds occasionally and stand/walk less than 2 hours in an 8-hour work day.

As previously noted, Claimant bears the burden to pr esent sufficient objec tive medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disab ling impair ment(s). As summarized abov e, Claimant has presented some limited medical evidence establishing that she does have some physical and mental limitations on her ability to perform basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that Cla imant has an impair ment, or combination thereof, that has more than a de minimis effect on Claimant's basic work activities. Further, the impairments have lasted conti nuously for twelve months; therefore, Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of MA-P benefits under Step 2.

In the third step of the seque ntial an alysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the indiv idual's impairment, or combination of impairm ents, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CF R, Part 404. Claim ant has alleged physical an d mental dis abling impairments due to short ness of breath, seizur e disorder, bipolar disorder, diabetes mellitus, depression, hypokalemia, and hypertension.

Listing 1.00 (musculoskeletal system), Listing 3.00 (respiratory system), Listing 4.00 (cardiovascular system), Listing 5.00 (digestive system), Listing 9.00 (endocrine disorders), Listing 11.00 (neurological), and Listing 12.00 (mental disorders), we reconsidered in light of the objective evidence. Based on the foregoing, it is found that Claimant's impairment(s) does not meet the intent and severi ty requirement of a listed impairment; therefore, Claimant cannot be found dis abled at Step 3. Accordingly, Claimant's eligibility is considered under Step 4. 20 CFR 416.905(a).

The fourth step in analyzing a disability claim requires an assessment of the individual's residual f unctional capacity ("RFC") and pas t relevant employment. 20 CF R 416.920(a)(4)(iv). An individual is not disabled if he/she can perform past relevant work. Id.; 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). Past relevant work is work that has been performed within the past 15 years that was a substantial gainful activity and that lasted long enough for the individual to lear n the position. 20 CF R 416.960(b)(1). Vocational fact ors of age, education, and work experience, and whet her the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy are not considered. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). RFC is as sessed based on impairment(s) and any r elated symptoms, such as p ain, which may cause physical and mental limitations that affect what can be done in a work setting. RFC is the most that can be done, despite the limitations.

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, jobs are c lassified as sedentary, light, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 2 0 CFR 416.967. Sedentary work involves lifting of no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Although a sedentary j ob is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Id. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are r equired occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing up to 10 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(b). Even though weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it invo lves sit ting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. Id. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an indiv idual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities . Id. An individual capable of light work is also capable of sedentary work, unless there are additional limiting factors such as loss of fine dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time. Id. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). An individual capable of performing medium work is also capable of light and sedentary work. Id. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(d). An individual capable of heavy work is also capable of medium, light, and sedentary work. Id. Finally, very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing 50 pounds or more. 20 CFR 416.967(e). An individual c apable of very heavy work is able to perform work under all categories. Id.

Limitations or restrictions which affect the ability to meet the demands of jobs other than strength demands (exertional r equirements, e.g., si tting, standing, walking, lifting , carrying, pushing, or pulling) are consider ed nonexertional. 20 CFR 416.969a(a). In considering whether an individual can perform past relevant work, a comparis on of the individual's residual functional capacity to the demands of past relevant work must be made. Id. If an individual can no longer do past relevant work, the same residual functional capacity assessment along wit h an individual's age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whet her an individual can adjust to other work which exists in the national economy. Id. Examples of non-exer tional limitations or restrictions include difficulty functioni ng due to nervousness. anxiousness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concent ration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficulty in seeing or hearing; difficulty tolerating some physical feature(s) of certa in work settings (e.g., can't tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or po stural functions of some work such as reaching, handling , stooping, climbin g, crawlin g, or crouchin g. 20 CF R 416.969a(c)(1)(i) - (vi). If the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-exertional aspec ts of work-related activities, the rules in Appendix 2 do not direc t factual conc lusions of disabled or not dis abled. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(2). The dete rmination of whether disability exists is based upon the principles in the appropriate sections of the regulations, giving consideration to the rules for specific case situations in Appendix 2. Id.

Claimant's prior work history consists less than gainful employment. Claimant testified that she is able to walk short distanc es and can lift/carry approximately 15 pounds. Claimant's treating physi cian as of December, 2012, note s Claimant has limitations in lifting less than 10 pounds occ asionally and stand/walk less th an 2 hours in an 8-hou r work day. If the impairment or combination of impairments does not limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities, it is not a severe impairment(s) and disability does not exist. 20 CFR 416.920. In consideration of Cla imant's testimony, Claimant does not have a history of relevant work. Accordingly, Step 5 of the sequential analysis is required.

In Step 5, an assessment of the individua I's residual functional capacity and age, education, and work experience is consider ed to determine whet her an adjustment to other work can be made. 20 CFR 416.920(4)(v). At the time of h earing, Claimant was 50 years old and was, thus , considered to be appr oaching advanced age for MA-P purposes. Claimant has a high school degree. Disability is found if an individual is unable to adjust to other work. Id. At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from Claimant to the Depart ment to present proof that Claimant has the residual capacity to substantial gainful employ ment. 20 CFR 416.960(2); Richardson v Sec of H ealth and Human Services, 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984). While a vocational expert is no t substantial evidence that the individual has th required, a finding supported by е vocational gualifications to perform specif ic jobs is needed to meet the burde n. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services , 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978). Medical-Vocational guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the nation al economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983).

In this case, the evidence reveals that Cla imant suffers from shortness of breath, seizure d isorder, bipo lar disord er, diabet es mellitus, depression , hypokale mia, and hypertension. In light of t he foregoing, it is found that Claimant maintains the residual functional capacity for work activities on a r egular and continuing basis which inc ludes the ability to meet the physical and mental demand s required to perform at leas t sedentary work as defined in 20 CF R 416.967(a). After review of the entire record using the Medical-Vocational Guidelines [20 CF R 404, Subpart P, Appendix II] as a guide, specifically Rule 201.13, it is found that Claimant is not disabled for purposes of the MA-P program at Step 5.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, finds Claimant not disabled for purposes of the MA-P benefit programs.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED:

The Department's determination is AFFIRMED.
