Participants on behalf of the Department of Human Services (Department) included [REDACTED].

ISSUE

Was the denial of claimant's application for Medical Assistance (MA-P), State Disability Assistance (SDA), and retroactive MA-P benefits for lack of disability correct?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the competent, material and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

2. Claimant is 44 years old.
3. Claimant has a 12th grade education.
4. Claimant has a skilled work history consisting of machinist.
5. These jobs were performed at the medium levels.
6. Claimant is not currently engaged in substantial gainful activities (SGA).

7. On [REDACTED], claimant was hospitalized due to hallucinations and tremors secondary to alcohol abuse.
8. Claimant also alleges a mini-stroke from this time period.
9. Claimant was released from the hospital in stable condition and has not been admitted to the hospital since [REDACTED].
10. At the time of admission, claimant was confused and lethargic, but fully orientated.
11. Claimant alleged pain in his hands from a broken thumb when falling, joint pain that was not alleged at the initial application, neck and shoulder pain, and decreased balance.
12. Claimant testified that he is improving.
13. Claimant occasionally uses a cane for ambulation, but the cane is not prescribed, and he does not use the cane regularly.
14. Claimant had no medical records objectively supporting the hand and joint pain, or the neck and shoulder pain.
15. Claimant is able to perform all activities of daily living.
16. Claimant has no persistent cognitive deficits.
17. On June 9, 2012, the Medical Review Team denied MA-P and SDA, citing drug and alcohol materiality.
18. A notice of case action was sent to claimant on June 12, 2012.
19. On June 21, 2012, claimant filed for hearing.
20. On August 9, 2012, the State Hearing Review Team (SHRT) denied MA-P, stating that claimant's impairment did not meet durational requirements.
21. On October 8, 2012, a hearing was held before the Administrative Law Judge.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act and is implemented by Title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The Department administers the MA program pursuant to MCL 400.10, et seq., and MCL

400.105. Department policies are found in the Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), the Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM) and the Bridges Reference Manual (BRM).

The State Disability Assistance (SDA) program which provides financial assistance for disabled persons is established by 2004 PA 344. The Department of Human Services (Department) administers the SDA program pursuant to MCL 400.10, et seq., and MAC R 400.3151-400.3180. Department policies are found in BAM, BEM and BRM.

Federal regulations require that the Department use the same operative definition of the term “disabled” as is used by the Social Security Administration for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) under Title XVI of the Social Security Act. 42 CFR 435.540(a).

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905.

This is determined by a five-step sequential evaluation process where current work activity, the severity and duration of the impairment(s), statutory listings of medical impairments, residual functional capacity, and vocational factors (i.e., age, education, and work experience) are considered. These factors are always considered in order according to the five-step sequential evaluation, and when a determination can be made at any step as to the claimant’s disability status, no analysis of subsequent steps is necessary. 20 CFR 416.920.

The first step that must be considered is whether the claimant is still partaking in SGA. 20 CFR 416.920(b). To be considered disabled, a person must be unable to engage in SGA. A person who is earning more than a certain monthly amount (net of impairment-related work expenses) is ordinarily considered to be engaging in SGA. The amount of monthly earnings considered as SGA depends on the nature of a person's disability; the Social Security Act specifies a higher SGA amount for statutorily blind individuals and a lower SGA amount for non-blind individuals. Both SGA amounts increase with increases in the national average wage index. The monthly SGA amount for statutorily blind individuals for 2012 is $1,690. For non-blind individuals, the monthly SGA amount for 2012 is $1,010.

In the current case, claimant testified that he is not working, and the Department has presented no evidence or allegations that claimant is engaging in SGA. Therefore, the undersigned holds that claimant is not performing SGA, and passes step one of the five-step process.

The second step that must be considered is whether or not the claimant has a severe impairment. 20 CFR 416.920(c). A severe impairment is an impairment expected to last 12 months or more (or result in death), which significantly limits an individual’s physical or mental ability to perform basic work activities. The term “basic work activities” means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. Examples of these include:

- (1) Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying or handling;
- (2) Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
- (3) Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
- (4) Use of judgment;
- (5) Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
- (6) Dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

20 CFR 416.921(b).

The purpose of the second step in the sequential evaluation process is to screen out claims lacking in medical merit. Higgs v. Bowen 880 F2d 860, 862 (6th Cir, 1988). As a result, the Department may only screen out claims at this level which are “totally groundless” solely from a medical standpoint. This is a de minimus standard in the disability determination that the court may use only to disregard trifling matters. As a rule, any impairment that can reasonably be expected to significantly impair basic activities is enough to meet this standard.

In the current case, claimant has not presented evidence of a severe impairment that has lasted or is expected to last the durational requirement of 12 months.

Claimant has alleged an impairment stemming from a small vessel cerebrovascular accident in [REDACTED]. However, the only medical records in the packet arise from that hospital admission in [REDACTED], which was for complications stemming from alcohol abuse. Claimant was released in stable condition. Claimant was admitted with hallucinations, confusion and lethargy, but these conditions did not persist. Claimant also testified to pain in his hands, but this was not alleged at application. Claimant had shoulder and neck pain during the hospitalization, but there are no objective records supporting that allegation of pain, nor does there appear to be any follow up. Claimant cites a decrease in balance but, by his own testimony, finds that the balance has been improving. There are no records that show claimant’s injuries or conditions are expected to last one year or more. Claimant has had no admissions since the emergency treatment in [REDACTED]. Claimant has no devices or other attachments that are permanent and affect work-related activity. Claimant occasionally used a cane, but that cane was un-prescribed and is not used regularly.

Claimant can do all activities of daily living, and the medical records do not show particular limitations in sitting and standing. Claimant has no mental or cognitive defects.

Claimant has not presented the required competent, material, and substantial evidence which would support a finding that claimant has an impairment or combination of impairments which would significantly limit the physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.920(c).

The medical record as a whole does not establish any impairment that would impact claimant's basic work activities for a period of 12 months. There are no current medical records in the case that establish that claimant continues to have a serious medical impairment. There is no objective medical evidence to substantiate the claimant's claim that the impairment or impairments are severe enough to reach the criteria and definition of disabled. Accordingly, after careful review of claimant's medical records, this Administrative Law Judge finds that claimant is not disabled for the purposes of the Medical Assistance disability (MA-P) and SDA programs.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, decides that claimant is not disabled for the purposes of the MA and SDA programs. Therefore, the decision to deny claimant's MA-P and SDA application was correct.

Accordingly, the Department's decision in the above-stated matter is, hereby, AFFIRMED.
