

STATE OF MICHIGAN
MICHIGAN ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING SYSTEM
ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF:

[REDACTED]

Reg. No.: 2013-1612
Issue No.: 2009
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date: February 6, 2013
County: Oakland (63-02)

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Jonathan W. Owens

HEARING DECISION

This matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and MCL 400.37 following Claimant's request for a hearing. After due notice, a telephone hearing was held on February 6, 2013, from Detroit, Michigan. Participants on behalf of Claimant included Claimant and [REDACTED]. Participants on behalf of the Department of Human Services (Department) included [REDACTED].

ISSUE

Whether the Department properly determined that Claimant is not "disabled" for purposes of the Medical Assistance (MA-P) program?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the competent, material and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. On July 27, 2012, Claimant applied for MA-P.
2. On September 7, 2012, the Medical Review Team denied Claimant's request.
3. On September 21, 2012, Claimant submitted to the Department a request for hearing.
4. The State Hearing Review Team (SHRT) denied Claimant's request.
5. Claimant is 25 years old.

6. Claimant completed education through high school.
7. Claimant has employment experience (last worked May 2012) as a caregiver in home health.
8. Claimant's limitations have lasted for 12 months or more.
9. Claimant suffers from obsessive compulsive disorder, bipolar disorder and ADD.
10. Claimant has some limitations on understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions; use of judgment; responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

MA-P is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act and is implemented by Title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The Department administers MA-P pursuant to MCL 400.10, et seq., and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), the Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM) and the Bridges Reference Manual (RFT).

Pursuant to Federal Rule 42 CFR 435.540, the Department uses the Federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) policy in determining eligibility for disability under MA-P. Under SSI, disability is defined as:

...the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months.... 20 CFR 416.905.

A set order is used to determine disability. Current work activity, severity of impairments, residual functional capacity, past work, age, or education and work experience are reviewed. If there is a finding that an individual is disabled or not disabled at any point in the review, there will be no further evaluation. 20 CFR 416.920.

Medical evidence may contain medical opinions. Medical opinions are statements from physicians and psychologists or other acceptable medical sources that reflect judgments about the nature and severity of the impairment(s), including symptoms, diagnosis and prognosis, what an individual can do despite impairment(s), and the physical or mental restrictions. 20 CFR 416.927(a)(2).

The Administrative Law Judge is responsible for making the determination or decision about whether the statutory definition of disability is met. The Administrative Law Judge reviews all medical findings and other evidence that support a medical source's statement of disability. 20 CFR 416.927(e).

For mental disorders, severity is assessed in terms of the functional limitations imposed by the impairment. Functional limitations are assessed using the criteria in paragraph (B) of the listings for mental disorders (descriptions of restrictions of activities of daily living, social functioning; concentration, persistence or pace; and ability to tolerate increased mental demands associated with competitive work). 20 CFR, Part 404, Subpart P, Appendix 1, 12.00(C).

The residual functional capacity is what an individual can do despite limitations. All impairments will be considered in addition to ability to meet certain demands of jobs in the national economy. Physical demands, mental demands, sensory requirements and other functions will be evaluated. 20 CFR 416.945(a).

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, we classify jobs as sedentary, light, medium and heavy. These terms have the same meaning as they have in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, published by the Department of Labor. 20 CFR 416.967.

Pursuant to 20 CFR 416.920, a five-step sequential evaluation process is used to determine disability. An individual's current work activity, the severity of the impairment, the residual functional capacity, past work, age, education and work experience are evaluated. If an individual is found disabled or not disabled at any point, no further review is made.

The first step is to determine if an individual is working and if that work is "substantial gainful activity" (SGA). If the work is SGA, an individual is not considered disabled regardless of medical condition, age or other vocational factors. 20 CFR 416.920(b).

Secondly, the individual must have a medically determinable impairment that is "severe" or a combination of impairments that is "severe." 20 CFR 404.1520(c). An impairment or combination of impairments is "severe" within the meaning of regulations if it significantly limits an individual's ability to perform basic work activities. An impairment or combination of impairments is "not severe" when medical and other evidence establish only a slight abnormality or a combination of slight abnormalities that would have no more than a minimal effect on an individual's ability to work. 20 CFR 404.1521; Social Security Rulings (SSRs) 85-28, 96-3p, and 96-4p. If the claimant does not have a severe medically determinable impairment or combination of impairments, he/she is not disabled. If the claimant has a severe impairment or combination of impairments, the analysis proceeds to the third step.

The third step in the process is to assess whether the impairment or combination of impairments meets a Social Security listing. If the impairment or combination of impairments meets or is the medically equivalent of a listed impairment as set forth in Appendix 1 and meets the durational requirements of 20 CFR 404.1509, the individual is considered disabled. If it does not, the analysis proceeds to the next step.

Before considering step four of the sequential evaluation process, the trier must determine the claimant's residual functional capacity. 20 CFR 404.1520(e). An individual's residual functional capacity is his/her ability to do physical and mental work activities on a sustained basis despite limitations from his/her impairments. In making this finding, the trier must consider all of the claimant's impairments, including impairments that are not severe. 20 CFR 404.1520(e) and 404.1545; SSR 96-8p.

The fourth step of the process is whether the claimant has the residual functional capacity to perform the requirements of his/her past relevant work. 20 CFR 404.1520(f). The term past relevant work means work performed (either as the claimant actually performed it or as is it generally performed in the national economy) within the last 15 years or 15 years prior to the date that disability must be established. If the claimant has the residual functional capacity to do his/her past relevant work, then the claimant is not disabled. If the claimant is unable to do any past relevant work or does not have any past relevant work, the analysis proceeds to the fifth step.

In the fifth step, an individual's residual functional capacity is considered in determining whether disability exists. An individual's age, education, work experience and skills are used to evaluate whether an individual has the residual functional capacity to perform work despite limitations. 20 CFR 416.920(e).

Here, Claimant has satisfied requirements as set forth in steps one, two and three of the sequential evaluation. However, Claimant's impairments do not meet a listing as set forth in Appendix 1, 20 CFR 416.926. Therefore, vocational factors will be considered to determine claimant's residual functional capacity to do relevant work.

In the present case, Claimant has been diagnosed with obsessive compulsive disorder, bipolar disorder and ADD. Claimant has a number of symptoms and limitations, as cited above, as a result of these conditions. Claimant's medical evidence submitted consists of two mental health exams. Both exams appear to be one-time evaluations and not treating providers. Claimant was examined on [REDACTED], by a consulting psychologist who indicated the Claimant had a GAF of 70-75. This physician noted Claimant did not present with symptoms indicative of obsessive compulsive disorder, nor did he present with symptoms indicative of bipolar disorder at the time of exam. This physician noted non-compliance with medications. This physician noted Claimant's prognosis as good and he was capable of managing his own finances. Claimant was examined by another physician on [REDACTED]. This physician indicated ADHD, Aspergers and learning disabled. This physician noted a GAF of 48. A DHS-49E was completed during this exam. Claimant was found to be not significantly limited in eighteen of the twenty areas of the mental residual functional capacity assessment. Claimant was only moderately limited in two areas: ability to maintain attention and concentration for extended periods and ability to complete a normal workday and worksheet without interruptions from psychologically-based symptoms and to perform at a consistent pace without an unreasonable number and length of rest periods. Claimant was not found to be markedly limited in any area of the exam.

Claimant testified to the following symptoms and abilities: takes longer to complete tasks due to obsessive compulsive disorder, once or twice a week struggles to fall asleep, struggles with being tired all the time, problems with focusing, able to manage personal hygiene, isolates himself from others, does feel he fits in, mood swings, anger issues, easily frustrated, would need reminders to complete household tasks, able to drive, no suicidal thoughts, gets lost a lot in day dreams and loses focus, doesn't believe he can work, doesn't believe he could manage his past employment due to his mental health problems dealing with the time consuming process of his obsessive compulsive disorder and focusing problems.

Claimant's mother testified that Claimant has been in counseling since age 5. He can be very aggressive when not on his medications. It's a struggle to get him to perform basic daily tasks. He has acted out and destroyed property. He goes through depressive states where he sleeps for days. He is very aggressive and destructive when not on his medications. He's not able to maintain a job due to his obsessive compulsive disorder. Things have to be a certain way or he has issues. Employers get rid of him due to him taking too long to complete work. He struggles with focus and there is a constant need to keep him directed on a task. He was in special education throughout his education and he always had peer support in school to keep him directed.

The medical evidence fails to support the degree and severity of symptoms and restrictions indicated by testimony. There is a lack of objective medical evidence to support the claims asserted at hearing.

The fourth step of the analysis to be considered is whether the claimant has the ability to perform work previously performed by the claimant within the past 15 years. The trier of fact must determine whether the impairment(s) presented prevent the claimant from doing past relevant work. In the present case, Claimant's past employment was in home health care. This required Claimant to be able to work with others, provide care to individuals, lift weight in excess of 50 lbs, stand and sit. This Administrative Law Judge finds, based on the medical evidence and objective, physical, and psychological findings, that Claimant is capable of the physical or mental activities required to perform any such position. There is a lack of objective medical evidence to support a finding that the Claimant would be unable to perform his past employment. 20 CFR 416.920(e).

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, decides that Claimant is not medically disabled.

Accordingly, the Department's decision is hereby UPHELD.
