[REDACTED]

Reg. No.: 2014-1194
Issue No(s): 2009
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date: February 12, 2014
County: Macomb County DHS #12

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Colleen Lack

HEARING DECISION

Following Claimant's request for a hearing, this matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and 400.37; 42 CFR 431.200 to 431.250; and 45 CFR 205.10. After due notice, a telephone hearing was held on February 12, 2014, from Lansing, Michigan. Participants on behalf of Claimant included [REDACTED], the Claimant. Participants on behalf of the Department of Human Services (Department) included [REDACTED], Eligibility Specialist.

During the hearing, Claimant waived the time period for the issuance of this decision, in order to allow for the submission of additional medical evidence. The evidence was received, reviewed, and forwarded to the State Hearing Review Team ("SHRT") for consideration. The SHRT found Claimant not disabled. This matter is now before the undersigned for a final determination.

ISSUE

Whether the Department properly determined that Claimant was not disabled for purposes of the Medical Assistance (MA) benefit program?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the competent, material, and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. On May 29, 2013, Claimant applied for Medicaid (MA-P) and retroactive MA-P.
2. On September 11, 2013, the Medical Review Team (MRT) found Claimant not disabled.
3. On September 17, 2013, the Department notified Claimant of the MRT determination.
4. On September 30, 2013, the Department received Claimant's timely written request for hearing.

5. On November 27, 2013, and May 30, 2014, the State Hearing Review Team (SHRT) found Claimant not disabled.
6. Claimant alleged physical disabling impairments due to injuries from a gunshot wounds and car accidents including a steel rod in his right arm, severe pain in his back, neck and legs and migraine headaches.
7. Claimant alleged mental disabling impairments due to anxiety.
8. At the time of hearing, Claimant was 32 years old with a [REDACTED], birth date; was 5'8" in height; and weighed 213 pounds.
9. Claimant has a GED as well as some college credits and history of work through temp agencies of sorting, packaging, assembly and door to door sales.
10. Claimant's impairments have lasted, or are expected to last, continuously for a period of 12 months or longer.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Department policies are contained in the Department of Human Services Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), Department of Human Services Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM), and Department of Human Services Reference Tables Manual (RFT).

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act, 42 USC 1396-1396w-5; 42 USC 1315; the Affordable Care Act of 2010, the collective term for the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, Pub. L. No. 111-148, as amended by the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010, Pub. L. No. 111-152; and 42 CFR 430.10-.25. The Department (formerly known as the Family Independence Agency) administers the MA program pursuant to 42 CFR 435, MCL 400.10, and MCL 400.105-.112k.

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905(a). The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CFR 416.913. An individual's subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a). Similarly, conclusory statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927.

When determining disability, the federal regulations require several factors to be considered including: (1) the location/duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant's pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicant takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and (4) the effect of the applicant's pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3). The applicant's pain must be assessed to determine the extent of his or her functional limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2).

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1). The five-step analysis requires the trier of fact to consider an individual's current work activity; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to determine whether an individual can perform past relevant work; and residual functional capacity along with vocational factors (i.e. age, education, and work experience) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945.

If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step, a determination or decision is made with no need evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabled, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If an impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment, an individual's residual functional capacity is assessed before moving from step three to step four. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. Residual functional capacity is the most an individual can do despite the limitations based on all relevant evidence. 20 CFR 416.945(a)(1). An individual's residual functional capacity assessment is evaluated at both steps four and five. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). In determining disability, an individual's functional capacity to perform basic work activities is evaluated and if found that the individual has the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitation, disability will not be found. 20 CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv). In general, the individual has the responsibility to prove disability. 20 CFR 416.912(a). An impairment or combination of impairments is not severe if it does not significantly limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.921(a). The individual has the responsibility to provide evidence of prior work experience; efforts to work; and any other factor showing how the impairment affects the ability to work. 20 CFR 416.912(c)(3)(5)(6).

As outlined above, the first step looks at the individual's current work activity. In the record presented, the Claimant is not involved in substantial gainful activity. Therefore, Claimant is not ineligible for disability benefits under Step 1.

The severity of the Claimant's alleged impairment(s) is considered under Step 2. The Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. In order to be considered disabled for MA purposes, the impairment must be severe. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(b). An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(c).

Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 416.921(b). Examples include:

1. Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;
2. Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
3. Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
4. Use of judgment;
5. Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
6. Dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

The second step allows for dismissal of a disability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). The severity requirement may still be employed as an administrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint. Id. at 863 citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985). An impairment qualifies as non-severe only if, regardless of a Claimant's age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the Claimant's ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985).

In the present case, Claimant alleges disability due to anxiety and due to injuries from a gunshot wound and car accidents including a steel rod in his right arm, severe pain in his back, neck and legs and migraine headaches.

Claimant has been in two car accidents, May 22, 2011 and September 28, 2012. Claimant has also had two gunshot wound incidents, the first in 2004 and the second in June 2012.

Claimant was hospitalized from June 6, 2012 through June 13, 2012 for gunshot wound to buttock, arms and face. Claimant underwent abdominal surgery, complicated lip repair, and open reduction and internal fixation of his right ulna.

On June 21, 2012, Claimant was seen in the Emergency Department for pain all over after gunshot wound to right arm, abdomen and lip on June 6, 2012.

On June 28, 2012, Claimant was seen in the Emergency Department for right hip and butt pain as well as testicular rash.

On July 23, 2012, Claimant was seen in the Emergency Department for abdominal pain, right leg pain, and right buttock pain noting the gunshot wound to abdomen in June 2012.

On August 13, 2012, Claimant was seen in the Emergency Department for right arm, hip and leg pain from the June gunshot wounds.

On September 28, 2012, Claimant was seen in the Emergency Department after a car accident. The CT scans of the cervical spine and brain were unremarkable. The x-ray of the right arm showed an intact surgical plate and screws transfixing a comminuted ulnar fracture with no fracture of the radius and no significant interval change. The lumbosacral x-ray showed no acute process.

On May 1, 2013, Claimant was seen in the Emergency Department for myalgias.

On May 2, 2013, Claimant was seen in the Emergency Department for cough. The final impressions indicated asthmatic bronchitis.

On June 12, 2013, Claimant was seen in the Emergency Department for cough. The final impressions indicated asthmatic bronchitis.

On August 5, 2013, Claimant was seen by a doctor that completed a DHS-49 Medical Examination Report. It is noted that this doctor had never seen Claimant previously. A diagnosis of intractable pain secondary to gunshot wound right forearm was listed. The form was marked that Claimant had no physical limitations. Yet, a separate form was completed, which was marked that Claimant came with a walking aid that was medically prescribed.

On August 19, 2013, Claimant was seen in the Emergency Department for back pain. The final impressions indicated acute left thoracic myofascial strain, acute abdominal pain and left flank pain.

From July 2013 through January 14, 2014, Claimant underwent shoulder injections for injury sustained in the September 2012 car accident. The treatment records note Claimant had done well with physical therapy and an at home TENS unit. Claimant has also been prescribed substantial pain medications. The January 14, 2013 office visit note indicates Claimant has intractable posttraumatic axial back pain, myofascial syndrome that failed all conservative care, left shoulder arthralgia, joint derangement, non-compliance with treatment plan, multilevel disc displacement, cervical dystonia, status post gunshot wound with subsequent surgical intervention, anxiety and depression. The non-compliance at this point appears to have been missing appointments with the surgeon that will operate on Claimant's left shoulder due to a lack of transportation and difficulties in getting any psychiatric help due to a lack of insurance. The December 4, 2013 CT left shoulder with arthrogram report documented: mild flattening of the anterosuperior humeral head and greater tuberosity which can be associated with impaction type injury; os acromiale; no extravasation of intra-articular contrast into the subacromial space, no evidence of rotator cuff tendon tear. The July 18, 2013 MRI of the lumbar spine documented: minimal retrolisthesis at the L5-S1 level, no evidence of acute fracture or anterior spondylolisthesis, no significant degenerative changes are seen in the lumbar spine; there is no evidence of disc herniation or spinal stenosis; there is some impingement upon the neural foramen from L4 through S1 secondary to mild and very mild diffuse posterior disc bulging. Multiple Disability Certificates were completed by this provider stating claimant has been and continues to be disabled from work, housework, and driving, as well as that he was disabled from caring for personal needs/attendant care for a significant period of time.

As previously noted, Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairment(s). As summarized above, Claimant has presented medical evidence establishing that he does have some limitations on the ability to perform basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that the Claimant has an impairment, or combination thereof, that has more than a de minimis effect on the Claimant's basic work activities. Further, the impairments have lasted continuously for twelve months; therefore, the Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of MA-P benefits under Step 2.

In the third step of the sequential analysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. The evidence confirms diagnosis and treatment of injuries from gunshot wounds and car accident including open reduction and internal fixation of right ulna, intractable posttraumatic axial back pain, myofascial syndrome that failed all conservative care, left shoulder arthralgia, joint derangement, multilevel disc displacement, cervical dystonia, anxiety and depression.

Listings 1.00 Musculoskeletal System, were considered based on the objective medical evidence. However, the medical evidence was not sufficient to meet the intent and severity requirements of a 1.00 listing, or any other listing, or its equivalent. Accordingly, the Claimant cannot be found disabled, or not disabled, at Step 3; therefore, the Claimant's eligibility is considered under Step 4. 20 CFR 416.905(a).

Before considering the fourth step in the sequential analysis, a determination of the individual's residual functional capacity ("RFC") is made. 20 CFR 416.945. An individual's RFC is the most he/she can still do on a sustained basis despite the limitations from the impairment(s). Id. The total limiting effects of all the impairments, to include those that are not severe, are considered. 20 CFR 416.945(e).

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, jobs are classified as sedentary, light, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 20 CFR 416.967. Sedentary work involves lifting of no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Id. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing up to 10 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(b). Even though weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. Id. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities. Id. An individual capable of light work is also capable of sedentary work, unless there are additionally limiting factors such as loss of fine dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time. Id. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). An individual capable of performing medium work is also capable of light and sedentary work. Id. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(d). An individual capable of heavy work is also capable of medium, light, and sedentary work. Id. Finally, very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing 50 pounds or more. 20 CFR 416.967(e). An individual capable of very heavy work is able to perform work under all categories. Id.

Limitations or restrictions which affect the ability to meet the demands of jobs other than strength demands (exertional requirements, i.e. sitting, standing, walking, lifting, carrying, pushing, or pulling) are considered nonexertional. 20 CFR 416.969a(a). In considering whether an individual can perform past relevant work, a comparison of the individual's residual functional capacity with the demands of past relevant work. Id. If an individual can no longer do past relevant work the same residual functional capacity assessment along with an individual's age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an individual can adjust to other work which exists in the national economy. Id. Examples of non-exertional limitations or restrictions include difficulty to function due to nervousness, anxiousness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concentration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficulty in seeing or hearing; difficulty tolerating some physical feature(s) of certain work settings (i.e. can't tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or postural functions of some work such as reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(1)(i) – (vi). If the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-exertional aspects of work-related activities, the rules in Appendix 2 do not direct factual conclusions of disabled or not disabled. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(2). The determination of whether disability exists is based upon the principles in the appropriate sections of the regulations, giving consideration to the rules for specific case situations in Appendix 2. Id.

The evidence confirms diagnosis and treatment of injuries from gunshot wounds and car accident including open reduction and internal fixation of right ulna, intractable posttraumatic axial back pain, myofascial syndrome that failed all conservative care, left shoulder arthralgia, joint derangement, multilevel disc displacement, cervical dystonia, anxiety and depression. The records from the treating doctor show Claimant has also been prescribed substantial pain medications, had a series of shoulder injections, participated in physical therapy, and used an at home TENs unit. However, Claimant's testimony regarding his functional limitations and abilities is only found partially credible based on the objective medical evidence. Specifically, the July 18, 2013 MRI of the lumbar spine documented: minimal retrolisthesis at the L5-S1 level, no evidence of acute fracture or anterior spondylolisthesis, no significant degenerative changes are see in the lumbar spine; there is no evidence of disc herniation or spinal stenosis; there is some impingement upon the neural foramen from L4 through S1 secondary to mild and very mild diffuse posterior disc bulging. While multiple Disability Certificates were completed by this provider stating claimant has been and continues to be disabled from work, it is not clear if the doctor only considered Claimant's past work as opposed to his potential for adjusting to other types of work. After review of the entire record it is found, at this point, that Claimant maintains the residual functional capacity to perform at least sedentary work as defined by 20 CFR 416.967(a).

The fourth step in analyzing a disability claim requires an assessment of the Claimant's residual functional capacity ("RFC") and past relevant employment. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(iv). An individual is not disabled if he/she can perform past relevant work. Id.; 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). Past relevant work is work that has been performed within the past 15 years that was a substantial gainful activity and that lasted long enough for the individual to learn the position. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(1). Vocational factors of age, education, and work experience, and whether the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy is not considered. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3).

Claimant has history of work through temp agencies of sorting, packaging, assembly and door to door sales. As described by Claimant, all of these positions involved significant standing and walking and the sorting and packaging work required lifting 25-50 pounds. In light of the entire record and Claimant's RFC (see above), it is found that Claimant is not able to perform his past relevant work. Accordingly, the Claimant cannot be found disabled, or not disabled, at Step 4; therefore, the Claimant's eligibility is considered under Step 5. 20 CFR 416.905(a).

In Step 5, an assessment of Claimant's residual functional capacity and age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an adjustment to other work can be made. 20 CFR 416.920(4)(v). At the time of hearing, Claimant was 32 years old and, thus, considered to be a younger individual for MA-P purposes. Claimant has a GED and some college credits and unskilled history of work through temp agencies of sorting, packaging, assembly and door to door sales. Disability is found if an individual is unable to adjust to other work. Id. At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from the Claimant to the Department to present proof that the Claimant has the residual capacity to substantial gainful employment. 20 CFR 416.960(2); Richardson v Sec of Health and Human Services, 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984). While a vocational expert is not required, a finding supported by substantial evidence that the individual has the vocational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services, 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978). Medical-Vocational guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983).

The evidence confirms diagnosis and treatment of injuries from gunshot wounds and car accident including open reduction and internal fixation of right ulna, intractable posttraumatic axial back pain, myofascial syndrome that failed all conservative care, left shoulder arthralgia, joint derangement, multilevel disc displacement, cervical dystonia, anxiety and depression. As noted above, the objective medical evidence only partially supports the limitations Claimant described. After review of the entire record it is found, at this point, that Claimant maintains the residual functional capacity to perform at least sedentary work as defined by 20 CFR 416.967(a).

After review of the entire record, and in consideration of the Claimant's age, education, work experience, RFC, and using the Medical-Vocational Guidelines [20 CFR 404, Subpart P, Appendix II] as a guide, specifically Rule 201.27, Claimant is found not disabled at Step 5.

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, and for the reasons stated on the record, if any, finds Claimant not disabled for purposes of the MA benefit program.
