CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by the Title XIX of the Social Security Act, 42 USC 1396-1396w-5, and is implemented by 42 CFR 400.200 to 1008.59. The Department of Human Services (formerly known as the Family Independence Agency) administers the MA program pursuant to MCL 400.10 and MCL 400.105. Department policies are contained in the Department of Human Services Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM) and Department of Human Services Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM) and Department of Human Services Reference Tables Manual (RFT).

Prior to a substantive analysis of Claimant's hearing request, it should be noted that Claimant's AHR noted special arrangements in order to participate in the hearing; specifically, an in-person hearing was requested. Claimant's AHR's request was granted and the hearing was conducted accordingly.

The Medicaid program is comprised of several sub-programs which fall under one of two categories; one category is FIP-related and the second category is SSI-related. BEM 105 (10/2010), p. 1. To receive MA under an SSI-related category, the person must be aged (65 or older), blind, disabled, entitled to Medicare or formerly blind or disabled. Id. Families with dependent children, caretaker relatives of dependent children, persons under age 21 and pregnant, or recently pregnant, women receive MA under FIP-related categories. Id. AMP is an MA program available to persons not eligible for Medicaid through the SSI-related or FIP-related categories though DHS does always offer the program to applicants. It was not disputed that Claimant's only potential category for Medicaid eligibility would be as a disabled individual.

Disability for purposes of MA benefits is established if one of the following circumstances applies:

- by death (for the month of death);
- the applicant receives Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits;
- SSI benefits were recently terminated due to financial factors;
- the applicant receives Retirement Survivors and Disability Insurance (RSDI) on the basis of being disabled; or
- RSDI eligibility is established following denial of the MA benefit application (under certain circumstances).
   BEM 260 (7/2012) pp. 1-2

There was no evidence that any of the above circumstances apply to Claimant. Accordingly, Claimant may not be considered for Medicaid eligibility without undergoing a medical review process which determines whether Claimant is a disabled individual. Id. at 2.

Generally, state agencies such as DHS must use the same definition of SSI disability as found in the federal regulations. 42 CFR 435.540(a). Disability is federally defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity (SGA) by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905. A functionally identical definition of disability is found under DHS regulations. BEM 260 (7/2012), p. 8.

Substantial gainful activity means a person does the following:

- Performs significant duties, and
- Does them for a reasonable length of time, and
- Does a job normally done for pay or profit. Id. at 9.

Significant duties are duties used to do a job or run a business. Id. They must also have a degree of economic value. Id. The ability to run a household or take care of oneself does not, on its own, constitute substantial gainful activity. Id.

The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish a disability through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CRF 413.913. An individual's subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a).

Federal regulations describe a sequential five step process that is to be followed in determining whether a person is disabled. 20 CFR 416.920. If there is no finding of disability or lack of disability at each step, the process moves to the next step. 20 CFR 416.920 (a)(4).

The first step in the process considers a person's current work activity. 20 CFR 416.920 (a)(4)(i). A person who is earning more than a certain monthly amount is ordinarily considered to be engaging in SGA. The monthly amount depends on whether a person is statutorily blind or not. "Current" work activity is interpreted to include all time since the date of application. The 2013 monthly income limit considered SGA for non-blind individuals is $1,040.

Claimant credibly denied performing any employment since the date of the MA application; no evidence was submitted to contradict Claimant's testimony. Based on the presented evidence, it is found that Claimant is not performing SGA and has not performed SGA since the date of MA application. Accordingly, the disability analysis may proceed to step two.

The second step in the disability evaluation is to determine whether a severe medically determinable physical or mental impairment exists to meet the 12 month duration requirement. 20 CFR 416.920 (a)(4)(ii). The impairments may be combined to meet the severity requirement. If a severe impairment is not found, then a person is deemed not disabled. Id.

The impairments must significantly limit a person's basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.920 (a)(5)(c). "Basic work activities" refers to the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. Id. Examples of basic work activities include:

- physical functions (e.g. walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling)
- capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking, understanding; carrying out, and remembering simple instructions
- use of judgment
- responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and/or
- dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

Generally, federal courts have imposed a de minimus standard upon claimants to establish the existence of a severe impairment. Grogan v. Barnhart, 399 F.3d 1257, 1263 (10th Cir. 2005); Hinkle v. Apfel, 132 F.3d 1349, 1352 (10th Cir. 1997). Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (6th Cir. 1988). Similarly, Social Security Ruling 85-28 has been interpreted so that a claim may be denied at step two for lack of a severe impairment only when the medical evidence establishes a slight abnormality or combination of slight abnormalities that would have no more than a minimal effect on an individual's ability to work even if the individual's age, education, or work experience were specifically considered. Barrientos v. Secretary of Health and Human Servs., 820 F.2d 1, 2 (1st Cir. 1987). Social Security Ruling 85-28 has been clarified so that the step two severity requirement is intended "to do no more than screen out groundless claims." McDonald v. Secretary of Health and Human Servs., 795 F.2d 1118, 1124 (1st Cir. 1986).

SSA specifically notes that age, education, and work experience are not considered at the second step of the disability analysis. 20 CFR 416.920 (5)(c). In determining whether Claimant's impairments amount to a severe impairment, all other relevant evidence may be considered. The analysis will begin with a summary of the relevant submitted medical documentation.

Hospital documents (Exhibits 11-20; A9-A11) from an admission dated presented. The hospital noted that Claimant presented with complaints of a burning and radiating chest pain. It was noted that chest x-rays showed no acute cardiopulmonary process (see Exhibit A7). It was noted that an EKG showed ST elevation. An impression of ST-elevated myocardial infarction was noted. It was noted that Claimant was admitted to ICU. 95% stenosis of Claimant's right coronary artery was noted. It was noted that a stent was inserted. It was noted that a CT of Claimant's abdomen revealed hematoma. It was noted that a blood transfusion was performed. Following ICU, it was noted that Claimant was ambulating without assistance and that lab studies were normal. A discharge date of was noted. It was noted that Claimant would follow-up on an outpatient basis.

Cardiologist documents (Exhibits A1-A4) dated were presented. It was noted that Claimant denied chest pains but some dyspnea and chest pain was reported. It was noted that Claimant smokes 3 cigarettes per day. Diagnoses of COPD and, nicotine addiction and anxiety were noted. It was noted that Claimant was doing well overall. It was noted that Claimant would undergo a 70% stress test in preparation for cardiac rehabilitation.

A consultative examination report (Exhibits 2-21 – 2-29) dated was presented. It was noted that Claimant reported COPD, anxiety, and a history of cardiac treatment. It was noted that Claimant reported symptoms of dyspnea, dizziness, and weakness. It was noted that Claimant's gait was normal and that she does not require use of a walking assistance device. A left-sided carotid bruit graded at 3/6 was noted; the examiner noted the bruit requires further investigation. It was noted that Claimant was capable of non-strenuous activities without excessive walking or standing. It was noted that Claimant was moderately impaired in the following activities: bending, stooping, lifting, walking, crawling, squatting, carrying and traveling, and pushing and pulling heavy objects.

The presented evidence verified that Claimant was hospitalized for cardiac-related issues. It appears that Claimant's cardiac restrictions were successfully resolved by stent placement. Only one treatment record following hospitalization was presented. The treatment record noted Claimant's complaints of chest pain and COPD.

An impression of shortness of breath with mild exertion was noted by a consultative examiner. Shortness of breath with mild exertion is consistent with a severe impairment. The examining physician's statement is not persuasive evidence of a severe impairment.

Claimant's continued smoking must be considered a contributor to Claimant's breathing problems. It is plausible that Claimant's dyspnea would occur even if Claimant quit smoking, however, this is purely speculative because respiratory testing results were not presented. The consultative examiner's concerns of dyspnea did not factor Claimant's smoking or lack of medication.

Another problem with the examiner's statement is that the examiner also stated that Claimant's shortness of breath occurred with moderate exertion. There is a difference between moderate and mild restrictions. Breathing difficulties with moderate exertion would likely have more improvement if Claimant pursued breathing medication or quit smoking.

Claimant's complaint of chest pain is also not found to be a significant impairment. There was no verified follow-up to Claimant's cardiologist appointment even though a stress test was apparently scheduled. Presumably, Claimant's chest pain did not merit follow-up.

It should be concerning for Claimant that a carotid bruit was found in a consultative examination. A carotid bruit is understood to be a heart murmur. It is concerning for Claimant that she was recently hospitalized for a cardiac problem, however, one hospitalization where Claimant appeared to be successfully treated and a heart murmur graded 3/6 is not sufficient to presume heart restrictions or disability.

Based on the presented evidence, it is found that Claimant failed to establish a severe impairment to performing basic work activities. Accordingly, it is found that DHS properly denied Claimant's MA application.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, finds that DHS properly denied Claimant's MA benefit application dated based on a determination that Claimant is not disabled. The actions taken by DHS are AFFIRMED.
