ISSUE

Whether the Department properly determined that Claimant is not "disabled" for purposes of the Medical Assistance (MA-P) program and State Disability Program (SDA)?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the competent, material and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. On June 10, 2013, Claimant applied for MA-P and SDA.
2. On July 24, 2013, the Medical Review Team denied Claimant's request.
3. The Department sent the Claimant the Notice of Case Action dated August 1, 2013 denying the Claimant's MA-P application. Exhibit 1
4. On September 30, 2013, the Claimant submitted to the Department a timely hearing request.

5. On November 26, 2013, the State Hearing Review Team (“SHRT”) found the Claimant not disabled and denied Claimant’s request.
6. An Interim Order was issued on April 1, 2014 ordering the Claimant to provide a DHS 49 from her treating doctor. The new Medical evidence was submitted to SHRT on April 21, 2014.
7. On May 14, 2014, the State Hearing Review Team denied Claimant’s request and found Claimant not disabled.
8. Claimant at the time of the hearing was ■ years old with a birth date of ■■■■■■■■■■. The Claimant is now ■ years of age. Claimant height was 5’6” and weighed 210 pounds.
9. Claimant completed 11th grade.
10. Claimant’s prior work experience was as a childcare provider. The Claimant also worked as a bartender.
11. The Claimant has not alleged any mental disabling impairments.
12. Claimant alleges physical disabling impairments due to diabetes, diabetic neuropathy in both lower extremities, COPD, and CVA. Claimant’s impairments have lasted or are expected to last for 12 months duration or more.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by the Title XIX of the Social Security Act, 42 USC 1396-1396w-5, and is implemented by 42 CFR 400.200 to 1008.59. The Department of Human Services (formerly known as the Family Independence Agency) administers the MA program pursuant to MCL 400.10 and MCL 400.105.

The State Disability Assistance (SDA) program, which provides financial assistance for disabled persons, was established by 2004 PA 344. The Department administers the SDA program pursuant to MCL 400.10 et seq. and Mich Admin Code, Rules 400.3151 – 400.3180. Department policies are found in BAM, BEM, and RFT. A person is considered disabled for SDA purposes if the person has a physical or mental impairment which meets federal SSI disability standards for at least ninety days. Receipt of SSI benefits based on disability or blindness, or the receipt of MA benefits based on disability or blindness automatically qualifies an individual as disabled for purposes of the SDA program.

Pursuant to Federal Rule 42 CFR 435.540, the Department uses the Federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) policy in determining eligibility for disability under MA-P. Under SSI, disability is defined as:

...the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months.... 20 CFR 416.905.

A set order is used to determine disability. Current work activity, severity of impairments, residual functional capacity, past work, age, or education and work experience are reviewed. If there is a finding that an individual is disabled or not disabled at any point in the review, there will be no further evaluation. 20 CFR 416.920.

Medical evidence may contain medical opinions. Medical opinions are statements from physicians and psychologists or other acceptable medical sources that reflect judgments about the nature and severity of the impairment(s), including symptoms, diagnosis and prognosis, what an individual can do despite impairment(s), and the physical or mental restrictions. 20 CFR 416.927(a)(2).

The Administrative Law Judge is responsible for making the determination or decision about whether the statutory definition of disability is met. The Administrative Law Judge reviews all medical findings and other evidence that support a medical source's statement of disability. 20 CFR 416.927(e).

For mental disorders, severity is assessed in terms of the functional limitations imposed by the impairment. Functional limitations are assessed using the criteria in paragraph (B) of the listings for mental disorders (descriptions of restrictions of activities of daily living, social functioning; concentration, persistence or pace; and ability to tolerate increased mental demands associated with competitive work). 20 CFR, Part 404, Subpart P, Appendix 1, 12.00(C).

The residual functional capacity is what an individual can do despite limitations. All impairments will be considered in addition to ability to meet certain demands of jobs in the national economy. Physical demands, mental demands, sensory requirements and other functions will be evaluated. 20 CFR 416.945(a).

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, we classify jobs as sedentary, light, medium and heavy. These terms have the same meaning as they have in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, published by the Department of Labor. 20 CFR 416.967.

Pursuant to 20 CFR 416.920, a five-step sequential evaluation process is used to determine disability. An individual's current work activity, the severity of the impairment, the residual functional capacity, past work, age, education and work experience are evaluated. If an individual is found disabled or not disabled at any point, no further review is made.

The first step is to determine if an individual is working and if that work is “substantial gainful activity” (SGA). If the work is SGA, an individual is not considered disabled regardless of medical condition, age or other vocational factors. 20 CFR 416.920(b).

Secondly, the individual must have a medically determinable impairment that is “severe” or a combination of impairments that is “severe.” 20 CFR 404.1520(c). An impairment or combination of impairments is “severe” within the meaning of regulations if it significantly limits an individual’s ability to perform basic work activities. An impairment or combination of impairments is “not severe” when medical and other evidence establish only a slight abnormality or a combination of slight abnormalities that would have no more than a minimal effect on an individual’s ability to work. 20 CFR 404.1521; Social Security Rulings (SSRs) 85-28, 96-3p, and 96-4p. If the Claimant does not have a severe medically determinable impairment or combination of impairments, he/she is not disabled. If the Claimant has a severe impairment or combination of impairments, the analysis proceeds to the third step.

The third step in the process is to assess whether the impairment or combination of impairments meets a Social Security listing. If the impairment or combination of impairments meets or is the medically equivalent of a listed impairment as set forth in Appendix 1 and meets the durational requirements of 20 CFR 404.1509, the individual is considered disabled. If it does not, the analysis proceeds to the next step.

Before considering step four of the sequential evaluation process, the trier must determine the Claimant’s residual functional capacity. 20 CFR 404.1520(e). An individual’s residual functional capacity is his/her ability to do physical and mental work activities on a sustained basis despite limitations from his/her impairments. In making this finding, the trier must consider all of the Claimant’s impairments, including impairments that are not severe. 20 CFR 404.1520(e) and 404.1545; SSR 96-8p.

The fourth step of the process is whether the Claimant has the residual functional capacity to perform the requirements of his/her past relevant work. 20 CFR 404.1520(f). The term past relevant work means work performed (either as the Claimant actually performed it or as is it generally performed in the national economy) within the last 15 years or 15 years prior to the date that disability must be established. If the Claimant has the residual functional capacity to do his/her past relevant work, then the Claimant is not disabled. If the Claimant is unable to do any past relevant work or does not have any past relevant work, the analysis proceeds to the fifth step.

In the fifth step, an individual’s residual functional capacity is considered in determining whether disability exists. An individual’s age, education, work experience and skills are used to evaluate whether an individual has the residual functional capacity to perform work despite limitations. 20 CFR 416.920(e).

Claimant alleges physical disabling impairments due to diabetes, diabetic neuropathy in both lower extremities possible COPD and CVA. The Claimant is also overweight with a BMI of 34

The Claimant has not alleged any mental disabling impairment in this application although Claimant does treat for mental impairment.

A summary of the Claimant's medical evidence presented at the hearing and the new evidence presented follows.

The Claimant's treating doctor completed a Medical Examination Report on April 4, 2014. The Claimant's doctor imposed limitations on the Claimant's physical capabilities. The doctor indicated that the Claimant could stand or walk less than 2 hours in an 8-hour workday. The Claimant was evaluated as being able to sit less than 2 hours in an 8-hour workday. The Claimant was evaluated as incapable of lifting/carrying less than 10 pounds. The Claimant had full use of her hands/arms but could operate foot controls with her left foot only. The diagnosis was diabetes mellitus and diabetic peripheral neuropathy, chronic lumbar pain. The Claimant was 5'6" and weight 208 pounds at the time of the exam. The basis for the findings and limitations were based on knee tenderness and lower extremity peripheral neuropathy (both).

On May 7, 2013, a Consultative Medical Examination was completed. The Impression was history of diabetes, non-insulin dependent. Mental illness, history of mental illness, currently on medication and followed by a mental health specialist. Hyperlipidemia currently on statin drug, possible COPD, with current smoking.

The Claimant was seen in the hospital on October 24, 2011 for a one-day stay due to headache and CVA although this is supported by testimony, as the hospitalization records are not complete.

Here, Claimant has satisfied requirements as set forth in steps one and two, as Claimant is not employed and his impairments have met the Step 2 severity requirements.

In addition, the Claimant's impairments have been examined in light of the listings and after a review of the evidence, the Claimant's impairments do not meet a listing as set forth in Appendix 1, 20 CFR 416.926. Listing 4.00 Cardiovascular System Adult and Listing 9.00 Endocrine Disorders (diabetes), was examined in light of the Claimant's medical evidence; however, the listing requirements were not met for either listing and were not supported by the available medical evidence as to severity required to meet the listing. Therefore, vocational factors will be considered to determine Claimant's residual functional capacity to do relevant work.

Claimant has a number of symptoms and limitations, as cited above, as a result of these conditions. Claimant credibly testified to the following symptoms and abilities. The Claimant cannot do her laundry because she is unable to carry the laundry up and downstairs. Claimant could not walk more than 15 to 20 minutes slowly, and can sit only 10 minutes due to back pain. The Claimant experiences pain on a level 6-7 with pain meds due to back pain. The Claimant indicated that both her legs and feet and has numbness and swelling with the condition worse on the right. The Claimant walks with a limp. Claimant could stand for 10 minutes. The heaviest weight the Claimant could carry was 5 pounds. The Claimant's testimony was deemed credible. The Claimant's treating doctor imposed limitations with the Claimant's standing, sitting, lifting and carrying and use of her right foot which are expected to last 12 months duration or longer. The Consultative examination is not useful, as it draws no conclusions based upon the examination but merely reports history.

The fourth step of the analysis to be considered is whether the Claimant has the ability to perform work previously performed by the Claimant within the past 15 years. The trier of fact must determine whether the impairment(s) presented prevent the Claimant from doing past relevant work. In the present case, Claimant's past employment was working as a bartender and childcare. In these positions, the Claimant was on her feet in the jobs 50 to 70% of the time and cared for a 1, 5 and 7-year old group of kids in her last childcare job. The Claimant's work was unskilled and semi-skilled but her job as a bartender is non-transferable. This prior work requires abilities and capabilities that based on the limitations presented, cannot be any longer achieved by the Claimant. Therefore, it is determined that the Claimant is no longer capable of past relevant work. Thus a Step 5 analysis is required 20 CFR 416.920(e).

In the final step of the analysis, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairment(s) prevent the Claimant from doing other work. 20 CFR 416.920(f). This determination is based upon the Claimant's:

1. residual functional capacity defined simply as "what can you still do despite your limitations?" 20 CFR 416.945;
2. age, education, and work experience, 20 CFR 416.963-965; and
3. the kinds of work which exist in significant numbers in the national economy which the Claimant could perform despite her limitations. 20 CFR 416.966.

The residual functional capacity is what an individual can do despite limitations. All impairments will be considered in addition to ability to meet certain demands of jobs in the national economy. Physical demands, mental demands, sensory requirements and other functions will be evaluated. 20 CFR 416.945(a).

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, we classify jobs as sedentary, light, medium and heavy. These terms have the same meaning as they have in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, published by the Department of Labor. 20 CFR 416.967.

Sedentary work. Sedentary work involves lifting no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. 20 CFR 416.967(a).

Light work. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 10 pounds. Even though the weight lifted may be very little; a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. 20 CFR 416.967(b).

Medium work. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. If someone can do medium work, we determine that he or she can also do sedentary and light work. 20 CFR 416.967(c).

Heavy work. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. If someone can do heavy work, we determine that he or she can also do medium, light, and sedentary work. 20 CFR 416.967(d).

In Step 5, an assessment of the individual's residual functional capacity and age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an adjustment to other work can be made. 20 CFR 416.920(4)(v). At the time of hearing, the Claimant was ■ years old and thus is considered a person approaching advanced age for MA-P purposes. The Claimant has an 11th grade education and has been restricted with limitations on standing and walking less than 2 hours in an 8 hour workday and sitting less than 2 hours in an 8 hour workday. Disability is found if an individual is unable to adjust to other work. Id. At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from the Claimant to the Department to present proof that the Claimant has the residual capacity to substantial gainful employment. 20 CFR 416.960(2); Richardson v Sec of Health and Human Services, 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984).

While a vocational expert is not required, a finding supported by substantial evidence that the individual has the vocational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services, 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978). Medical-Vocational guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983).

After a review of the entire record, including the Claimant's credible testimony and medical evidence presented, and the objective medical evidence, particularly the treating doctor's evaluation, who imposed significant limitations, it is determined that the total impact caused by the physical impairment suffered by the Claimant must be considered and that the Claimant is capable of sedentary work as she cannot meet the required standing or sitting or lifting requirements for light work. Deference was given to the treating doctor's evaluation. This doctor has seen and treated the Claimant since 2010. In doing so, it is found that the combination of the Claimant's physical impairments in totality have a major impact on her ability to perform work activities.

In light of the foregoing, it is found that the Claimant maintains the residual functional capacity for work activities on a regular and continuing basis to meet the physical and mental demands required to perform sedentary work as defined in 20 CFR 416.967(a). Based upon the foregoing review of the entire record using the Medical-Vocational Guidelines [20 CFR 404, Subpart P, Appendix II] as a guide, specifically Rule 201.10, it is found that the Claimant is disabled for purposes of the MA-P program at Step 5.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, decides that Claimant is medically disabled as of September 2010.

Accordingly, the Department's decision is hereby REVERSED
