MICHIGAN ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING SYSTEM
ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF:

[REDACTED]

Reg. No.: 2014-22539
Issue No.: 2009, 4009
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date: May 28, 2014
County: Oakland (03)

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: C. Adam Purnell

HEARING DECISION

Following Claimant's request for a hearing, this matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and 400.37; 42 CFR 431.200 to 431.250; and 45 CFR 205.10. After due notice, a three-way telephone hearing was held on May 28, 2014 from Lansing, Michigan. Participants on behalf of Claimant included Sarah Morton (Claimant's Authorized Hearing Representative (AHR) from [REDACTED]), [REDACTED] (Claimant) and [REDACTED] (Claimant's friend/partner). Participants on behalf of the Department of Human Services (Department) included [REDACTED] (Eligibility Specialist).

During the hearing, Claimant waived the time period for the issuance of this decision, in order to allow for the submission of additional medical records. The evidence was received, reviewed, and forwarded to the State Hearing Review Team (SHRT) for consideration. On August 11, 2014, the Michigan Administrative Hearing System (MAHS) received the SHRT determination which found Claimant was not disabled. This matter is now before the undersigned for a final decision.

ISSUE

Did the Department properly deny Claimant's application for Medical Assistance (MA-P), Retro MA and State Disability Assistance (SDA)?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the competent, material and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. On September 13, 2013, Claimant filed an application for MA-P, Retro MA-P and SDA benefits alleging disability.
2. On December 12, 2013, the Medical Review Team (MRT) denied Claimant's application.

3. On December 12, 2013, the Department caseworker sent Claimant notice that his application was denied.
4. On January 16, 2014, Claimant filed a request for a hearing to contest the Department's action.
5. On March 7, 2014, the State Hearing Review Team (SHRT) denied Claimant's application.
6. A telephone hearing was held on May 28, 2014. During the hearing, the Administrative Law Judge held the record open to allow for Claimant's additional records to be submitted. Claimant consented and agreed to waive the time periods.
7. The additional records were received and forwarded to the SHRT.
8. On August 11, 2014, the SHRT again denied Claimant's application.
9. Claimant has alleged the following disabling impairments: Diabetic Ketoacidosis (DKA), Diabetes (Type 1), Gastro paresis, Hypertension, seizure disorder due to Hypoglycemia, Generalized Anxiety Disorder (GAD), Depression, and vision problems.
10. At the time of the hearing, Claimant was 28 (twenty-eight) years old with a birth date of [REDACTED]; stood 5'11"; and weighed approximately 120 (one-hundred and twenty) pounds (lbs).
11. Claimant has smoked cigarettes for the past 10 years and presently smokes ½ pack per day.
12. Claimant has a high school education followed by 2 semesters of community college.
13. Claimant, at the time of hearing, is employed on a part-time basis as a waiter/server at a restaurant.
14. Claimant earns between [REDACTED] per hour and works from 12 to 30 hours per week.
15. Claimant has an employment history as a cashier.
16. Claimant testified that he was taking the following medications: Humalog, Levemir (insulin pen), and Wellbutrin.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act and is implemented by Title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The Department of Human Services (DHS or Department) administers the MA program pursuant to MCL 400.10, et seq., and MCL 400.105. Department policies are found in the Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), the Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM) and the Program Reference Manual (PRM).

Pursuant to Federal Rule 42 CFR 435.540, the Department uses the federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) policy in determining eligibility for disability under the MA program. Under SSI, disability is defined as:

...the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months.... 20 CFR 416.905

The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources. Claimant's impairment must result from anatomical, physiological, or psychological abnormalities which can be shown by medically acceptable clinical and laboratory diagnostic techniques. A physical or mental impairment must be established by medical evidence consisting of signs, symptoms, and laboratory findings, not only the claimant's statement of symptoms. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.927. Proof must be in the form of medical evidence showing that the claimant has impairment and the nature and extent of its severity. 20 CFR 416.912. Information must be sufficient to enable a determination as to the nature and limiting effects of the impairment for the period in question, the probable duration of the impairment and the residual functional capacity to do work-related physical and mental activities. 20 CFR 416.913.

Medical findings must allow a determination of (1) the nature and limiting effects of your impairment(s) for any period in question; (2) the probable duration of the impairment; and (3) the residual functional capacity to do work-related physical and mental activities. 20 CFR 416.913(d).

Medical evidence may contain medical opinions. Medical opinions are statements from physicians and psychologists or other acceptable medical sources that reflect judgments about the nature and severity of the impairment(s), including your symptoms, diagnosis and prognosis, what an individual can do despite impairment(s), and the physical or mental restrictions. 20 CFR 416.927(a)(2).

All of the evidence relevant to the claim, including medical opinions, is reviewed and findings are made. 20 CFR 416.927(c). A statement by a medical source finding that an individual is "disabled" or "unable to work" does not mean that disability exists for the purposes of the program. 20 CFR 416.927(e). Statements about pain or other symptoms do not alone establish disability. Similarly, conclusory statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927.

There must be medical signs and laboratory findings which demonstrate a medical impairment.... 20 CFR 416.929(a).

...Medical reports should include –

- (1) Medical history.
- (2) Clinical findings (such as the results of physical or mental status examinations);
- (3) Laboratory findings (such as blood pressure, X-rays);
- (4) Diagnosis (statement of disease or injury based on its signs and symptoms).... 20 CFR 416.913(b).

The law does not require an applicant to be completely symptom free before a finding of lack of disability can be rendered. In fact, if an applicant's symptoms can be managed to the point where substantial gainful activity can be achieved, a finding of not disabled must be rendered.

The Administrative Law Judge is responsible for making the determination or decision about whether the statutory definition of disability is met. The Administrative Law Judge reviews all medical findings and other evidence that support a medical source's statement of disability.... 20 CFR 416.927(e).

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1). The five-step analysis requires the trier of fact to consider an individual's current work activity; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to determine whether an individual can perform past relevant work; and residual functional capacity along with vocational factors (e.g. age, education, and work experience) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. If there is a finding that an individual is disabled or not disabled at any point in the review, there will be no further evaluation. 20 CFR 416.920.

At step one, the Administrative Law Judge must determine whether the claimant is engaging in substantial gainful activity (20 CFR 404.1520(b) and 416.920(b)). Substantial gainful activity (SGA) is defined as work activity that is both substantial and gainful. "Substantial work activity" is work activity that involves doing significant physical or mental activities (20 CFR 404.1572(a) and 416.972(a)). "Gainful work activity" is work that is usually done for pay or profit, whether or not a profit is realized (20 CFR 404.1572(b) and 416.972(b)). Generally, if an individual has earnings from employment or self-employment above a specific level set out in the regulations, it is presumed that he or she has demonstrated the ability to engage in SGA (20 CFR 404.1574, 404.1575, 416.974, and 416.975). If an individual engages in SGA, he or she is not disabled regardless of how severe his or her physical or mental impairments are and regardless of his or her age, education, and work experience. If the individual is not engaging in SGA, the analysis proceeds to the second step.

At step two, the Administrative Law Judge must determine whether the claimant has a medically determinable impairment that is “severe” or a combination of impairments that is “severe” (20 CFR 404.1520(c) and 416.920(c)). An impairment or combination of impairments is “severe” within the meaning of the regulations if it significantly limits an individual’s ability to perform basic work activities. An impairment or combination of impairments is “not severe” when medical and other evidence establish only a slight abnormality or a combination of slight abnormalities that would have no more than a minimal effect on an individual’s ability to work (20 CFR 404.1521 and 416.921; Social Security Rulings (SSRs) 85-28, 96-3p, and 96-4p). If the claimant does not have a severe medically determinable impairment or combination of impairments, he or she is not disabled.

For mental disorders, severity is assessed in terms of the functional limitations imposed by the impairment. Functional limitations are assessed using the criteria in paragraph (B) of the listings for mental disorders (descriptions of restrictions of activities of daily living, social functioning; concentration, persistence, or pace; and ability to tolerate increased mental demands associated with competitive work).... 20 CFR, Part 404, Subpart P, App. 1, 12.00(C). First, an individual’s pertinent symptoms, signs and laboratory findings are evaluated to determine whether a medically determinable mental impairment exists. 20 CFR 416.920a(b)(1). When a medically determinable mental impairment is established, the symptoms, signs and laboratory findings that substantiate the impairment are documented to include the individual’s significant history, laboratory findings, and functional limitations. 20 CFR 416.920a(e)(2). Functional limitations are assessed based upon the extent to which the impairment(s) interferes with an individual’s ability to function independently, appropriately, effectively and on a sustained basis. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(2). Chronic mental disorders, structured settings, medication and other treatment, and the effect on the overall degree of functionality are considered. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(1). In addition, four broad functional areas (activities of daily living; social functioning; concentration, persistence or pace; and episodes of decompensation) are considered when determining an individual’s degree of functional limitation. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(4).

The second step allows for dismissal of a disability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). An impairment qualifies as non-severe only if, regardless of a claimant’s age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the claimant’s ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985).

In determining disability under the law, the ability to work is measured. An individual’s functional capacity for doing basic work activities is evaluated. If an individual has the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitations, he or she is not considered disabled. 20 CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv).

Basic work activities are the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. Examples of these include --

- (1) Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;

- (2) Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
- (3) Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
- (4) Use of judgment;
- (5) Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
- (6) Dealing with changes in a routine work setting. 20 CFR 416.921(b).

At step three, the Administrative Law Judge must determine whether the claimant's impairment or combination of impairments meets or medically equals the criteria of an impairment listed in 20 CFR Part 404, Subpart P, Appendix 1 (20 CFR 404.1520(d), 404.1525, 404.1526, 416.920(d), 416.925, and 416.926). If the claimant's impairment or combination of impairments meets or medically equals the criteria of a listing and meets the duration requirement (20 CFR 404.1509 and 416.909), the claimant is disabled. If it does not, the analysis proceeds to the next step.

Before considering step four of the sequential evaluation process, the Administrative Law Judge must first determine the claimant's residual functional capacity (20 CFR 404.1520(e) and 416.920(e)). An individual's residual functional capacity is his/her ability to do physical and mental work activities on a sustained basis despite limitations from his/her impairments. In making this finding, all of the claimant's impairments, including impairments that are not severe, must be considered (20 CFR 404.1520(e), 404.1545, 416.920(e), and 416.945; SSR 96-8p).

Next, the Administrative Law Judge must determine at step four whether the claimant has the residual functional capacity to perform the requirements of his or her past relevant work (20 CFR 404.1520(f) and 416.920(f)). The term past relevant work means work performed (either as the claimant actually performed it or as it is generally performed in the national economy) within the last 15 (fifteen) years or 15 (fifteen) years prior to the date that disability must be established. In addition, the work must have lasted long enough for the claimant to learn to do the job and have been SGA (20 CFR 404.1560(b), 404.1565, 416.960(b), and 416.965). If the claimant has the residual functional capacity to do his or her past relevant work, the claimant is not disabled. If the claimant is unable to do any past relevant work or does not have any past relevant work, the analysis proceeds to the fifth and last step.

At the last step of the sequential evaluation process (20 CFR 404.1520(g) and 416.920(g)), the Administrative Law Judge must determine whether the claimant is able to do any other work considering his or her residual functional capacity, age, education, and work experience. If the claimant is able to do other work, he or she is not disabled. If the claimant is not able to do other work and meets the duration requirements, he or she is disabled.

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, we classify jobs as sedentary, light, medium and heavy. These terms have the same meaning as they have in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, published by the Department of Labor. 20 CFR 416.967. The terms are defined as follows:

Sedentary work. Sedentary work involves lifting no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. 20 CFR 416.967(a).

Light work. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 10 pounds. Even though the weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls.... 20 CFR 416.967(b).

Medium work. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. If someone can do medium work, we determine that he or she can also do sedentary and light work. 20 CFR 416.967(c).

Heavy work. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. If someone can do heavy work, we determine that he or she can also do medium, light, and sedentary work. 20 CFR 416.967(d).

The analysis begins at Step 1. To be eligible for disability benefits, a person must be unable to engage in substantial gainful activity (SGA). A non-blind person who is earning more than $1,010.00 per month is ordinarily considered to be engaging in SGA. Claimant is not engaged in SGA as he earns no more than $950.00 per month. Therefore, Claimant is not disqualified from receiving disability at Step 1 and the analysis proceeds to Step 2.

At Step 2, Claimant's symptoms are evaluated to see if there is an underlying medically determinable physical or mental impairment that could reasonably be expected to produce Claimant's pain or other symptoms. This must be shown by medically acceptable clinical and laboratory diagnostic techniques. Once an underlying physical or mental impairment has been shown, the Administrative Law Judge must evaluate the intensity, persistence, and limiting effects of Claimant's symptoms to determine the extent to which they limit Claimant's ability to do basic work activities. For this purpose, whenever statements about the intensity, persistence, or functionally limiting effects of pain or other symptoms are not substantiated by objective medical evidence, a finding on the credibility of the statements based on a consideration of the entire case record must be made.

In the present case, Claimant alleges disability due to Diabetic Ketoacidosis (DKA), Diabetes (Type 1), Gastro paresis, Hypertension, Hypoglycemia, Generalized Anxiety Disorder (GAD), Depression, and vision problems. Claimant alleges that he suffers from repeated hypoglycemic episodes while at work which requires him to take frequent breaks and drink some juice before returning to work. Claimant also contends that he has recurring seizures and that he has been progressively losing weight.

The following is a summary of Claimant's relevant medical records in this matter.

Claimant went to the emergency room on [REDACTED] with complaints of lower abdominal pain, nausea, and vomiting. (Exhibit 1 p. 61). Claimant admitted to drinking alcohol the previous evening. (Exhibit 1 p. 61). He was dehydrated but felt better after an IV was placed. (Exhibit 1 p. 61). The records indicated that Claimant's problems could have been diabetic gastro paresis but were most likely due to opioids and DKA. (Exhibit 1 p. 61). Claimant was discharged on [REDACTED] with instructions to follow up with an endocrinologist and to stop smoking. (Exhibit 1 pp. 61-62).

On July 5, 2012, Claimant visited the ER for nausea, vomiting and abdominal pain following incarceration at the local county jail. (Exhibit 1 p. 81). The jail did not give Claimant the correct insulin dosage and he became tachycardic. (Exhibit 1 p. 81). According to the reports, Claimant had a history of poorly controlled diabetes. (Exhibit 1 p. 81). His laboratory studies revealed elevated AG, hyponatremia, and glucose level of 300. (Exhibit 1 p. 81). He was treated for DKA and then discharged on July 7, 2012. (Exhibit 1 p. 81).

Claimant presented to the ER again on August 12, 2012 for abdominal pain, nausea and vomiting due to diabetic gastro paresis. He was admitted, treated and released August 14, 2012. (Exhibit 1, p. 96-97).

Claimant's mental health records dated [REDACTED] show that he has been diagnosed with major depressive disorder, generalized anxiety disorder and dependent personality disorder. (Exhibit 1 p. 14). This record indicated that he had a history of depressive symptoms and had ADHD since high school. Exhibit 1, p. 14). The following were indicated as contributing stressors: diabetic condition, several head injuries, cataracts, reconstructive surgery and substance abuse history (probation for possession of narcotics). (Exhibit 1, p. 14).

On December 12, 2013, Claimant had a follow up visit where he indicated that he had been compliant with his medication and was doing "okay" without any medication side effects. (Exhibit 1, p. 25).

Claimant had an office visit on [REDACTED] which revealed the following: gastroparesis was stable, type 1 diabetes was controlled, background diabetic retinopathy OU, his URI was resolving, EKG had an abnormal finding, his hypertension was not quite at goal. The records show that Claimant has been diagnosed with diabetic retinopathy and received laser treatments. His weight was 127.9, which was a BMI of 17.84 "dressed with shoes." There were no additional records concerning his EKG findings.

Claimant works less than SGA in the food service industry, but claims that he cannot maintain an 8-hour workday and 40-hour workweek. The record shows that Claimant possesses the ability to perform basic work activities less than 8 hours with assistance and support from others. With assistance and accommodation, the evidence demonstrates that Claimant can perform physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling. The objective medical evidence shows that Claimant has a combination of impairments that are “severe” for purposes of Step 2. The records show that Claimant’s impairments significantly limit his ability to perform basic work activities.

However, the objective medical evidence in this matter reveals that Claimant does not have a mental and/or emotional impairment that can fairly be characterized as “severe” for purposes of the Step 2 analysis. According to the objective medical evidence, Claimant’s mental impairment is only a slight abnormality that would have no more than a minimal effect on his ability to work. Claimant has demonstrated that, with regard to his mental and emotional well-being, he possesses the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitations. The evidence demonstrates that Claimant can concentrate such that he can tolerate the mental demands associated with competitive work. Claimant possesses the ability to function in a structured setting and has the ability to understand, carry out, and remember simple instructions. Accordingly, Claimant’s use of judgment is not impaired. Claimant can respond appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations. The evidence shows that Claimant has the ability to deal with normal changes in a routine work setting.

Claimant has presented medical evidence that demonstrates he has some physical limitations on his ability to perform basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that Claimant has an impairment, or combination of impairments, that has more than a de minimus effect on his basic work activities. Further, the impairments have lasted continuously for 12 (twelve) months; therefore, Claimant is not disqualified from receiving MA-P benefits at Step 2.

The analysis proceeds to Step 3 where the medical evidence of Claimant’s conditions is compared to the listings. In the third step of the sequential analysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if Claimant’s impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. The evidence confirms treatment/diagnoses of diabetic ketoacidosis (DKA), hypertension, diabetes (type 1), gastroparesis, nausea/vomiting, diabetic retinopathy, anxiety and depression.

The following listings were considered in light of the objective evidence: 2.02 (Loss of Visual Acuity), 5.08 (Weight loss due to any digestive disorder), and 9.00 (Endocrine disorders). Claimant does not meet listing 2.02. Claimant does not meet listing 5.08; because his BMI was not less than 17.50 on at least two evaluations at least 60 days apart within a consecutive 6 month period. Based on the above objective medical evidence, Claimant’s DKA does not meet or medically equals the criteria of listing 9.00. Claimant’s records show that his management of his diabetes has been largely controlled. Claimant’s records do not demonstrate serious complications resulting from treatment based on an affected body system. In addition, Claimant does not meet the duration requirement. Because Claimant does not have an impairment that meets or medically equals the criteria of 9.00, he does not meet the Step 3 requirement.

Before Step 4, the Administrative Law Judge must determine Claimant’s residual functional capacity to perform the requirements of his past relevant work. Here, Claimant has a work history as cashier, but current works part-time as a waiter. The question here is whether Claimant has the ability to do physical activities on a sustained basis despite limitations from his impairments. Claimant has shown that he can work on a part-time basis with his limitations, but the evidence shows that it is unlikely he will be able to complete these tasks on a full-time basis. Claimant's statements concerning the intensity, persistence and limiting effects of these symptoms are credible to the extent they are consistent with the objective medical records. The records do confirm a progressive worsening of his condition. Based on all the evidence, this Administrative Law Judge finds that Claimant cannot perform physical work activities on a sustained basis despite limitations from his impairments.

The fourth step of the analysis to be considered is whether the Claimant has the ability to perform work previously performed by the Claimant within the past 15 years. The trier of fact must determine whether the impairment presented prevent the Claimant from doing past relevant work. In the present case, the Claimant's current part-time employment is as a waiter. Working as a waiter, as described by Claimant at hearing, would be considered light work. Claimant works with limitations as a waiter on a part-time basis. Claimant testified that he has support from friends and colleagues and is often permitted to take frequent breaks. The Claimant's impairments would prevent him or her from doing past relevant work. This Administrative Law Judge will continue through step 5.

Claimant testified that he can do the following activities: walk short distances without assistance; grip/grasp without issue; sit without limitation; lift/carry 10-15 pounds; stand; and can freely bend and squat. The objective findings do not show any physician imposed limitations. After review of the entire record to include Claimant's credible testimony, this Administrative Law Judge finds that Claimant is able to maintain the physical and mental demands necessary to perform limited light work as defined by 20 CFR 416.967(a).

There is no evidence upon which this Administrative Law Judge could base a finding that Claimant is unable to perform his past relevant work. Because Claimant is able to engage in work which he has performed in the past, he is denied from receiving disability at Step 4.

Even if Claimant was not found disabled at Step 4, he would not be found disabled at Step 5. At Step 5, this Administrative Law Judge must determine whether or not Claimant has the residual functional capacity to do any other work in the national economy considering his or her residual functional capacity, age, education, and work experience. At this point, the burden of proof shifts to the Department. The entire record shows that Claimant is capable of working as a waiter on a part-time basis with accommodations. This Administrative Law Judge finds that the objective medical evidence on the record fails to show that Claimant has no residual functional capacity. Consequently, Claimant is disqualified from receiving disability at Step 5 based upon the fact that he has not established by objective medical evidence that he cannot perform light work even with his impairments.

Medical vocational guidelines have been developed and can be found in 20 CFR, Subpart P, Appendix 2, Section 200.00. When the facts coincide with a particular guideline, the guideline directs a conclusion as to disability. 20 CFR 416.969. Under the Medical-Vocational guidelines, a younger individual (age 28), who is a high school graduate and an unskilled work history who is capable of light work is not considered disabled pursuant to Vocational Rule 202.20.

Claimant has not satisfied the burden of proof to show by competent, material and substantial evidence that he has an impairment or combination of impairments which would significantly limit the physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.920(c). Although Claimant has cited medical problems, the objective clinical documentation submitted by Claimant is not sufficient to establish a finding that the claimant is disabled. There is no objective medical evidence to substantiate Claimant's assertion that his alleged impairments are severe enough to reach the criteria and definition of disability. Claimant is not disabled for the purposes of the Medical Assistance disability (MA-P) program.

The State Disability Assistance (SDA) program which provides financial assistance for disabled persons is established by 2004 PA 344. The Department of Human Services (DHS or department) administers the SDA program pursuant to MCL 400.10, et seq., and MAC R 400.3151-400.3180. Department policies are found in the Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), the Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM) and the Program Reference Manual (PRM).

With regard to Claimant's request for disability under the State Disability Assistance (SDA) program, it should be noted that the Department's Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM) contains policy statements and instructions for caseworkers regarding the SDA program. In order to receive SDA, "a person must be disabled, caring for a disabled person or age 65 or older." BEM, Item 261, p. 1 (July, 2013).

A person is disabled for SDA purposes if he or she: (1) receives other specified disability-related benefits or services¹; or (2) resides in a qualified Special Living Arrangement facility; or (3) is certified as unable to work due to mental or physical disability for at least 90 days from the onset of the disability; or (4) is diagnosed as having Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome (AIDS). BEM 261 pp 1-2 (July, 2013).

Because Claimant does not meet the definition of disabled under the MA-P program and because the evidence of record does not show that Claimant is unable to work for a period exceeding 90 (ninety) days, Claimant is also not disabled for purposes of the SDA program.

The Department has established by the necessary competent, material and substantial evidence on the record that it acted in compliance with Department policy when it determined that Claimant is not eligible to receive MA-P, Retro MA-P and SDA.

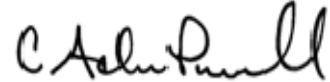

¹Retirement, Survivors and Disability Insurance (RSDI) due to disability/blindness, Supplemental Security Income (SSI) due to disability/blindness, Medicaid as blind/disabled based on a disability examiner or MRT determination or hearing decision, or Michigan Rehabilitation Services.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, decides that the Department has appropriately established on the record that it acted in compliance with Department policy when it denied Claimant's application for MA-P, Retro MA-P and SDA.

Accordingly, the Department's decision is AFFIRMED.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
