

STATE OF MICHIGAN
MICHIGAN ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING SYSTEM
ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF:

Reg. No.: 14-005660
Issue No.: SDA - DISABILITY
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date: September 04, 2014
County: LAKE

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Colleen Lack

HEARING DECISION

Following Claimant's request for a hearing, this matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and 400.37; 42 CFR 431.200 to 431.250; and 45 CFR 205.10. After due notice, a telephone hearing was held on September 4, 2014, from Lansing, Michigan. Participants on behalf of Claimant included [REDACTED]. Participants on behalf of the Department of Human Services (Department) included [REDACTED], Hearing Coordinator.

During the hearing, Claimant waived the time period for the issuance of this decision, in order to allow for the submission of additional medical evidence. The evidence was received and reviewed.

ISSUE

Whether the Department properly determined that Claimant was not disabled for purposes of the Medical Assistance (MA) and/or State Disability Assistance (SDA) benefit programs?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the competent, material, and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. On April 10, 2014, Claimant applied for SDA.
2. On June 6, 2014, the Medical Review Team (MRT) found Claimant not disabled.
3. On June 18, 2014, the Department notified Claimant of the MRT determination.
4. On June 25, 2014, the Department received Claimant's timely written request for hearing.
5. Claimant alleged disabling impairments including bulging discs in back, arthritis in both knees, severe sleep apnea, major depression, a form of autism, and bipolar disorder.

6. At the time of hearing, Claimant was 40 years old with a [REDACTED], birth date; was 6'3" in height; and weighed 290 pounds.
7. Claimant completed the 11th grade, obtained a GED, and has a work history including cashier.
8. Claimant's impairments have lasted, or are expected to last, continuously for a period of 12 months or longer.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Department policies are contained in the Department of Human Services Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), Department of Human Services Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM), and Department of Human Services Reference Tables Manual (RFT).

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act, 42 USC 1396-1396w-5; 42 USC 1315; the Affordable Care Act of 2010, the collective term for the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, Pub. L. No. 111-148, as amended by the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010, Pub. L. No. 111-152; and 42 CFR 430.10-.25. The Department (formerly known as the Family Independence Agency) administers the MA program pursuant to 42 CFR 435, MCL 400.10, and MCL 400.105-.112k.

The State Disability Assistance (SDA) program, which provides financial assistance for disabled persons, was established by 2004 PA 344. The Department administers the SDA program pursuant to 42 CFR 435, MCL 400.10 et seq. and Mich Admin Code, Rules 400.3151 – 400.3180. A person is considered disabled for SDA purposes if the person has a physical or mental impairment which meets federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability standards for at least ninety days. Receipt of SSI benefits based on disability or blindness, or the receipt of MA benefits based on disability or blindness, automatically qualifies an individual as disabled for purposes of the SDA program.

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905(a). The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CFR 416.913. An individual's subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a). Similarly, conclusory statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927.

When determining disability, the federal regulations require several factors to be considered including: (1) the location/duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant's pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicant takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and (4) the effect of the applicant's pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3). The applicant's pain must be assessed to determine the extent of his or her functional limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2).

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1). The five-step analysis requires the trier of fact to consider an individual's current work activity; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to determine whether an individual can perform past relevant work; and residual functional capacity along with vocational factors (i.e. age, education, and work experience) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945.

If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step, a determination or decision is made with no need evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabled, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If an impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment, an individual's residual functional capacity is assessed before moving from step three to step four. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. Residual functional capacity is the most an individual can do despite the limitations based on all relevant evidence. 20 CFR 416.945(a)(1). An individual's residual functional capacity assessment is evaluated at both steps four and five. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). In determining disability, an individual's functional capacity to perform basic work activities is evaluated and if found that the individual has the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitation, disability will not be found. 20 CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv). In general, the individual has the responsibility to prove disability. 20 CFR 416.912(a). An impairment or combination of impairments is not severe if it does not significantly limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.921(a). The individual has the responsibility to provide evidence of prior work experience; efforts to work; and any other factor showing how the impairment affects the ability to work. 20 CFR 416.912(c)(3)(5)(6).

As outlined above, the first step looks at the individual's current work activity. In the record presented, the Claimant is not involved in substantial gainful activity. Therefore, Claimant is not ineligible for disability benefits under Step 1.

The severity of the Claimant's alleged impairment(s) is considered under Step 2. The Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. In order to be considered disabled for MA purposes, the impairment must be severe. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(b). An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(c).

Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 416.921(b). Examples include:

1. Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;
2. Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
3. Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
4. Use of judgment;
5. Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
6. Dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

The second step allows for dismissal of a disability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). The severity requirement may still be employed as an administrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint. Id. at 863 citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985). An impairment qualifies as non-severe only if, regardless of a Claimant's age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the Claimant's ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985).

In the present case, Claimant alleges disabling impairments including bulging discs in back, arthritis in both knees, severe sleep apnea, major depression, a form of autism, and bipolar disorder.

Claimant had rehabilitation therapy from July 2, 2013 to August 7, 2013, for low back pain and left knee pain. It was noted that a TENS unit was not authorized by Claimant's doctor.

A September 18, 2013, medication review from Community Mental Health documented diagnoses of recurrent moderate major depressive disorder, learning disorder, and schizoid personality disorder. It was noted that Claimant was still very depressed but had shown some improvement in suicidal thoughts and sleep with medication changes. Additional medication reviews through December 18, 2013, document further improvement with additional medication changes.

An October 30, 2013, office visit note documents a history chronic back pain. It appears that some notes from January 2013 were continued into the ongoing treatment notes. A January 20, 2013, MRI showed a mild broad-based disc bulge at L4-5 on the left. The mild disc bulge projected into the neural foramen but did not cause nerve root compression or any displacement of the exiting left L4 nerve root. Lumbar discs were otherwise unremarkable. Persistent knee pain was documented, but it was noted that an MRI of the knee only showed minimal osteoarthritis. Major depressive disorder was also documented and at that time Claimant stated he was doing great. The doctor did not feel Claimant has true autism or mental retardation and does not believe he is disabled in any way.

An April 29, 2014, DHS-49 medical Examination Report completed by the family practice doctor documented diagnoses of back pain, major depressive disorder, learning disability, ADHD, and schizoid personality. Physical limitations included lifting up to 25 pounds frequently and 50 pounds or more occasionally, and sitting less than 6 hours in an 8 hour work day. Mental limitations with reading/writing and social interaction were also marked. An office visit note for this date indicated assessment for back pain, prostate screening, depression with anxiety, lipid screening, sciatica, elevated liver function tests, and snoring disorder.

A June 10, 2014, ultrasound showed hepatomegaly with diffuse fatty infiltration and splenomegaly.

An August 13, 2014, office visit note documented sleep evaluation and diagnosis of obstructive sleep apnea. Excessive daytime sleepiness was noted to improve with C-Pap. Ongoing assessment for depression with anxiety and low back pain was also noted.

March through October 2014, Community Mental Health records documented diagnoses of recurrent moderate major depressive disorder, learning disorder, and schizoid personality disorder. A March 5, 2014, medication review noted Claimant was still having significant depression and that another medication would be added. An April 30, 2014, medication review noted Claimant was doing well on his medications. Claimant reported improved mood, feeling more focused, and a little bit more motivated and happy. There were some suicidal thoughts related to a potential eviction. The May 7, 2014, medication review noted that Claimant's doctor did not want him on Ritalin. The June 4, 2014 medication review indicates Claimant had really improved. The July 2014, medication review documented depression and suicidal thoughts with upcoming eviction. The August 13, 2014, medication review note indicated Claimant was more depressed because he was living in a tent. A September 18, 2014, person centered plan indicated significant increase in symptom activity. Stressors related to the living situation and his mother's recent hospitalization were noted. The September 25, 2014, medication review noted that Claimant was still living in a car with his mother. Claimant had some suicidal ideation, but cognitive functioning was within normal limits. An October 6, 2014, progress note indicated ongoing issues with trying to find housing. Claimant was still sleeping in the van. However, Claimant also discussed his video games and an online account where people could watch him play and potentially pay him. An October 6, 2014, Mental Residual Functional Capacity Assessment indicated Claimant has marked limitations in 13 of the 20 listed areas, as well as moderate limitation in all but one of the remaining areas. It was noted that Claimant had not showered in several months, which was noticeable.

An October 7, 2014, DHS-49 medical Examination Report completed by the family practice doctor documented diagnoses including back pain, knee pain, obstructive sleep apnea, major depressive disorder, learning disability, and schizoid. Physical limitations included lifting up to 20 pounds frequently and 25 pounds occasionally, and standing/walking at least 2 hours in an 8 hour work day. Mental limitations with comprehension, memory, sustained concentration, following simple directions, reading/writing and social interaction were also marked. An included office visit note documented paravertebral muscle tenderness on the lumbar spine and positive straight leg test on the left. The assessment indicated chronic pain, depression, lower back pain, and obstructive sleep apnea actively using C-Pap.

As previously noted, Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairment(s). As summarized above, Claimant has presented medical evidence establishing that he does have some limitations on the ability to perform basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that the Claimant has an impairment, or combination thereof, that has more than a de minimis effect on the Claimant's basic work activities. Further, the impairments have lasted, or can be expected to last, continuously for twelve months; therefore, the Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of MA-P benefits under Step 2.

In the third step of the sequential analysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. The evidence confirms recent diagnosis and treatment of back pain, knee pain, obstructive sleep apnea, recurrent moderate major depressive disorder, learning disorder, and schizoid personality disorder.

Based on the objective medical evidence, considered listings included: 1.00 Musculoskeletal System, 3.00 Respiratory System, and 12.00 Mental Disorders. However, the medical evidence was not sufficient to meet the intent and severity requirements of any listing, or its equivalent. Accordingly, the Claimant cannot be found disabled, or not disabled, at Step 3; therefore, the Claimant's eligibility is considered under Step 4. 20 CFR 416.905(a).

Before considering the fourth step in the sequential analysis, a determination of the individual's residual functional capacity ("RFC") is made. 20 CFR 416.945. An individual's RFC is the most he/she can still do on a sustained basis despite the limitations from the impairment(s). Id. The total limiting effects of all the impairments, to include those that are not severe, are considered. 20 CFR 416.945(e).

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, jobs are classified as sedentary, light, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 20 CFR 416.967. Sedentary work involves lifting of no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Id. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing up to 10 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(b). Even though weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. Id. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities. Id. An individual capable of light work is also capable of sedentary work, unless there are additionally limiting factors such as loss of fine dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time. Id. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). An individual capable of performing medium work is also capable of light and sedentary work. Id. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(d). An individual capable of heavy work is also capable of medium, light, and sedentary work. Id. Finally, very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing 50 pounds or more. 20 CFR 416.967(e). An individual capable of very heavy work is able to perform work under all categories. Id.

Limitations or restrictions which affect the ability to meet the demands of jobs other than strength demands (exertional requirements, i.e. sitting, standing, walking, lifting, carrying, pushing, or pulling) are considered nonexertional. 20 CFR 416.969a(a). In considering whether an individual can perform past relevant work, a comparison of the individual's residual functional capacity with the demands of past relevant work. Id. If an individual can no longer do past relevant work the same residual functional capacity assessment along with an individual's age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an individual can adjust to other work which exists in the national economy. Id. Examples of non-exertional limitations or restrictions include difficulty to function due to nervousness, anxiousness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concentration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficulty in seeing or hearing; difficulty tolerating some physical feature(s) of certain work settings (i.e. can't tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or postural functions of some work such as reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(1)(i) – (vi). If the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-exertional aspects of work-related activities, the rules in Appendix 2 do not direct factual conclusions of disabled or not disabled. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(2). The determination of whether disability exists is based upon the principles in the appropriate sections of the regulations, giving consideration to the rules for specific case situations in Appendix 2. Id.

The evidence confirms recent diagnosis and treatment of back pain, knee pain, obstructive sleep apnea, recurrent moderate major depressive disorder, learning disorder, and schizoid personality disorder. Claimant's testimony indicated he can walk 5-10 minutes, stand 5 minutes, sit 5-10 minutes, and lift a gallon of milk. Claimant also described persistent mental health symptoms including frequent crying spells, panic attacks, anger trouble, suicidal thoughts, and difficulties being around people. Claimant's testimony regarding his limitations is not fully supported by the medical evidence and found only partially credible. The medical records regarding the musculoskeletal impairments do not support the full severity of limitations described by Claimant. It appears there are discrepancies between what Claimant reported to the doctor and what was reported to the mental health provider. The mental health treatment records noted improvements with treatment, and then indicated declines that were related to the living situation since the eviction. It was noted that the mental health treatment records repeatedly noted Claimant's cognitive ability was within normal limits. Accordingly, less weight is given to the limitations indicated on the DHS-49 Mental Residual Functional Capacity Assessment. After review of the entire record it is found, at this point, that Claimant maintains the residual functional capacity to perform sedentary work as defined by 20 CFR 416.967(a) on a sustained basis.

The fourth step in analyzing a disability claim requires an assessment of the Claimant's residual functional capacity ("RFC") and past relevant employment. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(iv). An individual is not disabled if he/she can perform past relevant work. Id.; 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). Past relevant work is work that has been performed within the past 15 years that was a substantial gainful activity and that lasted long enough for the individual to learn the position. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(1). Vocational factors of age, education, and work experience, and whether the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy is not considered. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3).

Claimant has a work history of part time cashier working 30 hours per week for six months. As described by Claimant, this involved standing and lifting up to 45-50 pounds. In light of the entire record and Claimant's RFC (see above), it is found that Claimant would not be able to perform his past work on a sustained, full time basis. Accordingly, the Claimant cannot be found disabled, or not disabled, at Step 4; therefore, the Claimant's eligibility is considered under Step 5. 20 CFR 416.905(a).

In Step 5, an assessment of Claimant's residual functional capacity and age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an adjustment to other work can be made. 20 CFR 416.920(4)(v). At the time of hearing, Claimant was 40 years old and, thus, considered to be a younger individual for MA-P purposes. Claimant completed the 11th grade, obtained a GED, and has a work history including cashier. Disability is found if an individual is unable to adjust to other work. Id. At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from the Claimant to the Department to present proof that the Claimant has the residual capacity to substantial gainful employment. 20 CFR 416.960(2); Richardson v Sec of Health and Human Services, 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984). While a vocational expert is not required, a finding supported by substantial evidence that the individual has the vocational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services, 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978). Medical-Vocational guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983).

The evidence confirms recent diagnosis and treatment of back pain, knee pain, obstructive sleep apnea, recurrent moderate major depressive disorder, learning disorder, and schizoid personality disorder. As noted above, Claimant maintains the residual functional capacity to perform sedentary work as defined by 20 CFR 416.967(a) on a sustained basis.

After review of the entire record, and in consideration of the Claimant's age, education, work experience, RFC, and using the Medical-Vocational Guidelines [20 CFR 404, Subpart P, Appendix II] as a guide, specifically Rule 201.27, Claimant is found not disabled at Step 5.

In this case, the Claimant is also found not disabled for purposes SDA benefits as the objective medical evidence also does not establish a physical or mental impairment that met the federal SSI disability standard with the shortened duration of 90 days. In light of the foregoing, it is found that Claimant's impairments did not preclude work at the above stated level for at least 90 days.

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, and for the reasons stated on the record, if any, finds Claimant not disabled for purposes of the MA and SDA benefit programs.

DECISION AND ORDER

Accordingly, the Department's determination is AFFIRMED.
