4. On September 12, 2014, the Department received Claimant's timely request for hearing contesting the SDA determination.

5. Claimant alleged disabling impairments including cartilage worn in knees, back herniated discs and pain, tears in hip and shoulder, neuropathy in hands and feet, bipolar disorder, and difficulties with concentration and focus.
6. At the time of hearing, Claimant was 43 years old with an [REDACTED], birth date; was 6'1" in height; and weighed 180 pounds.
7. Claimant completed the 12th grade as well as an associate's degree and has a work history including temporary factory work and Lowes lawn and garden department.
8. Claimant's impairments have lasted, or are expected to last, continuously for a period of 90 days or longer.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Department policies are contained in the Department of Human Services Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), Department of Human Services Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM), and Department of Human Services Reference Tables Manual (RFT).

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act, 42 USC 1396-1396w-5; 42 USC 1315; the Affordable Care Act of 2010, the collective term for the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, Pub. L. No. 111-148, as amended by the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010, Pub. L. No. 111-152; and 42 CFR 430.10-.25. The Department (formerly known as the Family Independence Agency) administers the MA program pursuant to 42 CFR 435, MCL 400.10, and MCL 400.105-.112k.

The State Disability Assistance (SDA) program, which provides financial assistance for disabled persons, was established by 2004 PA 344. The Department administers the SDA program pursuant to 42 CFR 435, MCL 400.10 et seq. and Mich Admin Code, Rules 400.3151 – 400.3180. A person is considered disabled for SDA purposes if the person has a physical or mental impairment which meets federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability standards for at least ninety days. Receipt of SSI benefits based on disability or blindness, or the receipt of MA benefits based on disability or blindness, automatically qualifies an individual as disabled for purposes of the SDA program.

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905(a). The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CFR 416.913. An individual's subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a). Similarly, conclusory statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927.

When determining disability, the federal regulations require several factors to be considered including: (1) the location/duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant's pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicant takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and (4) the effect of the applicant's pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3). The applicant's pain must be assessed to determine the extent of his or her functional limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2).

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1). The five-step analysis requires the trier of fact to consider an individual's current work activity; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to determine whether an individual can perform past relevant work; and residual functional capacity along with vocational factors (i.e. age, education, and work experience) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945.

If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step, a determination or decision is made with no need evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabled, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If an impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment, an individual's residual functional capacity is assessed before moving from step three to step four. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. Residual functional capacity is the most an individual can do despite the limitations based on all relevant evidence. 20 CFR 416.945(a)(1). An individual's residual functional capacity assessment is evaluated at both steps four and five. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). In determining disability, an individual's functional capacity to perform basic work activities is evaluated and if found that the individual has the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitation, disability will not be found. 20 CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv). In general, the individual has the responsibility to prove disability. 20 CFR 416.912(a). An impairment or combination of impairments is not severe if it does not significantly limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.921(a). The individual has the responsibility to provide evidence of prior work experience; efforts to work; and any other factor showing how the impairment affects the ability to work. 20 CFR 416.912(c)(3)(5)(6).

As outlined above, the first step looks at the individual's current work activity. In the record presented, the Claimant is not involved in substantial gainful activity. Therefore, Claimant is not ineligible for disability benefits under Step 1.

The severity of the Claimant's alleged impairment(s) is considered under Step 2. The Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. In order to be considered disabled for MA purposes, the impairment must be severe. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(b). An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(c). Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 416.921(b). Examples include:

1. Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;
2. Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
3. Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
4. Use of judgment;
5. Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
6. Dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

Id.

The second step allows for dismissal of a disability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). The severity requirement may still be employed as an administrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint. Id. at 863 citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985). An impairment qualifies as non-severe only if, regardless of a Claimant's age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the Claimant's ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985).

In the present case, Claimant alleges disabling impairments including cartilage worn in knees, back herniated discs and pain, tears in hip and shoulder, neuropathy in hands and feet, bipolar disorder, and difficulties with concentration and focus. While some older medical records were submitted and have been reviewed, the focus of this analysis will be on the more recent medical evidence.

A February 7, 2014, consultative medical examination noted evaluation for hip and shoulder pain, but a lack of insurance had prohibited Claimant for having an orthopedic evaluation. Claimant had full strength and range of motion, but significant pain inhibition. Claimant also reported low back pain, but had not been seen by a neurosurgeon. Claimant had tried physical therapy but no epidural steroid injections. Claimant was noted to be able to carry/lift up to 50 pounds and ambulate 2 blocks.

A February 18, 2014, consultative mental status examination documented diagnoses of: bipolar disorder by history; persistent depressive disorder, with recurrent major depression, severe at present time; impulse control disorder, intermittent explosive type; rule out schizoaffective disorder; and personality disorder, mixed and severe. Prognosis was guarded and poor.

An August 15, 2014, psychodiagnostic evaluation documented diagnoses of: bipolar disorder, severe without psychotic features; social phobia; attention deficit hyperactivity disorder combined type; and schizoid personality features. Claimant's Global Assessment of Functioning was 31. In part, it was noted that the testing confirmed the presence of the symptom complex Claimant reported and his condition is quite severe enough to seriously interfere with his social and occupational abilities and functioning.

A June 30, 2014, MRI of the lumbar spine indicated comparison with an April 30, 2011 MRI. The annular tears at L4-L5 and L5-S1 were less conspicuous but this could have been due to differences in magnet field strength. The disc bulge at L5-S1 was less prominent, but was very minimal previously. Overall the examination was not significantly changed.

An October 13, 2014, MRI of the thoracic spine showed mild degenerative disc disease most pronounced on the right at T7-8.

A November 20, 2014, neurocognitive communication evaluation report documented a variety of reported and observed cognitive difficulties and results of multiple types of testing.

A November 26, 2014, letter from a neurosurgeon indicated lumbar spine degenerative disc disease.

A December 5, 2014, abnormal electrodiagnostic study of the bilateral lower limbs and right upper limb showed a very mild peripheral neuropathy.

A December 22, 2014, Addendum Report from shows a referral to a psychologist/neuropsychologist and follow up from the August 15, 2014, psychodiagnostic evaluation. This provider saw Claimant six times between August and November 2014. In part, the provider documented his opinion that Claimant is completely disabled from any kind of employment.

A December 24, 2014, electroencephalogram was moderately abnormal due to focal sharp transient waves over the left temporal region, which are a non-specific finding.

A January 12, 2015, office visit documented diagnoses of low back pain (lumbago), sciatica, and lumbarthoracic or lumbosacral neuritis or radiculitis. In part, the assessment noted mild disc bulging and mild bilateral neuroforamial narrowing at L4-5 and L5-S1.

As previously noted, Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairment(s). As summarized above, Claimant has presented medical evidence establishing that he does have some limitations on the ability to perform basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that the Claimant has an impairment, or combination thereof, that has more than a de minimis effect on the Claimant's basic work activities. Further, the impairments have lasted, or can be expected to last, continuously for 90 days; therefore, the Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of SDA benefits under Step 2.

In the third step of the sequential analysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. The evidence confirms recent diagnosis and treatment of low back pain, thoracic spine mild degenerative disc disease, lumbar spine degenerative disc disease, very mild peripheral neuropathy, bipolar disorder, depression, impulse control disorder, personality disorder, social phobia, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, and schizoid personality features.

Based on the objective medical evidence, considered listings included 12.00 Mental Disorders. The recent medical evidence supports a finding that Claimant meets or equals the criteria for listings 12.04 and/or 12.06. Multiple mental health diagnoses were documented that seriously interfere with Claimant's social and occupational abilities and functioning. Accordingly, the Claimant is found disabled at Step 3.

In this case, the Claimant is found disabled for purposes SDA benefits as the objective medical evidence establishes a physical or mental impairment that met the federal SSI disability standard with the shortened duration of 90 days. In light of the foregoing, it is found that Claimant's impairments did preclude work at the above stated level for at least 90 days.

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, and for the reasons stated on the record, if any, finds Claimant disabled for purposes of the SDA benefit program.

DECISION AND ORDER

Accordingly, the Department's determination is REVERSED.

THE DEPARTMENT IS ORDERED TO INITIATE THE FOLLOWING, IN ACCORDANCE WITH DEPARTMENT POLICY AND CONSISTENT WITH THIS HEARING DECISION, WITHIN 10 DAYS OF THE DATE OF MAILING OF THIS DECISION AND ORDER:

1. Initiate a review of the application dated April 30, 2014, for SDA, if not done previously, to determine Claimant's non-medical eligibility. The Department shall inform Claimant of the determination in writing. A review of this case shall be set for July 2015.
2. The Department shall supplement for lost benefits (if any) that Claimant was entitled to receive, if otherwise eligible and qualified in accordance with Department policy.
