MICHIGAN ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING SYSTEM
ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF:

Reg. No.: 2014-21079
Issue No.: 2009
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date: April 2, 2014
County: Wayne (15)

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Christian Gardocki

HEARING DECISION

Following Claimant's request for a hearing, this matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and 400.37; 7 CFR 273.15 to 273.18; 42 CFR 431.200 to 431.250; 45 CFR 99.1 to 99.33; and 45 CFR 205.10. After due notice, a telephone hearing was held on April 2, 2014, from Detroit, Michigan. Participants included the above-named Claimant. Participants on behalf of the Department of Human Services (DHS) included [REDACTED], Medical Contact Worker.

ISSUE

The issue is whether DHS properly denied Claimant's application for Medical Assistance (MA) for the reason that Claimant is not a disabled individual.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the competent, material, and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. On [REDACTED], Claimant applied for MA benefits, including retroactive MA benefits from [REDACTED].
2. Claimant's only basis for MA benefits was as a disabled individual.
3. On [REDACTED], the Medical Review Team (MRT) determined that Claimant was not a disabled individual (see Exhibits 1-2).

4. On [REDACTED], DHS denied Claimant's application for MA benefits and mailed a Notice of Case Action informing Claimant of the denial.
5. On [REDACTED], Claimant requested a hearing disputing the denial of MA benefits and a Food Assistance Program (FAP) benefit issue.
6. Claimant testified that her FAP dispute is resolved.
7. On [REDACTED] SHRT determined that Claimant was not a disabled individual, in part, by determining that Claimant could perform past relevant employment.
8. On [REDACTED], an administrative hearing was held.
9. Claimant presented new medical documents (Exhibits A1-A9) at the hearing.
10. During the hearing, Claimant waived the right to receive a timely hearing decision.
11. During the hearing, Claimant and DHS waived any objections to allow the admission of additional documents considered and forwarded by SHRT.
12. On [REDACTED], an updated hearing packet was forwarded to SHRT and an Interim Order Extending the Record for Review by State Hearing Review Team was subsequently issued which extended the record 90 days from the date of hearing.
13. On [REDACTED], SHRT determined that Claimant was not disabled, in part, by application of Medical-Vocational Rule 202.20.
14. On [REDACTED], the Michigan Administrative Hearings System received the hearing packet and updated SHRT decision.
15. As of the date of the administrative hearing, Claimant was a 48-year-old female with a height of 5'6" and weight of 185 pounds.
16. Claimant has no known relevant history of alcohol or illegal substance abuse.
17. Claimant's highest education year completed was the 12th grade.
18. As of the date of the administrative hearing, Claimant had no health insurance.
19. Claimant alleged disability based on cardiac-related restrictions.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by the Title XIX of the Social Security Act, 42 USC 1396-1396w-5, and is implemented by 42 CFR 400.200 to 1008.59. The Department of Human Services (formerly known as the Family Independence Agency) administers the MA program pursuant to MCL 400.10 and MCL 400.105. Department policies are contained in the Department of Human Services Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM) and Department of Human Services Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM) and Department of Human Services Reference Tables Manual (RFT).

The Medicaid program is comprised of several sub-programs which fall under one of two categories; one category is FIP-related and the second category is SSI-related. BEM 105 (10/2010), p. 1. To receive MA under an SSI-related category, the person must be aged (65 or older), blind, disabled, entitled to Medicare or formerly blind or disabled. Id. Families with dependent children, caretaker relatives of dependent children, persons under age 21 and pregnant, or recently pregnant, women receive MA under FIP-related categories. Id. AMP is an MA program available to persons not eligible for Medicaid through the SSI-related or FIP-related categories though DHS does always offer the program to applicants. It was not disputed that Claimant's only potential category for Medicaid eligibility would be as a disabled individual.

Disability for purposes of MA benefits is established if one of the following circumstances applies:

- by death (for the month of death);
- the applicant receives Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits;
- SSI benefits were recently terminated due to financial factors;
- the applicant receives Retirement Survivors and Disability Insurance (RSDI) on the basis of being disabled; or
- RSDI eligibility is established following denial of the MA benefit application (under certain circumstances).

BEM 260 (7/2012) pp. 1-2

There was no evidence that any of the above circumstances apply to Claimant. Accordingly, Claimant may not be considered for Medicaid eligibility without undergoing a medical review process which determines whether Claimant is a disabled individual. Id. at 2.

Generally, state agencies such as DHS must use the same definition of SSI disability as found in the federal regulations. 42 CFR 435.540(a). Disability is federally defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity (SGA) by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905. A functionally identical definition of disability is found under DHS regulations. BEM 260 (7/2012), p. 8.

Substantial gainful activity means a person does the following:

- Performs significant duties, and
- Does them for a reasonable length of time, and
- Does a job normally done for pay or profit. Id. at 9.

Significant duties are duties used to do a job or run a business. Id. They must also have a degree of economic value. Id. The ability to run a household or take care of oneself does not, on its own, constitute substantial gainful activity. Id.

The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish a disability through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CFR 413.913. An individual's subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a).

Federal regulations describe a sequential five step process that is to be followed in determining whether a person is disabled. 20 CFR 416.920. If there is no finding of disability or lack of disability at each step, the process moves to the next step. 20 CFR 416.920 (a)(4).

The first step in the process considers a person's current work activity. 20 CFR 416.920 (a)(4)(i). A person who is earning more than a certain monthly amount is ordinarily considered to be engaging in SGA. The monthly amount depends on whether a person is statutorily blind or not. "Current" work activity is interpreted to include all time since the date of application. The 2013 monthly income limit considered SGA for non-blind individuals is $1,040.

Claimant credibly denied performing any employment since the date of the MA application; no evidence was submitted to contradict Claimant's testimony. Based on the presented evidence, it is found that Claimant is not performing SGA and has not performed SGA since the date of MA application. Accordingly, the disability analysis may proceed to step two.

The second step in the disability evaluation is to determine whether a severe medically determinable physical or mental impairment exists to meet the 12 month duration requirement. 20 CFR 416.920 (a)(4)(ii). The impairments may be combined to meet the severity requirement. If a severe impairment is not found, then a person is deemed not disabled. Id.

The impairments must significantly limit a person's basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.920 (a)(5)(c). "Basic work activities" refers to the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. Id. Examples of basic work activities include:

- physical functions (e.g. walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling)

- capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking, understanding; carrying out, and remembering simple instructions
- use of judgment
- responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and/or
- dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

Generally, federal courts have imposed a de minimus standard upon claimants to establish the existence of a severe impairment. Grogan v. Barnhart, 399 F.3d 1257, 1263 (10th Cir. 2005); Hinkle v. Apfel, 132 F.3d 1349, 1352 (10th Cir. 1997). Higgs v Bowen, 880 F.2d 860, 862 (6th Cir. 1988). Similarly, Social Security Ruling 85-28 has been interpreted so that a claim may be denied at step two for lack of a severe impairment only when the medical evidence establishes a slight abnormality or combination of slight abnormalities that would have no more than a minimal effect on an individual's ability to work even if the individual's age, education, or work experience were specifically considered. Barrientos v. Secretary of Health and Human Servs., 820 F.2d 1, 2 (1st Cir. 1987). Social Security Ruling 85-28 has been clarified so that the step two severity requirement is intended "to do no more than screen out groundless claims." McDonald v. Secretary of Health and Human Servs., 795 F.2d 1118, 1124 (1st Cir. 1986).

SSA specifically notes that age, education, and work experience are not considered at the second step of the disability analysis. 20 CFR 416.920 (5)(c). In determining whether Claimant's impairments amount to a severe impairment, all other relevant evidence may be considered. The analysis will begin with a summary of the relevant submitted medical documentation.

A cardiologist letter (Exhibit 15) dated [REDACTED] was presented. It was noted that the authoring cardiologist recently performed a catheterization on Claimant. Left-sided arteries were noted as normal. Claimant's RCA was noted as "anomalous but without any significant stenosis". A stress test was noted as abnormal in the anterior wall which is likely artifactual.

Cardiologist treatment documents (Exhibits 12-14) dated [REDACTED] were presented. It was noted that Claimant reported ongoing chest pain. It was noted that a RCA demonstrated no significant disease, no demonstrable ischemia and "only mild plaque". Normal heart tones and no murmur were noted. It was noted that Claimant was a high risk of re-operation due to a refusal of blood products. Impression of a stable anomalous origin of right coronary artery (RCA) and failed RIMA graft to RCA was noted. It was noted that "things seem satisfactory".

A cardiology consultation report (Exhibits 8-11) dated [REDACTED] was presented. It was noted that Claimant presented with complaints of chest pain, treatable with nitroglycerin. A complaint of dyspnea following mild exertion was also noted. It was noted Claimant's medical history noted HTN and coronary artery disease. It was noted that Claimant had full muscle strength. An ejection fraction of 55% from [REDACTED] was noted. It was noted that Claimant's HTN was well controlled on the date of visit. It was noted that further testing and labs would be performed.

A cardiology consultation report (Exhibits A2-A9) dated [REDACTED] was presented. It was noted that Claimant complained of ongoing chest pain and dyspnea. It was noted that Claimant had an "excellent" stress test from [REDACTED]; all noted test measurements were normal. Claimant's HTN was noted as well-controlled.

A cardiologist letter (Exhibit A1) dated [REDACTED] was presented. It was noted that a cardiac catheterization was closed which revealed that Claimant was in the same position as she was before a 2010 bypass surgery. It was noted that conservative treatment was preferred over a second surgery. It was noted that Claimant was taken off-of-work because Claimant does not need to be under any stress, at this time. It was noted that Claimant was restricted to lifting of 5 pounds and that Claimant's medications cause dizziness, nausea, and headaches.

Claimant testified that she has exertional restrictions due to dyspnea. Claimant's physician restricted Claimant's lifting due to cardiac-related concerns. Exertional restrictions were verified by the presented medical evidence. Presented evidence also tended to verify that Claimant has exertional restrictions since at least [REDACTED] the first month when Claimant seeks MA benefits.

It is found that Claimant established significant impairment to basic work activities for a period longer than 12 months. Accordingly, Claimant established having a severe impairment and the disability analysis may move to step three.

The third step of the sequential analysis requires a determination whether the Claimant's impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. 20 CFR 416.920 (a)(4)(iii). If Claimant's impairments are listed and deemed to meet the 12 month requirement, then the claimant is deemed disabled. If the impairment is unlisted, then the analysis proceeds to the next step.

Claimant's most prominent impairment appears to be chest pain and dyspnea related to heart restrictions. Cardiac impairments are covered by Listings 4.00. Evidence was not presented that Claimant meets any cardiac-related listing.

It is found that Claimant failed to establish meeting a SSA listing. Accordingly, the analysis moves to step four.

The fourth step in analyzing a disability claim requires an assessment of the Claimant's residual functional capacity (RFC) and past relevant employment. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(iv). An individual is not disabled if it is determined that a claimant can perform past relevant work. Id.

Past relevant work is work that has been performed within the past 15 years that was a substantial gainful activity and that lasted long enough for the individual to learn the position. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(1). Vocational factors of age, education, and work experience, and whether the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy is not considered. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). RFC is assessed based on impairment(s), and any related symptoms, such as pain, which may cause physical and mental limitations that affect what can be done in a work setting. RFC is the most that can be done, despite the limitations.

Claimant's past relevant employment involves 26 years of working as a worker's compensation claim representative. Claimant testified that her duties involved investigating worker's compensation claims. Claimant testified that she is unable to perform her former employment because her job was too stressful. Claimant's cardiologist noted the same (see Exhibit A1). It was not clear why Claimant's job was too stressful, however, in light of Claimant's cardiac problems, deference will be given to the restriction noted by Claimant's cardiologist. It is found that Claimant cannot return to her past employment. Accordingly, the disability analysis may proceed to step five.

In the fifth step in the process, the individual's RFC in conjunction with his or her age, education, and work experience, are considered to determine whether the individual can engage in any other substantial gainful work which exists in the national economy. SSR 83-10. While a vocational expert is not required, a finding supported by substantial evidence that the individual has the vocational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services, 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978). Medical-Vocational guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983).

To determine the physical demands (i.e. exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, jobs are classified as sedentary, light, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 20 CFR 416.967. The definitions for each are listed below.

Sedentary work involves lifting of no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Id. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met.

Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing up to 10 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(b) Even though weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. Id. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities. Id. An individual capable of light work is also capable of sedentary work, unless there are additionally limiting factors such as loss of fine dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time. Id.

Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). An individual capable of performing medium work is also capable of light and sedentary work. Id.

Limitations or restrictions which affect the ability to meet the demands of jobs other than strength demands are considered nonexertional. 20 CFR 416.969a(a). Examples of non-exertional limitations include difficulty functioning due to nervousness, anxiousness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concentration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficulty in seeing or hearing; difficulty tolerating some physical feature(s) of certain work settings (i.e. can't tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or postural functions of some work such as reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(1)(i)-(vi) If the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-exertional aspects of work-related activities, the rules in Appendix 2 do not direct factual conclusions of disabled or not disabled. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(2)

The determination of whether disability exists is based upon the principles in the appropriate sections of the regulations, giving consideration to the rules for specific case situations in Appendix 2. Id. In using the rules of Appendix 2, an individual's circumstances, as indicated by the findings with respect to RFC, age, education, and work experience, is compared to the pertinent rule(s).

Given Claimant's age, education and employment history a determination of disability is dependent on Claimant's ability to perform sedentary employment. For sedentary employment, periods of standing or walking should generally total no more than about 2 hours of an 8-hour workday. Social Security Rule 83-10.

Claimant testified that she is restricted to 1 block of walking before she loses her breath. Consideration was given to completely disregarding Claimant's testimony because of Claimant's "excellent" stress test results. The stress test results were clarified by Claimant's cardiologist who noted that Claimant still has a closed artery despite a previous heart surgery. The issue to determine is whether a closed artery justifies finding that Claimant cannot perform sedentary employment.

Claimant's cardiologist noted that Claimant should not be under any stress. Claimant's cardiologist also noted that Claimant was limited to five pounds of lifting. Both restrictions generally support a finding that Claimant is incapable of sedentary employment.

Claimant's cardiologist also noted that conservative treatment is preferred to a second cardiac surgery. Conservative treatment is consistent with finding that Claimant's status is not exigent. A lack of exigency is somewhat supportive in finding that Claimant can perform sedentary employment.

The reason for conservative treatment over a second surgery was not apparent. It is plausible that a second heart surgery was not performed solely because Claimant does not have health insurance. The type of treatment might also be impacted by Claimant's religious preferences; Claimant testified that her religion does not allow for blood transfusions, a likely surgery necessity. Not enough is known to draw conclusions for Claimant's cardiologist's preference for conservative treatment.

Treating source opinions cannot be discounted unless the Administrative Law Judge provides good reasons for discounting the opinion. Rogers v. Commissioner, 486 F. 3d 234 (6th Cir. 2007); Bowen v Commissioner. Overall, there was credible medical evidence to defer to the restrictive conclusions made by Claimant's cardiologist. Based on the presented evidence, it is found that Claimant cannot perform sedentary employment.

A finding that Claimant cannot perform sedentary employment equates to finding that Claimant is a disabled individual. Accordingly, it is found that DHS improperly denied Claimant's MA application.

It should be noted that Claimant's impairments do not appear to be permanent. If and/or when medical improvement occurs, an updated disability determination is proper.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law finds that DHS improperly denied Claimant's application for MA benefits. It is ordered that DHS:

- (1) reinstate Claimant's MA benefit application dated [REDACTED], including retroactive MA benefits from [REDACTED]
- (2) evaluate Claimant's eligibility for MA benefits subject to the finding that Claimant is a disabled individual;
- (3) initiate a supplement for any benefits not issued as a result of the improper application denial; and
- (4) schedule a review of benefits in one year from the date of this administrative decision, if Claimant is found eligible for future MA benefits.

The actions taken by DHS are REVERSED.
