The record was extended to allow additional relevant medical evidence to be submitted. Claimant waived timeliness. The additional medical evidence was received and submitted to the State Hearing Review Team (SHRT) for review prior to this decision being issued.

ISSUE

Whether the Department properly determined that Claimant is not "disabled" for purposes of the Medical Assistance (MA-P) program?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the competent, material and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. On October 31, 2013, Claimant applied for MA-P and retro MA-P to July 2013.
2. On January 13, 2014, the Medical Review Team denied Claimant's request.

4. The State Hearing Review Team (SHRT) denied Claimant's request.
5. Claimant is 45 years old.
6. Claimant completed education through high school and some college.
7. Claimant has employment experience (last worked 2010) as a general laborer which required him to stand/walk the majority of the shift, limited sitting and lifting 50 pounds. He also serviced factory machines which required him to stand/walk the majority of the shift, limited sitting and lifting 150 pounds. He also worked stocking shelves in a store which required him to stand/walk the majority of the shift, limited sitting and lifting 50 pounds.
8. Claimant's limitations have lasted for 12 months or more.
9. Claimant suffers from gallstones, chronic anemia, possible cancer and arthritis.
10. Claimant has some limitations on physical activities involving sitting, standing, walking, bending, lifting, and stooping.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Department policies are contained in the Department of Human Services Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), Department of Human Services Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM), and Department of Human Services Reference Tables Manual (RFT).

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act, 42 USC 1396-1396w-5; 42 USC 1315; the Affordable Care Act of 2010, the collective term for the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, Pub. L. No. 111-148, as amended by the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010, Pub. L. No. 111-152; and 42 CFR 430.10-.25. The Department (formerly known as the Family Independence Agency) administers the MA program pursuant to 42 CFR 435, MCL 400.10, and MCL 400.105-.112k.

Pursuant to Federal Rule 42 CFR 435.540, the Department uses the Federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) policy in determining eligibility for disability under MA-P. Under SSI, disability is defined as:

...the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months.... 20 CFR 416.905.

A set order is used to determine disability. Current work activity, severity of impairments, residual functional capacity, past work, age, or education and work experience are reviewed. If there is a finding that an individual is disabled or not disabled at any point in the review, there will be no further evaluation. 20 CFR 416.920.

Medical evidence may contain medical opinions. Medical opinions are statements from physicians and psychologists or other acceptable medical sources that reflect judgments about the nature and severity of the impairment(s), including symptoms, diagnosis and prognosis, what an individual can do despite impairment(s), and the physical or mental restrictions. 20 CFR 416.927(a)(2).

The Administrative Law Judge is responsible for making the determination or decision about whether the statutory definition of disability is met. The Administrative Law Judge reviews all medical findings and other evidence that support a medical source's statement of disability. 20 CFR 416.927(e).

For mental disorders, severity is assessed in terms of the functional limitations imposed by the impairment. Functional limitations are assessed using the criteria in paragraph (B) of the listings for mental disorders (descriptions of restrictions of activities of daily living, social functioning; concentration, persistence or pace; and ability to tolerate increased mental demands associated with competitive work). 20 CFR, Part 404, Subpart P, Appendix 1, 12.00(C).

The residual functional capacity is what an individual can do despite limitations. All impairments will be considered in addition to ability to meet certain demands of jobs in the national economy. Physical demands, mental demands, sensory requirements and other functions will be evaluated. 20 CFR 416.945(a).

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, we classify jobs as sedentary, light, medium and heavy. These terms have the same meaning as they have in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, published by the Department of Labor. 20 CFR 416.967.

Pursuant to 20 CFR 416.920, a five-step sequential evaluation process is used to determine disability. An individual's current work activity, the severity of the impairment, the residual functional capacity, past work, age, education and work experience are evaluated. If an individual is found disabled or not disabled at any point, no further review is made.

The first step is to determine if an individual is working and if that work is "substantial gainful activity" (SGA). If the work is SGA, an individual is not considered disabled regardless of medical condition, age or other vocational factors. 20 CFR 416.920(b).

Secondly, the individual must have a medically determinable impairment that is "severe" or a combination of impairments that is "severe." 20 CFR 404.1520(c). An impairment or combination of impairments is "severe" within the meaning of regulations if it significantly limits an individual's ability to perform basic work activities. An impairment or combination of impairments is "not severe" when medical and other evidence establish only a slight abnormality or a combination of slight abnormalities that would have no more than a minimal effect on an individual's ability to work. 20 CFR 404.1521; Social Security Rulings (SSRs) 85-28, 96-3p, and 96-4p. If the claimant does not have a severe medically determinable impairment or combination of impairments, he/she is not disabled. If the claimant has a severe impairment or combination of impairments, the analysis proceeds to the third step.

The third step in the process is to assess whether the impairment or combination of impairments meets a Social Security listing. If the impairment or combination of impairments meets or is the medically equivalent of a listed impairment as set forth in Appendix 1 and meets the durational requirements of 20 CFR 404.1509, the individual is considered disabled. If it does not, the analysis proceeds to the next step.

Before considering step four of the sequential evaluation process, the trier must determine the claimant's residual functional capacity. 20 CFR 404.1520(e). An individual's residual functional capacity is his/her ability to do physical and mental work activities on a sustained basis despite limitations from his/her impairments. In making this finding, the trier must consider all of the claimant's impairments, including impairments that are not severe. 20 CFR 404.1520(e) and 404.1545; SSR 96-8p.

The fourth step of the process is whether the claimant has the residual functional capacity to perform the requirements of his/her past relevant work. 20 CFR 404.1520(f). The term past relevant work means work performed (either as the claimant actually performed it or as is it generally performed in the national economy) within the last 15 years or 15 years prior to the date that disability must be established. If the claimant has the residual functional capacity to do his/her past relevant work, then the claimant is not disabled. If the claimant is unable to do any past relevant work or does not have any past relevant work, the analysis proceeds to the fifth step.

In the fifth step, an individual's residual functional capacity is considered in determining whether disability exists. An individual's age, education, work experience and skills are used to evaluate whether an individual has the residual functional capacity to perform work despite limitations. 20 CFR 416.920(e).

Here, Claimant has satisfied requirements as set forth in steps one, two and three of the sequential evaluation. However, Claimant's impairments do not meet a listing as set forth in Appendix 1, 20 CFR 416.926. Therefore, vocational factors will be considered to determine Claimant's residual functional capacity to do relevant work.

In the present case, Claimant has been diagnosed with gallstones, chronic anemia, possible cancer, arthritis and weight loss. Claimant has a number of symptoms and limitations, as cited above, as a result of these conditions. Claimant's medical evidence consists of the following:

Claimant underwent a left inguinal hernia repair [REDACTED] and laparoscopic cholecystectomy [REDACTED]. Claimant was admitted to the hospital [REDACTED] and remained in the hospital [REDACTED]. He was admitted for scrotal abscess, acute kidney condition, sepsis and acute blood loss anemia. Claimant underwent a left radical orchiectomy and scrotal I&D [REDACTED].

[REDACTED] Claimant was again admitted to the hospital and remained in the hospital until [REDACTED]. Claimant was treated for dehydration and hypokalemia due to nausea and vomiting. Claimant was then admitted to the hospital [REDACTED] and remained in the hospital until [REDACTED]. He was treated for scrotal pain. He reported persistent nausea and vomiting and weight loss. He underwent drainage of a small scrotal abscess.

[REDACTED], an encounter report showed the results of testing performed to determine the etiology of Claimant's persistent vomiting and nausea. These tests failed to provide an etiology. Claimant informed staff he was unable to take medications or keep food down. His height was reported as 5'11" and he weighed 185 pounds which yielded a Body Mass Index (BMI) of 25.84. His abdomen was noted to be soft and non-distended. No abdominal tenderness, rebound or guarding. There was an oval subcutaneous, mobile 2 centimeter mass. There was no hepatosplenomegaly or ascites.

[REDACTED] Claimant underwent a laparoscopy and repair of incarcerated ventral incisional hernia. His hemoglobin was noted to be 12.2 and his hematocrit was 35.8. No gross motor or sensory deficits.

[REDACTED] a DHS-49 was completed by Claimant's treating physician. This physician noted Claimant's condition was improving. Claimant was found capable of lifting 10 pounds frequently and up to 25 pounds occasionally. Claimant was noted to be capable of standing 2 hours out of 8 hours and sit about 6 hours out of 8 hours. No limitations were noted in regards to the use of Claimant's hands, arms, feet or legs. No mental limitations were noted. Claimant was noted to be capable of meeting his own needs in his own home. Claimant was noted to be 5'11" in height and weighed 227 pounds. This physician began treating Claimant [REDACTED]

Claimant testified to the following symptoms and abilities: vomiting, not able to hold any liquids, he gets sick when he eats, dizzy spells, depressed, eating 8-9 times a day, not able to keep the food down, struggling to keep the medicine down, tires out easily, poor sleep, walking is problematic due to his leg giving out, he has arthritis in his legs, uses a cane for walking, he stand 3 minutes, not able to sit long due to being uncomfortable, he struggles with laying down due to pain, he is limited to lifting 3-10 pounds, numbness in his hands impacts ability to grip, needs help with household chores, needs help with getting up and out of bathtub, needs help with grocery shopping, he has issues with falling, limited driving, takes medications as prescribed but not always able to manage keeping them down, he is pending a surgery for his throat and a hernia repair, has issues with urinating and painful scrotum, waking up in sweats, low back pain, goes to the bathroom multiple times in the day and has issues with incontinence.

Claimant's testimony regarding the severity of limitation on his ability to perform basic activities is found less than credible. The medical evidence fails to support these limitations. Claimant's treating physician indicated that Claimant was not as limited as Claimant alleged. Further, although Claimant alleges consistent vomiting, Claimant has actually gained weight.

The fourth step of the analysis to be considered is whether the claimant has the ability to perform work previously performed by the claimant within the past 15 years. The trier of fact must determine whether the impairment(s) presented prevent the claimant from doing past relevant work. In the present case, Claimant's past employment was in general labor work which required him to stand/walk the majority of the shift, limited sitting and lifting 50 pounds. He also serviced factory machines which required him to stand/walk the majority of the shift, limited sitting and lifting 150 pounds. He also worked stocking shelves in a store which required him to stand/walk the majority of the shift, limited sitting and lifting 50 pounds. This Administrative Law Judge finds, based on the medical evidence and objective, physical, and psychological findings, that Claimant is not capable of the physical or mental activities required to perform any such position. 20 CFR 416.920(e).

In the final step of the analysis, the trier of fact must determine if the claimant's impairment(s) prevent the claimant from doing other work. 20 CFR 416.920(f). This determination is based upon the claimant's:

1. residual functional capacity defined simply as "what can you still do despite your limitations?" 20 CFR 416.945;
2. age, education, and work experience, 20 CFR 416.963-965; and
3. the kinds of work which exist in significant numbers in the national economy which the claimant could perform despite her limitations. 20 CFR 416.966.

The residual functional capacity is what an individual can do despite limitations. All impairments will be considered in addition to ability to meet certain demands of jobs in the national economy. Physical demands, mental demands, sensory requirements and other functions will be evaluated. 20 CFR 416.945(a).

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, we classify jobs as sedentary, light, medium and heavy. These terms have the same meaning as they have in the Dictionary of Occupational Titles, published by the Department of Labor. 20 CFR 416.967.

Sedentary work. Sedentary work involves lifting no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. 20 CFR 416.967(a).

Light work. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 10 pounds. Even though the weight lifted may be very little; a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. 20 CFR 416.967(b).

Medium work. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. If someone can do medium work, we determine that he or she can also do sedentary and light work. 20 CFR 416.967(c).

Heavy work. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. If someone can do heavy work, we determine that he or she can also do medium, light, and sedentary work. 20 CFR 416.967(d).

See Felton v DSS 161 Mich App 690, 696 (1987). Once the claimant makes it to the final step of the analysis, the claimant has already established a prima facie case of disability. Richardson v Secretary of Health and Human Services, 732 F2d 962 (6th Cir, 1984). Moving forward, the burden of proof rests with the State to prove by substantial evidence that the claimant has the residual function capacity for SGA.

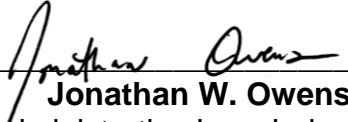

This Administrative Law Judge finds that Claimant has the residual functional capacity to perform work at least at a sedentary level.

Claimant is an individual of younger age. 20 CFR 416.963. Claimant has a high school education. 20 CFR 416.964. Claimant's previous work was semi-skilled work and these skills are not transferable. Federal Rule 20 CFR 404, Subpart P, Appendix 2, contains specific profiles for determining disability based on residual functional capacity and vocational profiles. Under Table I, Rule 201.21, Claimant is not disabled for purposes of the Medical Assistance program.

DECISION AND ORDER

The Administrative Law Judge, based upon the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, decides that Claimant is not medically disabled.

Accordingly, the Department's decision is hereby UPHeld.
