MICHIGAN ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING SYSTEM
ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES

IN THE MATTER OF:

[REDACTED]

Reg. No.: 14-010338
Issue No.: MEDICAID - DISABILITY
Case No.: [REDACTED]
Hearing Date: December 16, 2014
County: DICKINSON

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE: Colleen Lack

HEARING DECISION

Following Claimant's request for a hearing, this matter is before the undersigned Administrative Law Judge pursuant to MCL 400.9 and 400.37; 42 CFR 431.200 to 431.250; and 45 CFR 205.10. After due notice, an in person hearing was held on December 16, 2014, from Iron Mountain, Michigan. Participants on behalf of Claimant included [REDACTED], the Claimant, [REDACTED], mother, and [REDACTED], [REDACTED] Authorized Hearing Representative. Participants on behalf of the Department of Human Services (Department) included [REDACTED], Eligibility Specialist, and [REDACTED], Assistance Payments Specialist.

During the hearing, Claimant waived the time period for the issuance of this decision, in order to allow for the submission of additional medical evidence. The evidence was received and reviewed.

ISSUE

Whether the Department properly determined that Claimant was not disabled for purposes of the Medical Assistance (MA) benefit program?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the competent, material, and substantial evidence on the whole record, finds as material fact:

1. On April 24, 2014, Claimant applied for Medicaid (MA-P) and retroactive MA-P.
2. On May 15, 2014, the Medical Review Team (MRT) found Claimant not disabled.
3. On May 19, 2014, the Department notified Claimant of the MRT determination.
4. On August 15, 2014, the Department received Claimant's timely written request for hearing.

5. Claimant alleged disabling impairments including degenerative disc disease, lumbar radiculopathy, hypertension, migraine, asthma, COPD, GERD, cholesterol, obesity, insomnia, anxiety, depression, and PTSD.
6. At the time of hearing, Claimant was 30 years old with a [REDACTED], birth date; was 5'10.5" in height; and weighed 420 pounds.
7. Claimant completed some college and has a history of part time work including gas station, dairy queen, and front desk at a college.
8. Claimant's impairments have lasted, or are expected to last, continuously for a period of 12 months or longer.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Department policies are contained in the Department of Human Services Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), Department of Human Services Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM), and Department of Human Services Reference Tables Manual (RFT).

The Medical Assistance (MA) program is established by Title XIX of the Social Security Act, 42 USC 1396-1396w-5; 42 USC 1315; the Affordable Care Act of 2010, the collective term for the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, Pub. L. No. 111-148, as amended by the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010, Pub. L. No. 111-152; and 42 CFR 430.10-.25. The Department (formerly known as the Family Independence Agency) administers the MA program pursuant to 42 CFR 435, MCL 400.10, and MCL 400.105-.112k.

Disability is defined as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 12 months. 20 CFR 416.905(a). The person claiming a physical or mental disability has the burden to establish it through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or ability to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments, if a mental disability is alleged. 20 CFR 416.913. An individual's subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a). Similarly, conclusory statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, is insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927.

When determining disability, the federal regulations require several factors to be considered including: (1) the location/duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant's pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicant takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and (4) the effect of the applicant's pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3). The applicant's pain must be assessed to determine the extent of his or her functional limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2).

In order to determine whether or not an individual is disabled, federal regulations require a five-step sequential evaluation process be utilized. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1). The five-step analysis requires the trier of fact to consider an individual's current work activity; the severity of the impairment(s) both in duration and whether it meets or equals a listed impairment in Appendix 1; residual functional capacity to determine whether an individual can perform past relevant work; and residual functional capacity along with vocational factors (i.e. age, education, and work experience) to determine if an individual can adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945.

If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step, a determination or decision is made with no need evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabled, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If an impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment, an individual's residual functional capacity is assessed before moving from step three to step four. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. Residual functional capacity is the most an individual can do despite the limitations based on all relevant evidence. 20 CFR 416.945(a)(1). An individual's residual functional capacity assessment is evaluated at both steps four and five. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). In determining disability, an individual's functional capacity to perform basic work activities is evaluated and if found that the individual has the ability to perform basic work activities without significant limitation, disability will not be found. 20 CFR 416.994(b)(1)(iv). In general, the individual has the responsibility to prove disability. 20 CFR 416.912(a). An impairment or combination of impairments is not severe if it does not significantly limit an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.921(a). The individual has the responsibility to provide evidence of prior work experience; efforts to work; and any other factor showing how the impairment affects the ability to work. 20 CFR 416.912(c)(3)(5)(6).

As outlined above, the first step looks at the individual's current work activity. In the record presented, the Claimant is not involved in substantial gainful activity. Therefore, Claimant is not ineligible for disability benefits under Step 1.

The severity of the Claimant's alleged impairment(s) is considered under Step 2. The Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. In order to be considered disabled for MA purposes, the impairment must be severe. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(b). An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities regardless of age, education and work experience. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(c).

Basic work activities means the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs. 20 CFR 416.921(b). Examples include:

1. Physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling;
2. Capacities for seeing, hearing, and speaking;
3. Understanding, carrying out, and remembering simple instructions;
4. Use of judgment;
5. Responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and
6. Dealing with changes in a routine work setting.

The second step allows for dismissal of a disability claim obviously lacking in medical merit. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862 (CA 6, 1988). The severity requirement may still be employed as an administrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint. Id. at 863 citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985). An impairment qualifies as non-severe only if, regardless of a Claimant's age, education, or work experience, the impairment would not affect the Claimant's ability to work. Salmi v Sec of Health and Human Services, 774 F2d 685, 692 (CA 6, 1985).

In the present case, Claimant alleges disabling impairments including degenerative disc disease, lumbar radiculopathy, hypertension, migraine, asthma, COPD, GERD, cholesterol, obesity, insomnia, anxiety, depression, and PTSD. While some older medical records were submitted and have been reviewed, the focus of this analysis will be on the more recent medical evidence.

A September 2013 through January 2014, neurology records document migraines, lumbar radiculopathy, bipolar disorder, and morbid obesity. The lumbar radiculopathy worsened and Claimant had signs of L4, L5 and S1 radiculopathy.

Claimant was seen in the emergency department January 15, 2014, for abdominal pain, chronic pain, unspecified pain in or around eye, and leukocytosis. A CT showed fatty liver.

It appears that Claimant was hospitalized January 16-22, 2014, but little documentation of this admission was submitted. A Discharge Summary included in Exhibit 1 (pp. 39-41), lists an admission date of January 9, 2014, and no discharge date, but on a later page the date of service was January 16, 2014. Diagnoses included syncope, clinical pneumonia, tachycardia, and leukocytosis.

An April 15, 2014, DHS-49 Medical Examination Report completed by the family medicine doctor documented diagnoses of degenerative disc disease, back pain, mental health issues and hypertension. Claimant's condition was deteriorating and it was noted she uses a cane to get around. This older version of the form did not list physical limitations for the doctor to mark. An April 15, 2014, progress notes documents diagnosis and treatment for multiple conditions, including obesity, mood disorder, GERD, asthma, back pain, GERD, hyperlipidemia, hypertension, insomnia, and migraine.

Mental health treatment records from March 2013 through April 2014 document diagnoses including PTSD, dysthymic disorder, poly substance abuse in remission, rule out mood disorder, bereavement, and borderline personality disorder. Claimant's Global Assessment of Functioning (GAF) ranged from 40-55, but was most frequently 45. A March 5, 2014, record documents marked limitations with activities of daily living, self-direction, and social/interpersonal relationships.

June 2014, progress notes document diagnosis and treatment for multiple conditions including GERD, headache, diarrhea, and BMI between 50 and 59.9. Claimant's weight was 402 lbs. Other major problems included anxiety, asthma, back pain, hyperlipidemia, hypertension, insomnia, migraine, polycystic ovarian syndrome, mood disorder, major depressive disorder and irritable bowel syndrome.

A DHS-49 Medical Examination Report showing a last examination in June 2014, completed by the family medicine doctor documented diagnoses of GERD and diarrhea. Claimant's condition was deteriorating. Physical limitations included lifting less than 10 pounds occasionally, stand/walk less than 2 hours in an 8 hour work day, and unable to use either upper extremity for pushing/pulling. Mental limitations with memory, sustained concentration, and following simple directions were also marked.

An August 2014 mental health treatment medication review note documented diagnoses including PTSD, dysthymic disorder, poly substance abuse in remission, rule out mood disorder, bereavement, and borderline personality disorder. Claimant's GAF was 45. The mental status narrative, in part, noted stress, increased depression, nightmares, and self-injurious behavior of cutting.

An October 8, 2014, DHS-49 Medical Examination Report from the neurologist documented a diagnosis of severe lumbar radiculopathy. Physical limitations included never lifting 10 pounds or more, stand/walk less than 2 hours in an 8 hour work day, and unable to use either upper extremity for pushing/pulling.

A December 1, 2014, office note from the medical oncology/hematology doctor documented mild leukocytosis/thrombocytosis. It was stated that Claimant likely has a chronic myeloproliferative neoplasm, but with the counts just mildly increased no therapeutic intervention needs to be pursued. The doctor noted Claimant was going to see a bariatric surgeon and if she has surgery, he would support a short course of cytoreductive therapy to normalize her white cell count.

A December 12, 2014, Residual Functional Capacity form completed by the family medicine doctor documents diagnoses of asthma, depression, obesity, and likely myeloproliferative neoplasm. Claimant's disability or impairment would be expect to or has lasted one year or more. Claimant would not be able to stand for 6-8 hours and can stand for 15 minutes maximum. Claimant would not be able to sit for 6-8 hours and can sit for 1 hour but then must lay down. Claimant must lay down during the day due to severe pain. Claimant can walk about 20 feet. Claimant can lift and carry less than 5 pounds during an 8 hour period. Difficulty was noted with many listed activities and motions. Anxiety, migraines, degenerative disc disease with low back pain, and recent ankle sprain were also noted. Claimant's disability was unlikely to change.

As previously noted, Claimant bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairment(s). As summarized above, Claimant has presented medical evidence establishing that she does have some limitations on the ability to perform basic work activities. The medical evidence has established that the Claimant has an impairment, or combination thereof, that has more than a de minimis effect on the Claimant's basic work activities. Further, the impairments have lasted, or can be expected to last, continuously for twelve months; therefore, the Claimant is not disqualified from receipt of MA-P benefits under Step 2.

In the third step of the sequential analysis of a disability claim, the trier of fact must determine if the Claimant's impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. The evidence confirms recent diagnosis and treatment of migraines, degenerative disc disease, lumbar radiculopathy, morbid obesity, asthma, fatty liver, obesity, hypertension, hyperlipidemia, GERD, migraine, irritable bowel syndrome, mild leukocytosis/thrombocytosis, PTSD, dysthymic disorder, poly substance abuse in remission, rule out mood disorder, bereavement, and borderline personality disorder.

Based on the objective medical evidence, considered listings included: 1.00 Musculoskeletal System, 11.00 Neurological, and 12.00 Mental Disorders. However, the medical evidence was not sufficient to meet the intent and severity requirements of any listing, or its equivalent. Accordingly, the Claimant cannot be found disabled, or not disabled, at Step 3; therefore, the Claimant's eligibility is considered under Step 4. 20 CFR 416.905(a).

Before considering the fourth step in the sequential analysis, a determination of the individual's residual functional capacity ("RFC") is made. 20 CFR 416.945. An individual's RFC is the most he/she can still do on a sustained basis despite the limitations from the impairment(s). Id. The total limiting effects of all the impairments, to include those that are not severe, are considered. 20 CFR 416.945(e).

To determine the physical demands (exertional requirements) of work in the national economy, jobs are classified as sedentary, light, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 20 CFR 416.967. Sedentary work involves lifting of no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Id. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met. Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing up to 10 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(b). Even though weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. Id. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities. Id. An individual capable of light work is also capable of sedentary work, unless there are additionally limiting factors such as loss of fine dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time. Id. Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). An individual capable of performing medium work is also capable of light and sedentary work. Id. Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(d). An individual capable of heavy work is also capable of medium, light, and sedentary work. Id. Finally, very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying objects weighing 50 pounds or more. 20 CFR 416.967(e). An individual capable of very heavy work is able to perform work under all categories. Id.

Limitations or restrictions which affect the ability to meet the demands of jobs other than strength demands (exertional requirements, i.e. sitting, standing, walking, lifting, carrying, pushing, or pulling) are considered nonexertional. 20 CFR 416.969a(a). In considering whether an individual can perform past relevant work, a comparison of the individual's residual functional capacity with the demands of past relevant work. Id. If an individual can no longer do past relevant work the same residual functional capacity assessment along with an individual's age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an individual can adjust to other work which exists in the national economy. Id. Examples of non-exertional limitations or restrictions include difficulty to function due to nervousness, anxiousness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concentration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficulty in seeing or hearing; difficulty tolerating some physical feature(s) of certain work settings (i.e. can't tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or postural functions of some work such as reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(1)(i) – (vi). If the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-exertional aspects of work-related activities, the rules in Appendix 2 do not direct factual conclusions of disabled or not disabled. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(2). The determination of whether disability exists is based upon the principles in the appropriate sections of the regulations, giving consideration to the rules for specific case situations in Appendix 2. Id.

The evidence confirms recent diagnosis and treatment of migraines, degenerative disc disease, lumbar radiculopathy, morbid obesity, asthma, fatty liver, obesity, hypertension, hyperlipidemia, GERD, migraine, irritable bowel syndrome, mild leukocytosis/thrombocytosis, PTSD, dysthymic disorder, poly substance abuse in remission, rule out mood disorder, bereavement, and borderline personality disorder. Claimant's testimony indicated she can walk 5-10 minutes with a pronged cane, stand 10 minutes, sit 30-45 minutes, and lift a gallon of milk. Claimant's testimony regarding her limitations is mostly supported by the medical evidence and found credible. The less than sedentary physical limitations indicated by Claimant's treating doctors are also supported by the medical records. After review of the entire record it is found, at this point, that Claimant does not maintain the residual functional capacity to perform sedentary work as defined by 20 CFR 416.967(a) on a sustained basis.

The fourth step in analyzing a disability claim requires an assessment of the Claimant's residual functional capacity ("RFC") and past relevant employment. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(iv). An individual is not disabled if he/she can perform past relevant work. Id.; 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3). Past relevant work is work that has been performed within the past 15 years that was a substantial gainful activity and that lasted long enough for the individual to learn the position. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(1). Vocational factors of age, education, and work experience, and whether the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy is not considered. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3).

Claimant has a history of part time work including gas station, dairy queen, and front desk at a college. In light of the entire record and Claimant's RFC (see above), it is found that Claimant is not able to perform her past relevant work if it were available on a full time basis. Accordingly, the Claimant cannot be found disabled, or not disabled, at Step 4; therefore, the Claimant's eligibility is considered under Step 5. 20 CFR 416.905(a).

In Step 5, an assessment of Claimant's residual functional capacity and age, education, and work experience is considered to determine whether an adjustment to other work can be made. 20 CFR 416.920(4)(v). At the time of hearing, Claimant was 30 years old and, thus, considered to be a younger individual for MA-P purposes. Claimant completed some college and has a history of part time work including gas station, dairy queen, and front desk at a college. Disability is found if an individual is unable to adjust to other work. Id. At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from the Claimant to the Department to present proof that the Claimant has the residual capacity to substantial gainful employment. 20 CFR 416.960(2); Richardson v Sec of Health and Human Services, 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984). While a vocational expert is not required, a finding supported by substantial evidence that the individual has the vocational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services, 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978). Medical-Vocational guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix II, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983).

The evidence confirms recent diagnosis and treatment of migraines, degenerative disc disease, lumbar radiculopathy, morbid obesity, asthma, fatty liver, obesity, hypertension, hyperlipidemia, GERD, migraine, irritable bowel syndrome, mild leukocytosis/thrombocytosis, PTSD, dysthymic disorder, poly substance abuse in remission, rule out mood disorder, bereavement, and borderline personality disorder. As noted above, Claimant does not maintain the residual functional capacity to perform sedentary work as defined by 20 CFR 416.967(a) on a sustained basis.

After review of the entire record, and in consideration of the Claimant's age, education, work experience, RFC, and using the Medical-Vocational Guidelines [20 CFR 404, Subpart P, Appendix II] as a guide, Claimant is found disabled at Step 5.

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, and for the reasons stated on the record, if any, finds Claimant disabled for purposes of the MA benefit program.

DECISION AND ORDER

Accordingly, the Department's determination is REVERSED.

THE DEPARTMENT IS ORDERED TO INITIATE THE FOLLOWING, IN ACCORDANCE WITH DEPARTMENT POLICY AND CONSISTENT WITH THIS HEARING DECISION, WITHIN 10 DAYS OF THE DATE OF MAILING OF THIS DECISION AND ORDER:

1. Initiate a review of the application dated April 24, 2014, for MA-P and retroactive MA-P, if not done previously, to determine Claimant's non-medical eligibility. The Department shall inform Claimant of the determination in writing. A review of this case shall be set for March 2016.

2. The Department shall supplement for lost benefits (if any) that Claimant was entitled to receive, if otherwise eligible and qualified in accordance with Department policy.
