3. On February 12, 2019, the Department sent Petitioner a Notice of Case Action denying the application based on DDS/MRT's finding of no disability (Exhibit A, pp. 1-3).
4. On February 28, 2019, the Department received Petitioner's timely written request for hearing (Exhibit A, pp. 1037-1038).

5. Petitioner alleged disabling impairment due to lower back pain, neck pain, trigger finger, spinal stenosis, and COPD.
6. On the date of the hearing, Petitioner was [REDACTED] years old with a [REDACTED], 1967 birth date; she is 5'10" in height and weighs about 180 pounds.
7. Petitioner did not graduate from high school but did obtain her GED.
8. At the time of application, Petitioner was not employed.
9. Petitioner has an employment history of work as cashier.
10. Petitioner has a pending disability claim with the Social Security Administration.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Department policies are contained in the Department of Health and Human Services Bridges Administrative Manual (BAM), Department of Health and Human Services Bridges Eligibility Manual (BEM), and Department of Human Services Reference Tables Manual (RFT).

The State Disability Assistance (SDA) program, which provides financial assistance for disabled persons, was established by 2004 PA 344. The Department administers the SDA program pursuant to 42 CFR 435, MCL 400.10 et seq. and Mich Admin Code, Rules 400.3151 – 400.3180.

Petitioner applied for cash assistance alleging a disability. A disabled person is eligible for SDA. BEM 261 (July 2015), p. 1. An individual automatically qualifies as disabled for purposes of the SDA program if the individual receives Supplemental Security Income (SSI) or Medical Assistance (MA-P) benefits based on disability or blindness. BEM 261, p. 2. Otherwise, to be considered disabled for SDA purposes, a person must have a physical or mental impairment for at least ninety days which meets federal SSI disability standards, meaning the person is unable to do any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment. BEM 261, pp. 1-2; 20 CFR 416.901; 20 CFR 416.905(a).

Determining whether an individual is disabled for SSI purposes requires the application of a five step evaluation of whether the individual (1) is engaged in substantial gainful activity (SGA); (2) has an impairment that is severe; (3) has an impairment and duration that meet or equal a listed impairment in Appendix 1 Subpart P of 20 CFR 404; (4) has the residual functional capacity to perform past relevant work; and (5) has the residual functional capacity and vocational factors (based on age, education and work experience) to adjust to other work. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(1) and (4); 20 CFR 416.945. If an individual is found disabled, or not disabled, at any step in this process, a determination or decision is made with no need to evaluate subsequent steps. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4). If a determination cannot be made that an individual is disabled, or not disabled, at a particular step, the next step is required. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4).

In general, the individual has the responsibility to establish a disability through the use of competent medical evidence from qualified medical sources such as his or her medical history, clinical/laboratory findings, diagnosis/prescribed treatment, prognosis for recovery and/or medical assessment of ability to do work-related activities or, if a mental disability is alleged, to reason and make appropriate mental adjustments. 20 CFR 416.912(a); 20 CFR 416.913. An individual's subjective pain complaints are not, in and of themselves, sufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.908; 20 CFR 416.929(a). Similarly, conclusory statements by a physician or mental health professional that an individual is disabled or blind, absent supporting medical evidence, are insufficient to establish disability. 20 CFR 416.927(d).

Step One

The first step in determining whether an individual is disabled requires consideration of the individual's current work activity. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(i). If an individual is working and the work is SGA, then the individual must be considered not disabled, regardless of medical condition, age, education, or work experience. 20 CFR 416.920(b); 20 CFR 416.971. SGA means work that involves doing significant and productive physical or mental duties and that is done, or intended to be done, for pay or profit. 20 CFR 416.972.

In this case, Petitioner was not working during the period for which assistance might be available. Because Petitioner was not engaged in SGA, she is not ineligible under Step 1, and the analysis continues to Step 2.

Step Two

Under Step 2, the severity and duration of an individual's alleged impairment is considered. If the individual does not have a severe medically determinable physical or mental impairment (or a combination of impairments) that meets the duration requirement, the individual is not disabled. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii). The duration requirement for SDA means that the impairment is expected to result in death or has lasted, or is expected to last, for a continuous period of at least 90 days. 20 CFR 416.922; BEM 261, p. 2.

An impairment, or combination of impairments, is severe if it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(ii); 20 CFR 416.920(c). Basic work activities mean the abilities and aptitudes necessary to do most jobs, such as (i) physical functions such as walking, standing, sitting, lifting, pushing, pulling, reaching, carrying, or handling; (ii) the capacity to see, hear, and speak; (iii) the ability to understand, carry out, and remember simple instructions; (iv) use of judgment; (v) responding appropriately to supervision, co-workers and usual work situations; and (vi) dealing with changes in a routine work setting. 20 CFR 416.921(b). A claim may be denied at Step 2 only if the evidence shows that the individual's impairments, when considered in combination, do not have more than a minimal effect on the person's physical or mental ability to perform basic work activities. Social Security Ruling (SSR) 85-28.

The individual bears the burden to present sufficient objective medical evidence to substantiate the alleged disabling impairments. While the Step 2 severity requirement may be employed as an administrative convenience to screen out claims that are totally groundless solely from a medical standpoint, under the de minimis standard applied at Step 2, an impairment is severe unless it is only a slight abnormality that minimally affects work ability regardless of age, education and experience. Higgs v Bowen, 880 F2d 860, 862-863 (CA 6, 1988), citing Farris v Sec of Health and Human Services, 773 F2d 85, 90 n.1 (CA 6, 1985). A claim may be denied at Step 2 only if the evidence shows that the individual's impairments, when considered in combination, are not medically severe, i.e., do not have more than a minimal effect on the person's physical or mental ability to perform basic work activities. Social Security Ruling (SSR) 85-28. If such a finding is not clearly established by medical evidence or if the effect of an impairment or combination of impairments on the individual's ability to do basic work activities cannot be clearly determined, adjudication must continue through the sequential evaluation process. Id.; SSR 96-3p.

The medical evidence presented at the hearing, and in response to the interim order, was reviewed and is summarized below.

On October 30, 2018, Petitioner was seen at [REDACTED]. Petitioner was scheduled for surgery, but her surgery was canceled by the insurance company because she had no conservative therapy. Petitioner was called and indicated that she did have physical therapy. The hospital called the physical therapy facility which indicated that Petitioner had been a no show for therapy. According to the records, when Petitioner was called back, she began to use profanity and discontinued the call. (Exhibit A, p. 85).

On September 27, 2018, Petitioner was seen at [REDACTED] for an MRI of the spine. The findings included moderate multilevel degenerative changes most prominent at L5-S1 where there was resulting severe right neural foramina' stenosis with impingement of the exiting right L5 nerve root. 2. Moderate neural foramina' stenosis on the right at LA-L5 and on the left at LS-S1 without frank nerve root impingement 3. No spinal canal stenosis. 4. Mild levoconvex scoliosis. (Exhibit A, pp. 655-656).

On September 27, 2018, Petitioner was seen at [REDACTED] for an MRI of the C Spine. The conclusion indicated interval progression of mild-to-moderate multilevel degenerative changes most prominent at C6-C7 where a broad-based disc bulge with superimposed right central disc protrusion causes mild spinal carnal stenosis. The disc protrusion may be impinging upon the exiting right C7 nerve root. No major neural foraminal stenosis. No cord signal abnormality. (Exhibit A, pp. 653-654).

On November 29, 2018, Petitioner attended Physical Therapy at [REDACTED]. The following was noted under Objective relating to her lower extremity.

Patient sits in the chair leaning forward and to the left. Patient has to stand up and walk around the room after sitting for about 10 minutes. Painful PA glides L1- lumbosacral junction more painful distally. Palpation: Tenderness to palpation along SP of L1-S2, right lumbar paraspinals, right PSIS, right iliac crest, and right SI joint. Gait: Patient ambulates with severe antalgic gait with decreased stance time on right, decreased right step length, limited right hip extension. Balance: SLS balance L- 25" R- 2" increased pain on right. Standing back up after bending forward is worse. Patient reports numbness and tingling in the right leg to the top of her foot. She has decreased hip strength; Bilat LE strength. Decreased L ROM; and Poor balance. (Exhibit A, pp. 90-93).

On January 21, 2019, Petitioner appeared for a psychiatric/psychological consultative examination. Petitioner indicated that she has suicidal thoughts, including methods, but no plans. She states they took her off of her antidepressants because she felt like she was addicted to them. Petitioner stated that most of her jobs have ended when she got mad and quit. Petitioner displayed good hygiene and grooming. Petitioner's gait was slow and stiff. Her eye contact was fair. Petitioner does not have any issues with dressing and bathing. Petitioner was in contact with reality. Her responses were spontaneous. Petitioner's affect was depressed and irritable. Her memory was intact. The Medical Source Statement indicated that Petitioner was able to understand, remember, and carry out several step instructions. Petitioner demonstrated moderate impairment in attention, concentration and working memory which would limit her ability to complete multiple-step or complex tasks. Petitioner demonstrated marked impairment in persistence and pace due to pain. She demonstrated marked impaired social interactions due to anxiety and avoidance. (Exhibit A, pp. 557-562).

In consideration of the de minimis standard necessary to establish a severe impairment under Step 2, the foregoing medical evidence is sufficient to establish that Petitioner suffers from severe impairments that have lasted or are expected to last for a continuous period of not less than 90 days. Therefore, Petitioner has satisfied the requirements under Step 2, and the analysis will proceed to Step 3.

Step Three

Step 3 of the sequential analysis of a disability claim requires a determination if the individual's impairment, or combination of impairments, is listed in Appendix 1 of Subpart P of 20 CFR, Part 404. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(iii). If an individual's impairment, or combination of impairments, is of a severity to meet or medically equal the criteria of a listing and meets the duration requirement (20 CFR 416.909), the individual is disabled. If not, the analysis proceeds to the next step.

Based on the medical evidence presented in this case, listings 1.02 (dysfunction – major joints); 1.04 (spine disorders); 3.02 (chronic respiratory disorders); and 12.04 (depressive, bipolar and related disorders) were considered. The medical evidence presented does not show that Petitioner’s impairments meet or equal the required level of severity of any of the listings in Appendix 1 to be considered as disabling without further consideration. Therefore, Petitioner is not disabled under Step 3 and the analysis continues to Step 4.

Residual Functional Capacity

If an individual’s impairment does not meet or equal a listed impairment under Step 3, before proceeding to Steps 4 and 5, the individual’s residual functional capacity (RFC) is assessed. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4); 20 CFR 416.945. RFC is the most an individual can do, based on all relevant evidence, despite the limitations from the impairment(s), including those that are not severe, and takes into consideration an individual’s ability to meet the physical, mental, sensory and other requirements of work. 20 CFR 416.945(a)(1), (4); 20 CFR 416.945(e).

RFC is assessed based on all relevant medical and other evidence such as statements provided by medical sources, whether or not they are addressed on formal medical examinations, and descriptions and observations of the limitations from impairment(s) provided by the individual or other persons. 20 CFR 416.945(a)(3). This includes consideration of (1) the location/duration/frequency/intensity of an applicant’s pain; (2) the type/dosage/effectiveness/side effects of any medication the applicant takes to relieve pain; (3) any treatment other than pain medication that the applicant has received to relieve pain; and (4) the effect of the applicant’s pain on his or her ability to do basic work activities. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(3). The applicant’s pain must be assessed to determine the extent of his or her functional limitation(s) in light of the objective medical evidence presented. 20 CFR 416.929(c)(2).

Limitations can be exertional, nonexertional, or a combination of both. 20 CFR 416.969a. If individual’s impairments and related symptoms, such as pain, affect only the ability to meet the strength demands of jobs (i.e., sitting, standing, walking, lifting, carrying, pushing, and pulling), the individual is considered to have only exertional limitations. 20 CFR 416.969a(b).

The exertional requirements, or physical demands, of work in the national economy are classified as sedentary, light, medium, heavy, and very heavy. 20 CFR 416.967; 20 CFR 416.969a(a). Sedentary work involves lifting no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers, and small tools and occasionally walking and standing. 20 CFR 416.967(a). Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 10 pounds; even though the weight lifted may be very little, a job is in the light category when it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. 20 CFR 416.967(b). Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(c). Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds. 20 CFR 416.967(d). Very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing 50 pounds or more. 20 CFR 416.967(e).

If an individual has limitations or restrictions that affect the ability to meet demands of jobs other than strength, or exertional, demands, the individual is considered to have only nonexertional limitations or restrictions. 20 CFR 416.969a(a) and (c). Examples of non-exertional limitations or restrictions include difficulty functioning due to nervousness, anxiousness, or depression; difficulty maintaining attention or concentration; difficulty understanding or remembering detailed instructions; difficulty in seeing or hearing; difficulty tolerating some physical feature(s) of certain work settings (i.e., unable to tolerate dust or fumes); or difficulty performing the manipulative or postural functions of some work such as reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(1)(i) – (vi). For mental disorders, functional limitation(s) is assessed based upon the extent to which the impairment(s) interferes with an individual's ability to function independently, appropriately, effectively, and on a sustained basis. Id.; 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(2). Chronic mental disorders, structured settings, medication, and other treatment and the effect on the overall degree of functionality are considered. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(1). Where the evidence establishes a medically determinable mental impairment, the degree of functional limitation must be rated, taking into consideration chronic mental disorders, structured settings, medication, and other treatment. The effect on the overall degree of functionality is evaluated under four broad functional areas: (i) understand, remember, or apply information; (ii) interact with others; (iii) concentrate, persist, or maintain pace; and (iv) adapt or manage oneself. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(3). For the first three functional areas, a five-point scale is applied (none, mild, moderate, marked, and extreme). 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(4). The last point on each scale represents a degree of limitation that is incompatible with the ability to do any gainful activity. 20 CFR 416.920a(c)(4).

In this case, Petitioner alleges both exertional and nonexertional limitations due to her medical condition. Petitioner testified that he could dress/undress herself; bathe/shower by herself; use the bathroom independently; eat by herself; complete chores with breaks; prepare meals, reach and climb stairs. Petitioner testified that her son helps her shop for groceries because it is difficult to lift certain items. Petitioner indicated that while she may be able to squat, it would be difficult for her to get back up without assistance. Petitioner stated that she could stand for approximately 20-30 minutes before experiencing pain and could sit for 30-45 minutes before experiencing pain. Petitioner stated that she could use her hands until her right hand "locks up." Petitioner also indicated that both her memory and ability to concentrate is impaired because she goes into a "fog."

Petitioner's testimony is consistent with the medical evidence. The September 27, 2018 MRI revealed that Petitioner had disc protrusion which may be impinging upon her nerve root. In November 2018 during a physical therapy session, Petitioner had to stand up and walk after sitting for only 10 minutes. Further, Petitioner was found to ambulate with severe antalgic gait with decreased stance time on right, decreased right step length and had limited right hip extension. Petitioner was also noted to have poor balance. In December 2018, Petitioner continued to complain about lower back and right leg pain which required two steroid injections.

Additionally, Petitioner's mental health examination revealed that she had moderate impairment in attention, concentration and working memory which would limit her ability to complete multiple-step or complex tasks. Further, Petitioner had marked impairment in persistence and pace due to pain and marked impaired social interactions due to anxiety and avoidance.

A two-step process is applied in evaluating an individual's symptoms: (1) whether the individual has a medically determinable impairment that could reasonably be expected to produce the individual's alleged symptoms and (2) whether the individual's statement about the intensity, persistence and limiting effects of symptoms are consistent with the objective medical evidence and other evidence on the record from the individual, medical sources and nonmedical sources. SSR 16-3p.

With respect to Petitioner's exertional limitations, it is found based on a review of the entire record that Petitioner maintains the physical capacity to perform sedentary work as defined by 20 CFR 416.967(b). Based on the medical record presented, as well as Petitioner's testimony, Petitioner has moderate to marked limitations on her mental ability to perform basic work activities. Petitioner's RFC is considered at both Steps 4 and 5. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4), (f) and (g).

Step Four

Step 4 in analyzing a disability claim requires an assessment of Petitioner's RFC and past relevant employment. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(iv). Past relevant work is work that has been performed by Petitioner (as actually performed by Petitioner or as generally performed in the national economy) within the past 15 years that was SGA and that lasted long enough for the individual to learn the position. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(1) and (2). An individual who has the RFC to meet the physical and mental demands of work done in the past is not disabled. Id.; 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3); 20 CFR 416.920. Vocational factors of age, education, and work experience, and whether the past relevant employment exists in significant numbers in the national economy are not considered. 20 CFR 416.960(b)(3).

Petitioner's work history in the 15 years prior to the application consists of work as a cashier. Petitioner's work as a cashier, which required prolonged standing, reaching, bending and lifting up to ten pounds regularly, required light physical exertion.

Based on the RFC analysis above, Petitioner's exertional RFC limits her to no more than sedentary work activities. As such, Petitioner is incapable of performing past relevant work. Petitioner also has moderate to marked limitations in her mental capacity to perform basic work activities. In light of the entire record, it is found that Petitioner's nonexertional RFC prohibits him from performing past relevant work. Although Petitioner is unable to perform past relevant work, Petitioner cannot be found disabled, or not disabled, at Step 4, and as the assessment is required to continue to Step 5 to determine whether Petitioner can adjust to other work.

Step 5

If an individual is incapable of performing past relevant work, Step 5 requires an assessment of the individual's RFC and age, education, and work experience to determine whether an adjustment to other work can be made. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(v); 20 CFR 416.920(c). If the individual can adjust to other work, then there is no disability; if the individual cannot adjust to other work, then there is a disability. 20 CFR 416.920(a)(4)(v).

At this point in the analysis, the burden shifts from Petitioner to the Department to present proof that Petitioner has the RFC to obtain and maintain substantial gainful employment. 20 CFR 416.960(c)(2); Richardson v Sec of Health and Human Services, 735 F2d 962, 964 (CA 6, 1984). While a vocational expert is not required, a finding supported by substantial evidence that the individual has the vocational qualifications to perform specific jobs is needed to meet the burden. O'Banner v Sec of Health and Human Services, 587 F2d 321, 323 (CA 6, 1978).

When the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the exertional aspects of work-related activities, Medical-Vocational guidelines found at 20 CFR Subpart P, Appendix 2, may be used to satisfy the burden of proving that the individual can perform specific jobs in the national economy. Heckler v Campbell, 461 US 458, 467 (1983); Kirk v Secretary, 667 F2d 524, 529 (CA 6, 1981) cert den 461 US 957 (1983).

However, if the impairment(s) and related symptoms, such as pain, only affect the ability to perform the non-exertional aspects of work-related activities, the rules in Appendix 2 do not direct factual conclusions of disabled or not disabled. 20 CFR 416.969a(c)(2).

When a person has a combination of exertional and nonexertional limitations or restrictions, the rules pertaining to the strength limitations provide a framework to guide the disability determination unless there is a rule that directs a conclusion that the individual is disabled based upon strength limitations. 20 CFR 416.969a(d).

In this case, Petitioner was ■ years old at the time of application and ■ years old at the time of hearing, and, thus, considered to be advanced age (age 50-54) for purposes of Appendix 2. She did not graduate from high school but did obtain her GED. Petitioner has a work history as a cashier. As discussed above, Petitioner maintains the exertional RFC for work activities on a regular and continuing basis to meet the physical demands to perform sedentary work activities.

In this case, the Medical-Vocational Guidelines result in a disability finding based on Petitioner's exertional limitations. Further, Petitioner also has impairments due to her mental condition. As a result, she has a nonexertional RFC imposing moderate to marked to extreme limitations in the ability to understand, remember, or apply information; mild to moderate limitations in the ability to interact with others; marked limitations in the ability to concentrate, persist, or maintain pace and marked limitations ability to adapt or manage herself. The Department has failed to present evidence of a significant number of jobs in the national and local economy that Petitioner has the vocational qualifications to perform in light of her nonexertional RFC, age, education, and work experience. Therefore, the evidence is insufficient to establish that Petitioner is able to adjust to other work. Accordingly, Petitioner is found disabled at Step 5 for purposes of the SDA benefit program.

DECISION AND ORDER

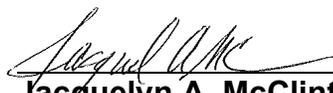

The Administrative Law Judge, based on the above Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, and for the reasons stated on the record, if any, finds Petitioner disabled for purposes of the SDA benefit program.

Accordingly, the Department's determination is REVERSED.

THE DEPARTMENT IS ORDERED TO INITIATE THE FOLLOWING, IN ACCORDANCE WITH DEPARTMENT POLICY AND CONSISTENT WITH THIS HEARING DECISION, WITHIN 10 DAYS OF THE DATE THE ORDER WAS ISSUED:

1. Reregister and process Petitioner's [REDACTED], 2018 SDA application to determine if all the other non-medical criteria are satisfied and notify Petitioner of its determination;
2. Supplement Petitioner for lost benefits, if any, that Petitioner was entitled to receive if otherwise eligible and qualified;
3. Review Petitioner's continued eligibility in November 2019.
